SUMMARY.

The German defeat at Verdun, it is said, has created a bad impression in Bulgaria.

The latest communique says the French carried out numerous concentrations. There were no infantry actions during the day.

A communique says the Germans continue a movement to encircle Morthomme, which, if successful, will involve withdrawal.

The Germans, however, must first take Hill 304, commanding the adjacent wood.

Amsterdam newspapers state that the Allied raid on Zeebrugge destroyed the aerodrome and six aeroplanes.

A Salonica message says the French engaged and drove out the Germans from the heights north-eastward of Matsikova.

A communique says the Russians pierced the enemy organisations in the Jacobstadt sector.

The Russians again advanced south-west of Lake Narotch, south of Dvinsk.

A correspondent at Petrograd says a fierce battle is raging along a line of lakes south of Dvinsk to Molodetchno.

During Sunday's raid on Dover an aviator brought down a second German aeroplane in the Channel.

Several more vessels have been sunk by German submarines, including two Norwegian boats.

It is stated that the Galloper lightship has not been sunk. It has been merely withdrawn.

Count Zeppelin has announced that he is constructing airships that will reach a greater height and carry a heavier load.

It is stated that a secret Turco-Bulgarian alliance was arranged in April, 1914.

Mr. Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, and Lord Kitchener will attend the Allies' War Conference in Paris next week.

Consideration will be given to the conduct of the war. The conference on April 15 will deal with post-war trade.

The Westminster "Gazette" sympathises with the proposal that Mr. Hughes should go to Paris.

Mr. Hughes attended the War Council, and listened to the discussion with the aid of a microphone.

Mr. Lloyd George said in the House of Commons that the question of sending Mr. Hughes to Paris was a delicate one.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald publishes a violent attack on Mr. Hughes, stating that he is not representative of Australian opinion.

Mr. H. J. Tennant states that 36,291 German civilians have been interned in Britain.

A Peking message says the Emperor Yuan Shi Kai has issued a mandate abandoning the establishment of a monarchy.

The Market Harborough by-election resulted in the defeat of Mr. Thomas G. Bowles. Mr Harris (Coalitionist) is the new member.

A wireless message has been intercepted by the naval authorities from the Antarctic ship Aurora.

The message says that the ship has been damaged, and that the party is expected to arrive early in April.

It is also stated that four members of the party have been left in the Antarctic.

There is no mention as to what has happened to Sir Ernest Shackleton's overland party.

Mr. J. H. Catts, M.P., claims that New South Wales has supplied more than 106,854 men since the commencement of the war.

The enlistments in this State in response to the Prime Minister's appeal, from December 1 to March 18, are 20,428.

Mr. Ashford is enthusiastic regarding the possibilities of closer settlement at Batlow.

The Minister indicated that he intends establishing a State sawmill there, in the Crown forests which abound.

The Premier stated last night that the Cabinet yesterday discussed the Railway Amending Bill.

The long-contemplated appointments to the Legislative Council are, it is understood, to be made as soon as the session closes.

In all it is probable that 10 new members will be nominated.

The Premier states that the Railway Commissioners are going ahead with the scheme of direct control of the refreshment rooms.

The idea is to replace the whole of the existing establishments with Government institutions.

Reference was made yesterday by Mr. Justice Heydon to a resolution by a union in favour of cessation of work.

His Honor drew attention to the powers of the Industrial Court to suspend an award if circumstances warranted it.

All the men on the Kempsey-Wauchope section of the North Coast Railway, numbering about 500, have gone on strike.

The strike is due to the refusal of three gangers to become members of the Railway Workers' and General Labourers' Union.

Proposals for the generation of electric power from waterfalls are to be submitted to the Works Committee.

The scheme, which embraces various parts of the State, involves an expenditure of considerably over £100,000.

There will be three or four proposals, the most important being in connection with the overflow from Barren Jack dam.

When the P.L.L. commences its annual conference on April 22 it will be asked to consider 450 proposals.

The Necessary Commodities Commission was yesterday asked to reconsider the prices fixed for pork and bacon.

It was pointed out that the restriction of price was likely to create a serious diminution in supplies.

At a meeting of the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce attention was drawn to the embargo upon the export of coal.

The opinion was expressed that it was ridiculous to see vessels leaving the port in ballast.

The A.N.A. Conference on Thursday decided to urge the appointment of boards to regulate the prices of principal foodstuffs.

The Commandant expressed his approval at the steadiness of the men and the manner in which they marched.

The welfare of the nurses at the front was the object of a collection called "Button Day" in the city yesterday.

It is anticipated that the total of the metropolitan and country collections will be about [illegible].

The burnt body of an elderly man, believed to have been a swagman, was found near Gulgal by a drover on Thursday.

Appearances indicated that a burning limb of a tree had fallen on the man, pinning him down and burning him to death.

The new gates which were erected recently in the basin at Newcastle are expected to be ready for use on April 1.

The Queensland Government has a new scheme to start a cattle station at Dillalah, in the Charleville district.

The "Commonwealth Gazette" notifies the adoption of several new regulations under the War Precautions Act.

A steady production of rifles continues at the Small Arms Factory at Lithgow.

An extremely active market ruled on the Sydney Stock Exchange yesterday. Prices generally were on the firm side.

There was all-round activity in the Mining market. Business in Barriers was particularly brisk, and values were steady.

The bulk of the new-laid eggs yesterday were sold at 2s a dozen. There was no movement in butter.

Forage and grain lines were unchanged. There was a good demand for fruit.

Forecast.—Generally fine, with pleasant temperatures, night fogs and dews; variable winds.

FARMER'S,
SYDNEY,
1840—1916.
Seventy-six Years.

ATTRACTIONS AT FARMER'S, which conclude this morning:—

1. THE DRESSING GOWN AND WRAPPER WEEK.

2. SPECIAL WINDOW DISPLAYS AND DEPARTMENTAL EXHIBITS OF MODERATELY-PRICED DRESS MATERIALS, SILKS, AND FURS.

THESE ATTRACTIONS HAVE YIELDED SO MANY SATISFACTORY PURCHASES TO SO MANY THOUSAND WOMEN THAT, AT THE LAST MOMENT, WE SUGGEST TO THOSE SHOPPERS WHO HAVE NOT ALREADY ATTENDED THE ADVISABILITY AND ADVANTAGE OF PAYING A VISIT TO THE DISPLAYS.

Money can be saved! And we make this assertion with no sordid motive, but rather in keeping with the policy of Economy in Shopping, which Farmer's initiated as far as Sydney is concerned.

THE GOWNS AND WRAPPERS will be seen in the Windows and in the Showroom, Fourth Floor.

THE DRESS MATERIALS AND SILKS
in Windows and Saleroom, First Floor.

THE FURS ARE IN WINDOWS and in the Demonstration Theatre, First Floor.

NEXT WEEK'S PROGRAMME:—
SPECIAL NECKWEAR AND SPORTS COATS WEEK.

In these two departments, some very exceptional buying has resulted in a unique value-standard being established by Farmers.
It is safe to say that such values as our Windows and Showrooms show have never been nearly approached.

The styles and designings are irreproachable—they are correct and fashionable, and the prices lower than has ever been possible before.

Fuller and further particulars will be given in Monday's papers, to which readers are referred.

A NOTE TO COUNTRY RESIDENTS.
Especially in the case of those who cannot come in to shop personally, the next week's announcements will prove interesting.

WE PAY CARRIAGE
on Fashion Goods, Drapery, and Travelling Requisites, but on heavy goods, such as Ironmongery, Crockery, etc., we pay Carriage to the extent of 5 per cent. (1/ in the £) on the amount of purchase.

A SPECIAL CORSET DEMONSTRATION
WILL TAKE PLACE IN OUR CORSET DEPARTMENT, ON THE FIRST FLOOR, FOR ONE WEEK ONLY,
STARTING MONDAY MORNING NEXT, AT 10 O'CLOCK, when, by special arrangement with the makers of the famous
"PARISETTE" MODELS,
Madame Pearce, of the Madame Irene Corset Company (who are the makers of the Parisette Models), will be here to show and explain the very latest ideas in the Corset art, and to fit you with a Corset designed for your especial form. An opportunity that no progressive woman should miss. There will be no charge for consultation or fitting.
SOMETHING ABOUT THE PARISETTE MODEL.
Not because it is the special Corset exploited by this Store, but because it ranks first in quality of material used (including boning, covering, laces, and even the thread with which it is stitched), and in the shaping, which is both graceful and comfortable. We heartily commend the "PARISETTE MODEL."
They are especially noted for the great variety of Models to be found among them—suitable to the various requirements of women who wish to look smaller, slight women who must have curves, average-sized women whose good points should be accentuated. Taboo shapeless Corsets. You'll find the well-fitting "Parisette" a boon after you have tried it—a Rest, a Support, an aid to a better figure. Made by one of the two best Corset-makers in America.
MADAME PEARCE WILL BE AVAILABLE DAILY DURING THE WEEK, from 10 a.m. to 12.30 p.m., and 2.30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

SHIPPING.

EXTRACT from the "Sydney Morning Herald," February 23rd, 1916:—
FREIGHTS. ENORMOUS ADVANCE.
"In July, 1914, goods could have been shipped from New York to Sydney at a cost of from 21/6 to 57/6 per ton; to-day a merchant who got his goods shipped for £9 a ton would consider himself lucky."
In spite of the rises which have taken place, we have not yet raised any of our prices, but AFTER THIS MONTH we shall be compelled to do so.
We usually have about 200 engines in stock in Sydney, and nearly all of these have now paid the maximum freights.
AN OFFER.
We will accept orders at the old rates until the end of THIS MONTH; after that date all prices will be considerably raised. This offer applies to the following engines:—
FERRO Marine, Benzine types. All Powers.
FERRO Marine, Kerosene types. All Powers.
FERRO Outboard with BOSCH Magneto.

"The Supreme Success of Successes" in England and America.

J. AND N. TAIT'S NEW ENGLISH

COMEDY DRAMA COMPANY,

Headed by MISS SARA ALLGOOD,
as
"PEG."

Miss Sara Allgood, a brilliant actress, formerly leading artiste of the famous Irish Players, of the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, was specially chosen by the author of the play for the role of "Peg" in England.

"PEG O' MY HEART" was produced in London in September, 1914. It has run continuously ever since, having just celebrated its 600th London performance, where it is still the leading theatrical success.

Produced in New York it ran for two years, and constituted a record in that city. Last season there were nine companies playing "PEG O' MY HEART" in America, and six companies in England. The reason of its enormous success is because it is singularly rich in human appeal and delightful surprises.

PEG O' MY HEART.

Buoyant youth is the most appealing note of the story, and this coupled with a splendid simplicity and directness of purpose, with here and there a tear to accentuate the interest, reveals immediately the reason for the remarkable hold it has on theatregoers. The play is of exceptional calibre, which makes you feel better for having come in contact with it. There is a tonic value in its laughs, and in this strenuous age anything that can add to the joy of living is not to be underestimated. Peg has made millions laugh and forget their troubles.

PEG O' MY HEART
appeals to every theatregoer as no other story in recent years has done.

MANAGERIAL.

Messrs. J. and N. Tait having secured the sole rights of "PEG O' MY HEART" for Australasia, in presenting it and thereby launching their first theatrical enterprise, feel confident that this wonderfully successful comedy will meet with universal approval, and that this will be the forerunner of a new era in theatrical annals of Australasia, and hope for a continuation of the generous and valued patronage which the public have already accorded their previous efforts.

ALL NEW PROGRAM.
TO-DAY.

AT ALL SESSIONS,

A WONDERFULLY FINE PROGRAM, HEADED BY
"THE GOLDEN CLAW."
5-act Triangle Drama, featuring Bessie Barriscale and Frank Mills.

And the woman, having tasted of the sweets of life, shall go in pursuit of a phantom pleasure, and err on, until she shall find herself at the brink of the abyss from which she cannot draw back. And with her shall be a man, dragged over that road of pleasure which he and thousands of others have helped to build for a woman—for many women, who had thrown to the winds their finer feelings, their deeper instincts, and their true sense of womanhood.

This is the story of just such a woman, and just such a man, and the penalty exacted from both.

In presenting this Ince production as an example of Triangle quality, we wish to demonstrate that sensationalism is no more necessary to dramatic power on the screen than on the stage. It will be noted that throughout the latter half of the play the husband and wife are practically alone on the screen. The occasional entries of other characters are merely incidental reliefs. We can recall no other screen or stage play in which two players alone so completely enthral the senses of their audience.

"The Golden Claw" is going to make lots of friends for Triangle Players.

"THE SUBMARINE PIRATE."

2-act Modern Comedy-Phantasy.

All who saw this picture at the Trade showing pronounced it the most remarkable combination of humour and thrills ever filmed. For it Secretary Daniels, of the U.S. Navy, placed a U.S. Submarine at the disposal of Mr. Sennett. A U.S. Battle Cruiser and a large passenger liner are also used. An ambitious waiter steals the plans of a new submarine from two unpatriotic inventors. After purchasing an Admiral's uniform from a second-hand store, he gets command of the submarine by use of stolen papers, and starts on a career of piracy. He holds up passenger steamers, fights warships, lords it over his own crew, and generally enjoys a hilarious time until mistaken instructions leave him hanging to the periscope of the submerged vessel—and then a hungry shark appears—a full description is impossible, but take our word for it, this comedy outdoes anything you have ever seen.

We think these two productions will convince the public of the uniformly high standard of the Triangle Program. "The Golden Claw" is an entirely different type of film from "The Coward," which was essentially a man's picture. A domestic drama of magnificent power, "The Golden Claw" is a story which every woman, and every married man will approve of appreciate.

A SOLDIER AND A MAN.
A SOLDIER AND A MAN.

YOUR SON,
YOUR BROTHER,
YOUR HUSBAND.

Your nephew, your cousin, or your relation, whatever he may be, he is not only a soldier but a man, a man of right, a man of venture, a man of patriotism, a man of all the true instincts of his race, and worthy to be held in remembrance for all time. This we can help you to do in a faithful photograph enlargement, taken from life.

Before he goes to the front get him to come to us and have a good photo. enlargement of himself in his uniform. Then, in years to come, you will have his lifelike picture in uniform as a sure token that he did his duty as a man in the great war.

Memories are good, but a true portrait is of great aid to memory; it will always give pleasure.

WE GUARANTEE A TRUE LIKENESS.

BLOW v. BLAU.

THE IGNORANCE OF THE EDUCATED.

With an unaccountable lack of reason certain people have associated the name Blow with the name Blau. Blau is German, which translated into English means Blue, quite different from Blow. The Isle of Wight, near Portsmouth, England, has for many generations been the home of the Blow family. The name Blow is well known in English history.

Mark Blow, of the Crown Studios, has held the appointment of Vice-regal Photographer to all the Governors of New South Wales since the days of Lord Carrington.

AFTER-DARK PHOTOGRAPHS.

We take Photographs on Friday Nights up till 9 o'clock quite as good as those taken in daylight, and at the same price.

AN ENGINEER'S IMPRESSION OF THE 1916 STUDEBAKER.

Mr. Allan H. McLean, Chief Engineer and Director of the Tourist Motor Co., Hastings, N.Z., Agents for some years past for the Silent Knight and Minerva Motors, recently went to America with the intention of securing the agency of one of the real top-notch American Cars, whatever the price. He gives his impressions and the result of his investigations in a letter to Messrs. Adams, Ltd., of N.Z., from which the following is an extract:—

> "I have examined practically all the leading American cars, my intention being to secure the Agency for a high-priced automobile. But, after seeing the new Studebaker motors being manufactured, riding in one of them, and thoroughly investigating them, I consider it A WASTE OF TIME TO LOOK FOR SOMETHING BETTER, WHICH CANNOT BE FOUND. The new Studebaker engine is the cleanest motor manufactured in America. Its power is a revelation, and the material is second to none. For quietness it is equal to the Silent Knight or Minerva. All the improvements, without exception, which were considered necessary from our previous experience have been incorporated in this new Studebaker, and I COULD NOT FIND A SINGLE DETAIL THAT I COULD SUGGEST AS AN IMPROVEMENT. The starter and lighting equipment is, in my estimation, the simplest and most reliable made. The body work this year is excellent, and the cabriolet and limousine are magnificent pieces of work, equal in finish and appearance to any of the Minerva cars we have imported."

WE NEED ONLY ADD that you can inspect any of the 1916 Studebaker models at our Showrooms, and it will be a pleasure to demonstrate them to you at any time over any roads

GARFORD UTILITY TRUCKS.

TIME AND EXPENSE SAVERS.

YOU HAVE BEEN CONSIDERING MOTOR DELIVERY. EVERY MODERN BUSINESS MAN HAS, AT LEAST, THOUGHT OF IT. WHY DELAY LONGER? Its ADVANTAGES HAVE BEEN ADMITTED BY USERS, BUSINESS PRESS, AND EFFICIENCY EXPERTS. THE PERIOD OF EXPERIMENTATION IS OVER. HERE YOU HAVE A STANDARDISED TRUCK AND THE STABILITY AND WIDESPREAD SERVICE THAT THE NAME OF THE GARFORD COMPANY ENSURES.

It may have been wisdom to hesitate while the Motor Truck was still in the experimental stage. Now, with the Garford Utility Truck available a standardised truck at a moderate price, with the reputation of its Company behind it—the last reason for delay has vanished.

THE GARFORD UTILITY IS "EVERY PART A TRUCK PART." THE PRESSED STEEL, REINFORCED FRAME, BUILT TO STAND ROUGH ROADS AND HEAVY LOADS—THE LIBERAL USE OF DROP FORGINGS, TO SECURE STRENGTH—TRANSMISSION OF A TYPE THAT RELIEVES THE REAR AXLE AND SAVES TYRES—THE LIMITED SPEED, THAT ELIMINATES "JOY-RIDING"—THE HANDY LOCATION OF THE SEAT. THESE ARE ONLY A FEW OF THE GARFORD UTILITY FEATURES.

WHY DON'T YOU?

WHY DON'T I WHAT?

WHY DON'T YOU BUY A METZ?

LISTEN!

It's a good car. Yes it is—honestly. The first 4 cylinder METZ didn't reach New South Wales from New York last week, but over 4 years ago. We took up the Agency, January, 1912, and right along since then, every week, every month, every year, we have been steadily selling this fine little car.

Now what does this mean actually to you? First, that the car MUST be a good one, for if not how could we have continued to sell them week in, week out? Again, the car is not untried, unknown, it is not an experiment on Australian Roads. And again, is it not reasonable for you to conclude that the METZ must give you complete satisfaction, if Brown and Hellicar, Ltd., have given such splendid satisfaction to hundreds of METZ Owners all over New South Wales?

That is the argument, and the argument is sound, logical, and rings true. This being so, come along and see us, and we'll give you all the proof you need; convincing you as to the sturdy qualities of the METZ, its handsome appearance, its hill-climbing capabilities, its economy in tyres and petrol, etc.

PRICE £200 FOR THE LATEST METZ,
GUARANTEED FOR 3 YEARS,

THE QUESTION OF THE DAY.

The question of to-day, of to-morrow, and of every succeeding day, is

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP. If you have not, you have not done your duty by your skin and complexion. If, on the other hand—that is, on both hands, and on the face, and on the skin generally—you HAVE used PEARS', you can feel happy, for you will have done the best that possibly can be done for the skin's health and beauty. There can be no question about that.

PEARS' has been making beautiful complexions for nearly 120 years.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY SIR HENRY LUCY.)

The Butcher's Bill—On the Western Front—The Zeppelin Fiasco—German Credulity—Domestic Economy—Waste in the Kitchen—Woman's Opportunity.

WESTMINSTER, Feb. 12.

A military critic, rebuking persons impatient at the slow progress of the war on the western front, points out that action offensive and defensive which results in the disabling or killing of 200,000 Germans per month is, if slowly, surely working to the desired end. Questioned just before the prorogation, the Under-Secretary for War put down the total of German casualties to date at something over two millions and a half. Accepting the figure as accurate, and regarding it by itself, it is a fearful load to lay upon the soul of the German Emperor. But a confluence of authority testifies that Mr. Tennant's figures fall far below the actual fact. Just before Christmas a Rotterdam paper, taking figures from the Prussian official list, showed a total of Prussian losses only 150,000 below our War Office estimate. Saxony, Wurtemberg, and Bavaria each has its own death roll, the aggregate greatly swelling the Prussian list. French official returns made up to December 31 give a total German loss of 3,400,000. Add an additional month's butcher's bill of 200,000 and we have a total of 3,600,000 German citizens, their bodies raising a hideous holocaust to the ambition of a single man. According to the latest return (up to January 9), the net British loss, including missing and permanently disabled, is 549,467. Enough, Heaven knows. But a trifle compared with Germany's sacrifice.

Evidence accumulates in support of the theory that the squadron of Zeppelins which last week, passing by London, startled the Midlands, were bound for Liverpool, taking Birmingham and Manchester by the way. The expedition was a failure, but that is not a circumstance that embarrasses the official recorder. Throughout Germany the newspapers published detailed accounts of the destruction of the docks at Liverpool, of the wreck of munition factories and naval dockyards, paralysing British trade. The brief matter of fact statement of what happened issued by our Government was, of course, strictly ignored, and to this day Germany believes that the hated enemy is suffering from a staggering blow. The episode has revived the controversy about reprisals. Lord Rosebery has broken the self-imposed silence that habitually broods over him with sharp demand that the enemy should be repaid in his own base coin. On the other hand, Sir Evelyn Wood and Lord Bryce contend that it would ill become Great Britain to descend from the lofty plane of fair fighting from which she has hitherto conducted her share of the war. I fancy that on the whole Lord Rosebery takes the view most prevalent with the populace.

It is strange how an intelligent, shrewd, highly-educated nation like the Germans can consent to live in such a fool's paradise as is disclosed by their attitude respecting this Zeppelin fiasco. Another interesting phase of study into national character is afforded by the raging indignation with which they continue to assail the captain and crew of the King Stephen trawler, who, unconsciously imitating the fly of fable, declined to walk into the parlour of the wrecked Zeppelin in the North Sea. In the case of the story of ruined Liverpool and paralysis of the once prosperous Midlands, they permit themselves to be misled by the organised lying of their Government. But they know all about the Lusitania, the Persia, and other wholesale murders of innocent civilians on the high seas. Yet when the crew of a British trawler decline to place themselves in the hands of a German crew twice their number, wrecked on their way home, having assisted at the slaughter of scores of non-combatants, including women and children, they denounce it as "an infamous action providing fresh disclosure of the brutality of British character." What would have happened had the captain of the King Stephen yielded to the first impulse of the British sailor and gone to the rescue of the Zeppelin's crew is plain enough. The rescuers would have been tied and bound, flung below, and carried off in their own ship, to experience the clemency of German gaolers.

The cry for economy (chiefly addressed to our neighbours) grows in persistence. The latest advocate is Lord Devonport, who goes to the root of the matter, demonstrating how the current excess of imports over exports, a fatal flaw in national finance, is due to the consumption of luxuries, and how calamity may be averted by abstention from their use. On this subject I have been favoured with an illuminating letter from a lady whose well-managed household is the envy of womankind. "I see," she writes, "that my old friend Lord Devonport has been talking learnedly about the urgent necessity of practising economy in war time. I should like to see him in my kitchen explaining to the girls that wilful waste leads to increased imports, and the consequent disarrangement of the balance of national finance. It is in the kitchen that the battle for economy must be fought, at least to begin with. Even the best of servants have a natural disposition to be wasteful. They regard carefulness in small matters on the part of a mistress as shabby meanness, to be counteracted by generous lavishness when she is out of sight and hearing.

"With long and varied experience of domestic servants, I have noticed a singular unity of practice of wastefulness in little things. For example, they never quite finish a loaf of bread, leaving crusts and odd slices to fill up the bread-pan. When inconveniently stuffed, they empty the contents in the dustbin. The same with soap. If you venture to look in the scullery you will be sure to find four or five remnants melting round a new piece just put out. If they cook by a gas stove having fire-rings of various sizes they invariably boil an egg on the largest. When cooking vegetables with the gas full on and the pan boiling over, instead of lowering the gas, they pull the pan on one side. Such was their sensible practice when cooking at a coal fire, and what is sense for a coal range is surely sense for a gas stove. We are ready enough to practise economy on the dining-room floor. What we want is co-operation in the kitchen."

Looking in for dinner at the Reform Club the other night I happened upon a novel scene. Gone from the dining-room were the waiters in knee breeches, silken stockings, silver-buckled shoes, some of whom I have known for more than a quarter of a century. In their places tripped about waitresses in neat costume of black frocks, white aprons, and coquettish caps. This is a development of the scheme of substituting wherever possible the services of women to the displacement of the more highly-paid men. I hear that the system has been adopted by the neighbouring Athenaeum Club, where aprons have hitherto been in evidence only when worn by such of the members as are bishops. Whilst regretting the shelving of men who have grown old in the service of the club, and who now find themselves suddenly cast adrift, I confess the change is a pleasant one, likely to prove permanent, even after the return of peace renders nugatory the compelling motive of economy.

The fashion is in evidence in all quarters where men were wont to be employed. At the Army and Navy Stores not only do girls manage the lifts formerly in charge of able-bodied men; they form the large majority of those serving behind the counter. In the banks woman clerks predominate. At the railway stations they not only collect tickets, but, more appropriately, do the dusting and cleaning of carriages inside and out, which before the war found occupation for tens of thousands of men. In street traffic they act as tram and 'bus conductors, and are gradually ousting the chauffeur from his seat on the driving box. I have not seen in London women going the rounds of disestablished postmen. In country quarters, with which I am familiar, the outside service, rigorously diminished in the matters of delivery of letters is performed by girls. In town that long-established, most useful institution known as boy messengers may now be more accurately described by use of the feminine term.

A WOMAN'S LETTER.

Dress for the Spring.

LONDON, W., Feb. 10.

I have been wandering about looking at models and conning fashion-book pages in search of something definite in the change of fashion which is swiftly coming towards us. Whether you will welcome these fuller skirts and little short jackets with full basques, I know not. Naturally, there will be many modifications. But at present all the skirts are full and of the umbrella variety, wide round the ankles and plain at the waist, with little coats with ultra full basques; not only that, but these coats are fitted with shoulder capes, which increase the width of the figure and stand out well away from the arms. These capes are often cut in one with the collar band which comes up to the ears. You are literally buttoned up to the chin, and in some cases well over it, for these collars are shaped till they have been christened "the lily" collar. An arum lily best explains what I am driving at. Out of the cup of the lily comes the head and throat of the wearer, the throat towards the opening in the flower. It takes a very long-necked girl to wear anything so tall as the collars now coming into vogue; in fact, the fashions are designed principally for tall, slight people. After all who wear clothes so well, and show off in the same manner long folds and sweeping drapery? It will always be so. For more moderate height are still the well-cut godet skirt and neatly-fitting coat slightly shaped inwards at the waist line. I see a great many models with flowing sack backs to the coats, buttoned up to the neck. These coats worn over full skirts, are very like our clothes of the 'Sixties. They only require a pork pie hat and a wig to complete the resemblance.

All this fulness is the natural reaction after the very tight skirts to which we had become so wedded. There will come a reversion from the present frilliness of skirts and full sleeves to a neat fitting era. In Paris women are leaning towards the Velasquez style of dress. But it is difficult to fix the attention of a French woman to such a definite type. She does not like being turned out as if she were one of a chorus, all dressed more or less alike. She prefers individuality, coupled with the exigencies of her own style and line of figure. The Velasquez is hardly worth considering for practical people. It had a great many faults; it was a hooped gown, the hips were whaleboned, the basques that fitted round the edge of the long pointed bodice like the tabs on a Highlander's doublet were all stiffened. The skirts were wide, and stood out on each side, and long enough even when made for children to touch the floor. You see all this kind of thing in the prints after Velasquez portraits of the Infanta, the daughter of Philip V., and also in the dresses worn by Queen Elizabeth. It was stately, and suitable perhaps for Court dress. It demanded priceless point lace and numbers of little frills and quips and cranks, while of course the gown itself had to be made of stiff old brocade woven with gold and silver threads. It was in every respect sumptuous; not in the least suitable for wearing in war time, even though endless modifications were made.

Materials.

As a matter of fact, materials for dresses will be scarce this season, and a number of fabrics will be used which we have looked down upon. Alpacas, of course, come in handy; for hard wear in dusty weather they are unsurpassed; and even big dressmakers are making up washing voiles in all their new models. To such a pitch of perfection have cotton voiles been brought I am not surprised that they will be brought forward. The only thing that matters is the price. One does not want to pay silk prices for cotton goods. Here is a chance for girls who have learned dressmaking—and I know Australian girls do study this useful art under professional teachers to get the best cut patterns they can—to make up the voiles and muslins themselves. There are many washing materials which, if well cut and fitted, will stand comparisons with any bought gown—spotted muslin of a good quality, white cotton voiles made up with broad tucks, and pretty blouses matching, finished off with lots of small buttons of its own material. I daresay you can get your buttons made for you. I find my tailor will do mine for me; you send your bits of stuff, and he puts them through a proper button-making machine. This is worth striving for in making any of the gowns you intend to wear during your colder season. Buttons are used in great number, very close together. I had a skirt last year that I called my cassock, its buttons were so closely set on.

I wish it were possible to introduce you to the paper patterns now on sale, cut at the house of Madame Myra Bracelin. At one time these patterns could only be obtained at her own shop. I for years had my coats and skirts cut to measure in paper by her sons and made up in the house. Latterly they have taken to paper patterns for the trade, and you find the choicest patterns of the newest clothes on the counters at Whiteley's. You see a blouse in some great house one day and you find the pattern for sale the next.

Blouses have never been more beautiful than they are at present. They are made in fine soft ninons and other thin fabrics, and are corded on the shoulders, throwing all the fulness down over the bust. These, lined with white ninon, are the rage. Shirts become, I am glad to say, neater and more like shirts. I saw a model the other morning that had its fronts and collar cut in one piece. This joined on to a portion which was fulled in from the shoulder, and it had a neat, well-fitting yoke at the back. The sleeves were Raglan, and were cut full, with a close-fitting cuff folded over, as indeed was the collar. Not a button showed, the front pleat fastened with small clip hooks. This blouse was made in broad striped Shantung, in pink and cream. I was impressed by its extreme smartness, combined with exquisite shirtmaking.

It is said in Paris that we shall see the Watteau amongst the coming season's fashions. I daresay this may prove to be correct, but the Watteau style of gown will hardly be used for anything except a smart rest gown. For that purpose it is always a becoming and graceful style. The vogue for panniers will be best expressed with the Watteau dress, for they came in together.

Hats.

As for hats and touches of new millinery, the shops are bewildering. They are trimmed very high, and have narrow, very narrow brims. Most of them are made of ribbon, with great flounces of ribbon standing up half way round, the front being filled in with flowers. All the new flowers are made as flat as possible, so that they lie well on the hats. I saw a hat only yesterday with a high crown, which at its narrowest point was surrounded with roses. Violets in bunches are worn placed together. But the broad Breton sailor still rules supreme. It is so much more becoming than the narrow eccentric hats one sees displayed on all sides. These sailors are invariably made in silk and velvet, or ribbon stretched over a buckram shape, and lined with velvet of the same tone of colour. It is really too early to say exactly what will be worn. Women are still in furs and winter hats.

I saw some pretty neck finishes at Jay's which I liked. Most of them were made of taffetas; the shape was that of a high all-round frill cut on the cross and boned well on the foundation. The covering was brown taffetas, gathered into the neck band, and standing some six inches up at the back. It had a frill or flounce made of double taffetas which went well on the shoulders, finished off at the join, or perhaps cut all in one and gathered on to an unseen neck-band. The interior was filled with deep kiltings of tulle as high as the upper part of the frill; it closed in front close round the neck, and had a bouquet of roses and small flowers sewn on to the left side. There were several of them, but this was the style. You could, of course, make them in any coloured taffetas to match the gown you are wearing.

Australia will always be Australia, and Lipton's Tea the Finest Obtainable.—Advt.

WAR TIME IN LONDON

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Air Raids and Extra Precautions.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

There can be no doubt that the raid of last week on Staffordshire, Derbyshire, and the Midland towns rather surprised our authorities. They appear to have been regarding it as certain that aerial invasion of England, when it did not touch London, would amount to no more than attack upon coastal towns. Now they know that centres of population far removed from the coast are equally liable to assault by air. The people of such places, too, no longer can hope, as no doubt they have hoped hitherto, to find themselves always outside the danger zone. And having discovered their mistake, they are saying hard things as to authority's failure to advise them of this contingency which on Monday of last week became a fact accomplished. Some towns, it appears, were warned of the approach of Zeppelins, and others were not. The warned towns put out their lights, and escaped. The unwarned towns, with their lights merrily burning, provided so many targets for the bomb-thrower as he passed overhead. Angry statement is, as a result, both loud and voluble, and ever so many Mayors of provincial towns have determined to wait no longer for instructions from London as to lights and warnings in advance, but to frame regulations for themselves. As a matter of fact, the central authority does not seem to have made up its mind as to whether warnings in advance of a raid are advisable; but as to lights, this week has seen the issue of an instruction which enforces the darkening of many towns hitherto outside the radius of darkness. That much, at anyrate, last week's attack has done for us. In London, of course, the lighting remains as it was. It is not far off the minimum of almost total eclipse. Just lately the trees on many of the boulevarded streets have been whitewashed half-way up the trunk. This is ignominious handling of a tree, but very necessary to the well-being of numbers of inoffensive citizens, who, emerging from the brilliancy of underground stations, say, have groped across the surface roadway only to be hurled back from the haven of the sidewalk by violent collision. Having reached, that is to say, the kerbstone of their desire, they have cannoned into some substantial and wholly invisible tree trunk, of which in every street hundreds are available for this now familiar joke of London's night. Now, however, by virtue of their splash of whitewash, these trees can be seen coming, and to walk on a suburban pavement is a fine art that is concerned only with the encompassing darkness, and is no longer complicated by unseen immovable obstacles.

Films and Picture Shows.

There is trouble in the picture-show world. Rumour has it that the Government, in pursuance of its plans for organised national economy, is about to prohibit the importation of films. At present, no more than rumour is abroad, but the film trade, already hit by the new duty on imported films, has taken alarm, and meetings of its leaders are anxiously in progress. The extent of this possibility may be gauged by the fact that if it should turn out to be true—at least, so we are told—some 90 per cent. of the picture-theatres would close, capital aggregating between 20 and 30 millions sterling would be affected, and half a million people would be thrown out of work. Some of the English films are admittedly excellent, but they represent no more than 20 per cent. of the existing demand. Last year films to the value of £1,210,000 sterling were imported. Of that sum £1,110,000 was concerned with American films, and loud will be the lamentation in that country if a prohibitive impost should now obliterate its picture trade with England. Also, we should probably lose Charlie Chaplin. With us here his fame is so great and so universal that it is constantly said in rebuke of us by those whose duty it is to bewail our foolishness, that Charlie Chaplin is, despite the war and all that it ought to mean, the best-known and the most popular man in the world to-day. I believe they are right. Why we should send more than a million sterling to America when most of that sum could usefully be circulated within the picture trade of this country passes understanding. Undoubtedly it is expenditure that should be deflected homewards—and that, precisely, is what import duties and import prohibitions have in view.

Less Sugar.

Our sugar warning is no rumour. It is, on the contrary, a plain statement by the Government that the use of sugar must be restricted, inasmuch as sugar is about to be added to the list of articles—fruit, tobacco, wood-pulp—already marked down for diminished entry into England. This, of course, approaches the revolutionary. Sugar is so variously used that its lessened supply must affect many industries. In the matter of jams and preserves and other foods it is admittedly a useful article of diet; but there can be no doubt that in respect of confectionery and other sweet stuffs its enormous consumption is a matter of luxury pure and simple. It is when we come to beer, however—the wine of this country—that sugar and the use of sugar looms largest. As a substitute for malt its employment touches the gigantic—3,000,000 tons and more annually—and with less sugar available more malt will be necessary, and malt means barley, and there must be imports of that grain to meet the deficiency of home supplies, and already barley occupies as much tonnage as the sugar that is now to be restricted for the sake of tonnage. Such are some of the complications of our sugar problem, most of which, too, will merge presently into the tragic disaster of a rise in the price of beer, a war-time catastrophe compared with which most other of the war-time tragedies of England are the mere shadows of a dream. Some people, however, are saying that, inasmuch as the Government is hesitating over a restriction of barley they are mindful of the case of beer after all, and beer will somehow escape.

Australian Press Association.

The widening of Fleet-street has at last necessitated the removal from No. 80, where it has been housed these 40 years, of the Australian Press Association, whose function is to provide the cables which morning by morning are for so many Australian readers the news of the world. To mark an occasion by virtue of which the London head of the service, Mr. T. S. Townend, leaves an office that has been for all those years the scene of his labours, the staff entertained him last week at dinner, inviting besides some representative Australians in London, journalistic and otherwise. Many kind things, of the sort that is no more than the due reward of a respected chief, were said of Mr. Townend by members of his staff, and he in turn made admirable use of his knowledge of Fleet-street in a quite fascinating description of that wonderful centre of the newspaper world in respect of its association with the Australian cable service. It was quite an inspiriting function, and not least so because it had for its object some slight testimony by those who know him best to a journalist who has done great work upon a generation of Australians quite content, so long as that work was done, to remain unknown to and hardly even imagined as existing by the vast majority of his readers.

A North Sea Myth.

Compulsion came so far into operation yesterday that a proclamation under the Military Service Act, calling upon single men from 19 to 30 years of age was posted throughout the country. Yesterday, therefore, is a day that will live in history. It was also the day on which was issued one of the war-rumours which just fail to be war history. It was all over London. I heard it quite early, and it was audible all day long. It told of a fearful battle in the North Sea. At least six super-Dreadnoughts were lost to us; but the German navy had been devastated to the number of 14 ships of the first importance. The numbers varied as the day went on, until at evening it was a matter of gloomy debate as to whether more than a fragment of navy remained to either side. Undoubtedly it was a story, this of the greatest of sea fights. Yesterday that is. To-day it has vanished into the limbo of the might have been. The Press Bureau, and with it the Admiralty, know nothing of a sea-fight. In point of fact there was no sea-fight. But at least the marvel of that lightning spread of rumour remains to us.

JAPAN AND EXPATRIATION.

A WARNING TO AUSTRALIA.

(BY DR. J. INGRAM BRYAN.)

TOKYO, Feb. 11.

An Expatriation Bill has just been introduced into the Imperial Japanese Diet, which, if it becomes law, will prove one of the most significant international measures in the nation's history. The crux of the Japanese immigration problem has been the refusal of the Japanese Government to acquiesce in the naturalisation of Japanese subjects in foreign countries. The attitude was not a mere whim of narrow nationalism, but the logical and necessary outcome of Japan's theory of patriotism, which holds the Imperial House to be divine and expatriation as treason. The majority of Japanese going abroad for settlement proved quite unwilling to run the risk of attempting to defy the sacred tenets of the nation; but there were always some who did not hesitate to attempt naturalisation, especially in the United States. Yet, America, no less than other countries, hesitated to welcome the naturalisation of Japanese, lest the change of citizenship should prove to be a mere outward form with no reality. Indeed, it was difficult to see how a Japanese could transfer his allegiance as long as his Government refused to agree to it. It is now proposed that Japan shall recognise the right of certain of her citizens to expatriation when they so desire; but whether the very conservative portion of the Imperial Diet will concede the privilege remains to be seen.

Why the question is brought forward at the present juncture is probably due to the problem created by Germans in the United States. Since many of the German subjects in America have proved a source of menace to American neutrality during the war, Japan has begun to feel that the uneasiness thus created is likely to work against the interests of foreigners in the United States, and more especially against those foreigners without the privilege of American citizenship. Moreover, the main reason why the Webb law in California militates against Japanese interests is because the Japanese are not, and supposedly cannot, become citizens of the United States. Japan maintained that the law was aimed at her nationals, though the law made no mention of any race or nation. The only reason why the law proved specially inconvenient to the Japanese was because of their inability to secure citizenship, which, in fact, most of them did not wish to acquire, since it might militate against them at home. The situation then was that the Japanese could not evade the Webb law, because they could not become citizens of the United States, and the American Government did not concede them citizenship because they were deemed incapable of taking advantage of such a privilege owing to their peculiar ideas on nationality. What Japan now proposes to do is to remove the grounds of America's excuse for not granting Japanese the rights of naturalisation. The new bill, if passed, will not, of course, make it much easier to bring about an increase of Japanese immigrants to California, which is what the nation most desires; but it will enable many of the Japanese to become American citizens, with a clear conscience and without danger of being brought to account for it by their government, and thus place them in the same position as other immigrants, with regard to the land law in California. The only question that will then remain is whether the United States will formally concede Japanese rights of naturalisation. If the expatriation bill becomes law Japan will have done all that she can to solve the difficulty now obtaining between her and America, and thenceforth the responsibility will rest on the latter to concede Japanese the same privileges as the nationals of all other countries enjoy now in the United States, namely the right of naturalisation, and its resulting advantages.

Judging from reports in the American press it seems that it was possible for Germans to obtain naturalisation in the United States and still retain German citizenship. The new bill now before the Japanese Diet will preclude foreign-born Japanese placing themselves in so dishonest a position. Japan realises how sternly the American mind is now set against all that savours of dual nationality. It is expected that in future the American Government will be more sensitive and exacting than hitherto in regard to the position of foreigners within its borders; and Japan does not want the new situation to render still more unenviable the position of her nationals across the Pacific. At present all Japanese born in America and in Hawaii are registered in the Japanese consulates as Japanese citizens, and many of these, to all intents and purposes, are born Americans. In fact, the status of many Japanese in American territory has been rendered ambiguous if not anomalous by the attitude of their Government at home. The attempt is now being made to remove the evil as far as Japan is concerned, and then America will have to do the rest toward the solution of the differences between the two countries. But if there is one thing that the more conservative Japanese cannot endure it is any tendency to weaken the long-held sacredness of Japanese citizenship. It is to them something like what it would be to a devoted Christian to have to say whether a disciple of Christ should transfer his allegiance to Buddha on migrating to India or Japan. To Japan patriotism is religion. In fact, Japan has no other religion than patriotism, and no god save the Imperial House and its ancestors. How the House of Peers in Tokyo will deal with the Expatriation Bill is a very doubtful problem. I have discussed this question for years with Japanese of all classes, from the highest Government official to the boy at college; and I have never yet met a Japanese who would agree to the abandonment of his Japanese citizenship. If there are Japanese in America willing to do so in sincerity and truth, they have been radically changed by their new environment. But the new bill proposes that the Japanese Government will not place Japanese subjects abroad in a different position from other nationals, and thus expose themselves to discrimination. After the war is over Japan expects her subjects in the British colonies to receive far more liberal treatment than hitherto. In the vernacular press of late there has been much agitation on this subject. It is said that the immigration difficulty cannot be settled in the United States until it is first adjusted in Canada and Australia, the argument being that if Japan's ally will not grant Japanese subjects equal rights with all other nationals, how can America be expected to concede such rights? The bill is thus as much a warning to the British colonies as to America. It means that Japan, having done all she can to enable her subjects to be, to the countries they emigrate to, all that any other immigrants can be, henceforth expects the English-speaking nations to treat her and her subjects as equals, with mutual exchange of citizenship.

The Expatriation Bill, as now worded, has one feature that Western countries will be apt to regard as a fatal weakness. It provides for the expatriation of all Japanese born in foreign countries, and of all Japanese women who are married to foreigners, but says nothing about adult Japanese who emigrate to foreign countries. In the absence of any provision covering their case it must be presumed that the present law will obtain, which refuses to acknowledge their naturalisation in a foreign State. Some will see in this an attempt to discourage the immigration of good citizens, while enabling those born abroad to take advantage of their position to utilise their advantage to the fullest. Thus, Japanese born in California can naturalise themselves with the consent of the American authorities, and then own land; and a Japanese not born in America will be able to hold land in the name of a naturalised Japanese, thus covering many difficulties. This, however, will not be quite acceptable to many Americans. Even the minors born abroad must obtain the permission of the Japanese Minister of Home Affairs before acquiring foreign citizenship. The limitation of the privilege of naturalisation abroad to minors only, and to minors born abroad, will not be thought as much of a concession as might be expected. Adult Japanese immigrants are doubtless esteemed too valuable an asset to the State to be given the freedom of acquiring citizenship abroad. They must stand at the call of their Government at any time. This habit Japan has of attempting to do something and then just not wholly doing it is one that is peculiar to the nation, and has to be taken for what it is worth by other countries. Yet there is no doubt that should the expatriation bill become law, limited as it is to minors born abroad, it will settle the land ownership problem in California, if the American Government is ready to concede rights of citizenship to the children of Japanese who have been born in United States territory. It would certainly have a sweeping effect in Hawaii, where there are thousands of American-born Japanese. But Japan will expect similar concessions to her subjects born in Canada and Australia.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

A FRENCHWOMAN ON THE WAR.

There have been many books about France at war. Some have been written by British authors and some by neutrals; always the note has been one of admiration, and, one may add, surprise. It appears as if Germany's belief in the decadence of France was not confined to Germany. Yet, when all is said and done, France more than any of the greater Allies has thrown her whole national soul into the war. France is in arms in a sense that no other belligerent, save Germany, is. From the beginning she has borne the greater share of the heat and burden of the day on the western front. At this moment she is stemming the tide of invasion in a welter of blood at Verdun. Are these symptoms of decadence? The fact of the matter is that France has been far too busy to write books lately; the interpretation of her spirit has been left to outsiders, who find it hard to reconcile what they have seen in the trenches with what they have seen in Paris peep-shows (often, by the way, run for the benefit of tourists). So one welcomes "A Frenchwoman's Notes on the War," by Mlle. Claire de Pratz. The author is a novelist whose stories have achieved success on both sides of the Channel. Her impressions of the war may not be authoritative, but they are extremely interesting. She was never very close to the front, but in France one is never far away from it, for France is to-day a gigantic hospital and drilling ground.

When the storm clouds gathered the author was spending a holiday in Brittany. There she had her first lesson in the national temper. The true Parisian used to consider the provincial a somewhat oafish individual, though since he has been proud to imitate his example. In the Breton coastal villages (which provide a great proportion of the crews for the navy) the declaration of war meant that practically every able-bodied man was called to the colours. Their women-folk saw them go without a tear, though they knew that larders would be empty and homes desolate before the star of peace returned. But the Bretons did not waste time in vain regrets. They had plenty to do; first they welcomed the British regiments who passed through on their way to the front, and later they befriended the human wreckage on its way back. Still later they entertained refugees from the provinces in the occupation of the enemy. There was no one so poor but had some little gift; the story of the widow's mite is eternal in its truth. However, Brittany does not monopolise the virtue of the race, and wherever the author went she witnessed the same thing. In the north they were a little more phlegmatic, in the south a little more effusive, but that was the only difference.

Some writers have had much to say about the phenomenon of a "new born" France. Mlle. de Pratz will have nothing to do with their theory. She sensibly points out that such things do not happen in the life of nations. Individuals may reform their ways in the face of a crisis, but the organisation of a nation is far too complex to permit of a sort of death-bed repentance. She is convinced that to-day we have not a new France, but the old France, the race of fighters, the ancient but honourable foe of Britain throughout the centuries, our indomitable "friend the enemy," whose relation to us Rudyard Kipling has expressed in the line—

Oh, my sister, we have lived greatly through all time!

It will soon be a thousand years since England and France began their first Crusade in partnership; the present Crusade takes us back to those days. "She is not a changed France," says the author, "but the former France re-arisen. She is not a 'new France,' but a very old France. Surely that has been proved on the battlefields of this war. No country, either of the present or the past, could improvise any of the sudden heroism which we see to-day. An old traditional spirit of the finest valour is necessary to reveal the qualities which our soldier-citizens have shown since the beginning of this war."

As a Frenchwoman, Mlle. de Pratz is able to speak about certain subjects—current French politics, for instance—which it would be hardly tactful for the outsider to discuss. It is true that party politics no longer exist, but it is also true that the war has in a sense emphasised and crystallised—two rival principles. Before the war there were literally dozens of parties, each with their acknowledged leader. Their differences were legion, but it was possible to divide them roughly into two groups, whose members were agreed, at any rate, upon three cardinal points of national policy. On the one hand, there were those who desired the maintenance of the Republic; they were also averse to clericalism in any form and to militarism in any form. Their opponents, with the usual political catch-words of the piping days of peace, dubbed them anti-religionists and unpatriotic. On the other hand, there were those who believed in a monarchy, a State Church, and a system of defence which would be proof against any surprise. So they were called reactionaries and militarists. These differences have been forgotten for the time being, when everyone is working together, and the former pacifists in the Chamber are as unflinching in their resolve to fight to the bitter end as the most inveterate fire-eaters. But in Mlle. Pratz's opinion, the war has consolidated political sentiment on either side, and it was necessary for the politician to walk extremely warily. France has seldom shown much hesitation in "scrapping" her institutions when they do not satisfy her, and in August, 1914, those in power (we should remember that there have been subsequent changes) were faced with a ticklish problem. If the experience of 1870 were repeated, the experience of 1871 might also be repeated:—"The nation might consider the Republican Government as the responsible cause of defeat, and speedily arise to overthrow it." But if France were victorious, the danger might be still greater. "The enthusiasm of the masses would be such that a victorious general might easily be transformed into a military dictator. So that, in either case, the possibility of the fall of the Republic was to be apprehended." So the author continues, when the time came for the appointment of a generalissimo, the Government looked about for a "safe" man. Their choice fell upon Joffre "because he was known to be a firm Republican, a free-thinker, and a man devoid of any personal or political ambition." This, if true, is a curious sidelight on the way that history is made. One suspects Mlle. de Pratz of Royalist sympathies, but at the same time there is nothing improbable or discreditable to the authorities in her tale. Whatever motives guided their choice, they showed singular discernment, and the Allies have reason to bless the sequence of events, fears, and hopes that put Joffre at the wheel. (Constable and Co.)

PRISONERS OF WAR.

The last number of the "Times' History of the War" is concerned with a subject which apparently urgently requires ventilation, and that is the treatment of prisoners of war. No more damning indictment against Prussian methods could be found than in these pages, which very quietly and very unemotionally compare the lot of those who are perforce sojourning behind barbed wire or prison walls in the belligerent countries. The very moderation of the point of view makes it the more effective. The "Times" historian industriously compares and collates. His material is provided by the report of the American Diplomatic Service, which undertook the humanitarian task of inspecting prisoner-of-war camps all over the world, and of endeavouring to alleviate the lot of their inmates where it seemed necessary or possible. The historian seldom draws conclusions; he leaves us to draw them for ourselves, and it is not difficult for us to do so.

We are reminded that never before have nations had such a problem to deal with. Never before have they been called upon to provide for their captives by the hundreds of thousands. Necessarily, in the early days of hostilities there was much to be desired everywhere; but by the time that the American Commission began its investigations there had been ample opportunity to make good the original defects of organisation. Every belligerent, except Germany, seems to have done so. Russia's method was extremely characteristic. German prisoners were sent to Siberia and billeted on farms, heralded by an Imperial proclamation declaring that they were men and brothers, and must not be made responsible for their nation's iniquities. Every German prisoner in Siberia fares exactly the same as his host. No better, and no worse; such is the Imperial decree.

Germany has now become the real "Siberia" and all that it connoted to the last generation. Mr. J. W. Gerard, the American Ambassador in Berlin, was responsible for very exhaustive, though unsatisfactory, tour through the German camps. Simultaneously a similar tour was being made in Britain. In Britain the American representative went unattended and unannounced. He spoke to prisoners in private; he even dined with them. No one interfered with his comings and goings. His colleagues in Germany had a different experience. An officer accompanied them on their rounds. Sometimes they were not permitted to speak to anyone save in his presence; sometimes they were told that on no account must they talk in low tones; sometimes they were forbidden to interview certain individuals; sometimes they received complaints only to learn later that the complainers had been penalised. Sometimes the proceedings became so patently farcical that the investigator in disgust cast the dust of the place from his shoes, and refused to continue, an attitude which contributed to America's honour, but not to her popularity in Germany.

To give the devil his due, there are some camps of which Germany need not feel ashamed. Much depends on the commandant. "Dug-outs," like superannuated judges and retired admirals, not infrequently remembered that they were gentlemen and treated their charges on the same footing. But every prisoner may pray to be delivered from the tender mercies of the new regime, the schoolmaster, who has exchanged his cane for a sabre, or the "business-man," who believes that discipline can only be maintained by deliberate cruelty. Of cruelty we hear too much in these pages. One need not afflict the reader with illustrations. And yet, though we may feel very bitter about the whole thing, we are reminded that there should be no thought of reprisals. In the first place, they are futile; in the second they are improper. Prisoners of war, whether interned civilians or the captives of our bow and spear are entitled to be treated decently whatever our sentiments about them may be. At Wittenburg, for instance, the American Ambassador, reports that "The camp authorities, instead of regarding their charges as honourable prisoners of war, it appeared to me, regarded the men as criminals whom a regime of fear alone would suffice to keep in obedience." Here is an example which most emphatically should not be followed. The British are not likely to follow it, even in the moments of most extreme indignation. No one would wish to enable the future historian to dig out such a passage as that referring to Wittenburg to the eternal discredit of the British Empire. (Times Co.)

THE GERMAN OCTOPUS.

Although it tells us little that we have not heard before from one source or another, "German Conspiracies in America," by Mr. W. H. Skaggs, contrives to be quite interesting. We always like to hear the worst about the enemy, and the best about our friends, and this compilation—Mr. Skaggs will confess that it is little more—gratifies both instincts. But the book is not to be dismissed as a mere record of twice-told tales of German activity in the United States. It is, for one thing, very up to date; it carries us up to the curious foundations on which Boy Ed, von Papen, Dumba, and their gallant crew hoped to build an enduring German Empire, and an enduring friendship between Germany and America. The author has little difficulty in showing that the two concepts are quite incompatible. But the usefulness of this book does not depend upon its up-to-dateness. Indeed, it is rather the reverse. Mr. Skaggs is one of the few pro-ally writers in America who does not attempt to burke the fact that before the war there was an element of anti-British sentiment among people who could be suspected of no German sympathies whatever. The legacy of the American revolution had remained, and there were some who cherished as a sort of heirloom a hearty hatred towards British regulars. The author reminds them (and us) that in those times we too often fought our country's battles with Hessians and Brandenburgers. The stalwart Briton in the ranks was not a pattern of virtue, and the day had not yet come when a Wellington, with an army of occupation produced such a state of discipline in his force that "no man dared wring the neck of a chicken lest before he had eaten it his own neck should be wrung."

This is the century-old tradition of the British army, but Mr. Skaggs admits that there were some die-hards in America whose memory kept the prejudice alive. Even these are beginning to modify their views. From the outset they sympathised with France and Belgium; they were a trifle suspicious of Russia; they were not interested in England. They are now whole-heartedly pro-Ally. For whatever be the sins of omission or commission among the individual allies, none of them has ever dreamed of putting a Belgium into the torture chamber and sinking a Lusitania. The German element, naturally, remains a doubtful quantity. Millions are frankly pro-German. Millions of the first and second generation, maintain a sphinx-like silence, and their vote is sedulously cultivated by politicians. Meanwhile explosions occur in munitions factories and in ships which may conceivably be carrying their products. Mr. Skaggs reproduces in detail the evidence he has compiled about the web which German espionage has woven round and about America, so that in certain hotels in certain cities from the time you go to your bath in the morning to the time you go to bed, every movement is reported. Their methods are often subtle, often crude, and often very scientific, as in the case of Mexico. The chapter on Mexico is well worth reading, particularly in view of recent developments. Mr. Skaggs observes that "German drill-sergeants, spies, and pacifists are tireless and ubiquitous; the evidence of their work in Mexico will be uncovered in due time, and the futility of our policy of 'watchful waiting' will also come out in due time." Was it a lucky guess or was it due to genuine foreknowledge that in the last week the cables have told us about a very systematic attempt of Germans in Mexico to embroil the United States. It is not without significance that on July 30, 1914, the German cruiser Dresden called at Puerta, Mexico, and that its captain offered General Huerta this ship "for any use he cared to make of it."

Mr. Skaggs is an American, who frankly favours his own country's armed intervention on grounds both of morality and interest. On the one hand, he feels that a great Power should register its effective protest against the crimes which are being committed in the name of war. On the other, he is convinced that the maintenance of American ideals is inseparably connected with the defeat of Germany. Once let Germany control the highways to the Atlantic and America's complacent isolation departs never to return. The first feather to be pulled out of the tail of the American bird of freedom will be the Monroe doctrine. This is the opinion of most Americans who have given the question serious thought. But there is room for great difference of opinion whether America would help the Allies very much by entering the lists. Many Americans, and for the matter of that many Allies, think that she is doing us the best possible service by making munitions for us, and lending us money, and providing us with an excellent market both for buying and selling. (Fisher Unwin.)

BELGIUM'S GRATITUDE.

The war has been responsible for many publications identified with various eleemosynary objects, but hitherto we have met with none of quite the same type as "A Book of Belgium's Gratitude." All proceeds from its sale are to be handed to Queen Mary to dispose of as she thinks best, and in so far the "Book" may be said to have a charitable purpose and to have an excellent claim on the public on that account. But, primarily, it is an acknowledgment by representatives of the Belgian nation of what Great Britain and Greater Britain have done for stricken Belgium. This the editor points out in a graceful preface, but in point of fact one feels that the obligation has been wholly on our side. No service rendered by the British Empire to Belgium is commensurate with our debt to her. By glorious precept and example Belgium showed even the doubtful and the fainthearts the path where honour led even to the grave. Whatever Britain has been able to do for Belgium, whether in the field or in other ways, it is all too little to repay her.

"A Book of Belgium's Gratitude" does not claim to be specially distinguished in a literary or an artistic sense. It contains contributions from the leading exponents of Belgian literature and art, but the design of the volume is not merely to gratify the esthetic palate. The welcome which the Belgian refugees received in Great Britain is a subject upon which many writers who make no pretensions to talent enlarge with enthusiasm. From John O' Groats to the Land's End they have something nice to say about their hosts, and apparently these refugees have often managed to save one thing from the wreck, and that is a sense of humour which tides over many an awkward contretemps when the language question has produced difficult and often ludicrous results. Rabelais would have revelled in some of these, but the editors are very discreet. Interesting articles are contributed by professors from various Belgian universities. Soon after the outbreak of war the British universities found themselves with few to teach. The Belgian colleagues were made free of British academe, and now the tradition of Louvain, or, at any rate, its valiant shadow, is being carried on in Oxford. Another articles describes the efforts of the Belgian Diplomatic Service in South Africa in the earlier days of the war. This was when no one knew what the Union's attitude was going to be, and when even brother was chary of speaking his inmost thoughts to brother. A team of Belgian orators went on a sort of roving commission through the country, and their claim that their plain statement of the international position and of their nation's wrongs turned the scale in many a wavering mind is without doubt well founded. MILITARY MANUALS.

From Messrs. Angus and Robertson we have received several little military manuals which should prove extremely useful to our soldiers. It is recognised now that the developments of the present war have to some extent made previous methods of training obsolete. The bayonet, for instance, so far from being superseded, is as important an arm as it was in the Crimean campaign, and in operations where the trenches are only a few yards apart the old-fashioned hand grenade or bomb has shown itself to be a most effective weapon. Yet, just because the bayonet and the bomb, in the opinion of military writers, belonged to a bygone era in war, there was no modern text book devoted entirely to their use. Messrs. Angus and Robertson have supplied the omission. In "How to Learn and Instruct in Bayonet Fighting," Staff Sergeant-major Fallon, with the assistance of S. S.-M. Stanford, describes every method of attack and defence with this arm, and illustrates them with a large number of "action photographs," which make the disquisition much more easy to follow. Lieutenant G. Dyson, an Imperial Grenadier, is responsible for another booklet which deals with grenade warfare and all that pertains to it. The author appears to have the same feeling for his bombs as the proverbial Arab for his steed, and he leads us with loving care through the intricacies of a mode of warfare which savours of mediæval times rather than of the twentieth century. And finally there is a new edition of "Hints to Young Officers," by Lieutenant Stupart, whose text books on military subjects are widely known in the Commonwealth. This one should be of immense assistance to aspirants for commissions who may be well up in the practical side of their work, but who may sometimes be at a loss on the more intangible requirements of office work, etiquette, and so forth. As a "vade mecum" for the young officer who is still a little new to his surroundings, and a little doubtful about the way he should act in various contingencies, one imagines that Lieutenant Stupart's manual will be invaluable.

RECENT FICTION.

M. Pierre Mille taught us in a year more than we ever knew about the modern French soldier, which is one of the compensations for the war. Up to August, 1914, we only thought of the French army in terms of the Piou Piou and the Foreign Legion. We never troubled to remember that France had a colonial Empire next in extent only to our own, and we did not realise that "the service" would breed types which would appeal to us, with all their differences, much as Mulvaney, Learoyd, and Ortheris appealed to us when the rank and file of the British army was in the public eye still composed of rogues and vagabonds. Then M. Pierre Mille introduced us to the inimitable Barnavaux, and by doing so has ensured a welcome for anything he cares to write. The chief criticism against "Joffre's Chaps" is that Barnavaux fails to appear. Perhaps the time is not yet arrived. This philosopher may still be on garrison duty in Madagascar or Hunyan, or some such unusual spot, or he may be instilling his profound wisdom into recruits "back of the front." Barnavaux must be nearing the age limit, but we would like to see him having a smack at the Boches, and he would enjoy nothing better himself. But although Barnavaux is absent, M. Mille's knowledge of the French soldier is as intimate as ever. The title "Joffre's Chaps" is obviously chosen as the complement of Mr. Neil Lyon's "Kitchener Chaps," but the comparison will hurt neither book, because there is no point of resemblance between the two. "Joffre's Chaps" does not show M. Pierre Mille at his best, but his second best is good enough. He proves himself the typical Frenchman who is so interested in psychology that even when he is jabbing a bayonet into the enemy he analyses not only his own emotions, but those of his victim. He is less inclined to dwell on the fighting than on the attitude of mind which the belligerents have brought to it. He is often more interested in what is going on behind the lines, though his tale has its venue in the front trenches. His comparison of the French and the British point of view is excellent; and there is also the episode of the German prisoner who was brought starving to a French trench and was hospitably treated by his captors. They gave him army beef ("ape," as it is called by the French Tommy) and a bit of chicken, pillaged from the officers' mess. As the prisoner devoured them he reiterated that the Germans had no quarrel with the French. The Belgians "had behaved badly," Russia was "barbarous," and Britain "had desired and prepared for war." It was becoming a trifle tedious when the sergeant appeared on the scene. All sergeants possess the gift of expression. Those in France appear in addition to possess a gift of allegory denied to their less imaginative colleagues of British descent. To the redoubtable Sergeant Martin the prisoner admitted that he preferred chicken to army beef because it was easier to chew. "Look here," said Sergeant Martin, "it's for the very same reason that your people think they have nothing against us, for the very same reason they imagine that they love us! They thought we were easier to chew, I mean easily beaten; your countrymen firmly believe that you are in Paris now. But when they know, as they will know, that they've made a mistake, and that it is because of us French that things are turning out badly for them—then we shall be everything that's bad, only fit to throw to the dogs, which opinion, by the way, we shall certainly consider an honour. Don't imagine you can bamboozle us, mon cochon!" The echo was Verdun. (The Bodley Head; Dymock's.)

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Everything points to the need for some form of in memoriam music on Anzac Day for our soldiers sleeping on the Gallipoli slopes by the Mediterranean Sea. There must be many bereaved families to whom Anzac Day will be rather an occasion of sadly-resigned reflection than of noisy jubilation, and their mood should be met by appropriate choral services at central churches, and, if possible, by some solemn function at the Town Hall. As regards the former, a good example has been set at some of the English cathedrals. At Exeter Dr. D. J. Wood, the cathedral organist, arranged an entire service in memory of fallen heroes. The scheme included the "Requiem Aeternam" of Basil Harwood; Tallis's "Funeral Music" (3rd Mode); Croft's "Burial Sentences;" Felton's Chant to the "De Profundis" Psalm; the Russian Kontakion from the liturgy of St. Chrysostom, sung unaccompanied to a Kieff melody; and the National Anthem; after which the "Last Post" was sounded by the trumpeters of the R.F.A. Band. This beautiful music, and especially that of the old cathedral composers, as it rolled beneath the groined roof of the ancient fane, must have soothed many a sore heart. In London the Royal Choral Society performed Verdi's "Requiem" at the Royal Albert Hall on February 6, "in memory of those who have fallen in the war," when the King and Queen were present. Mme. Kirkby Lunn was the principal soloist. This society introduced this intensely dramatic setting in England in May, 1875, during which month Verdi himself conducted his own immortal music four times before immense audiences. Concerning the suggestion of a great choral function on Anzac Day, there is only one musical body that could carry it out, namely, the Royal Philharmonic Society of Sydney. The opening concert of their year, on April 13, when the "Elijah" will be performed with a fine cast of soloists, takes place nearly a fortnight before Anzac Day, and probably does not call for very arduous rehearsal. It seems, therefore, that Mr. Joseph Bradley might be able to consider with the committee the possibility of an extra miscellaneous sacred concert embracing Berlioz' wonderful "Grande Messe des Morts." This work demands 24 additional brass instruments and kettledrums, and the production last July proved costly. But the awesome charm of the "Dies Iræ" will never be forgotten, and it is probable that the public would willingly support a repetition in a good cause. Doubtless many serious difficulties stand like lions in the path of any such performance, but the city looks to the Royal Philharmonic Society to take up the burthen of its power and of its prestige on such impressive occasions.

The month of February opened in London with "Mrs. Pretty and the Premier" at Her Majesty's Theatre. The comedy is reviewed by the critics in friendly fashion "as a passable imitation of the usual political farce." . . . . "If we are to believe Mr. Bourchier and Mr. Arthur H. Adams to be really serious about it, real politics in Australia are almost exactly like stage politics in the London theatres." It is generally agreed that Mr. Bourchier drew a breezy and amusing portrait of Premier Bill, the Australian Labour Prime Minister, and that Miss Kyrle Bellew handsomely looked the part of Mrs. Pretty. These characters were originally played at the Sydney Repertory Theatre in November, 1914, by Mr. Norman Zions and Miss Grace Stafford, who cleverly indicated what could be done with a strong professional cast. At the Duke of York's Theatre a week later Miss Horniman's Manchester Company produced Frank Stayton's play, "The Joan Danvers"—which is the name of a ship. The plot owes a good deal to Ibsen's "Pillars of Society," for it deals with James Danvers, a shipping magnate who rules his family with a rod of iron, poses as a social and moral pillar, and yet sends the highly insured "Joan Danvers" to sea, well knowing she is "just a lot of rotten plates puttied up with tar." What he does not know is that his daughter Joan had secretly married the captain of the ship, and that his own son was also on board. In a big melodramatic scene Joan tells her father all this, and he has a paralytic stroke—a scene strongly acted by Herbert Lomas and Evelyn Hope—but the ship comes safely to port, and all ends happily. Again the notices leave it an open question as to the probability of a run. This author also belongs to this side, being the son of a one-time civil engineer in the New South Wales Works Department. Captain Stayton (he is now at the front) wrote one or two fairly promising comedies during his salad days in Sydney, and several of his pieces have since been staged in London with varying degrees of success. Apart from these pieces, there seems to be a dire scarcity of theatrical news in London just now. Otherwise how is the Australian reader to account for 25 lines of print in the "Evening Standard" explaining how Madge Titheradge broke a tooth the other night whilst biting the villain's hand in "Tiger's Cub" at the Garrick Theatre?

On the principle that "a fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind" musicians here will follow with sympathy the efforts of the Victorian Vocalists' Society. An inaugural meeting was recently held in Melbourne at the studio of Mme. Agnes Janson, the Swedish contralto of operatic fame, to consider the position of professional singers in relation to the war. It was recognised that the large amount of money raised for war funds resulted in a great measure from the efforts of vocalists who had foregone their fees time after time for patriotic purposes. Meanwhile, hostilities in Europe show no sign of cessation, and quite a number of musicians have found themselves in bad straits. The remedy proposed at the meeting was that municipalities and well-known hostesses should be encouraged to hold concerts and receptions at which the artists should receive at least a minimum fee. Already practically every well-known singer in Melbourne has joined the society, and a nominal membership-fee was being invited, to assist in propaganda and publicity work. Affairs in this connection during the first half of last year were just as bad in Sydney. The calls upon the musicians for services, equivalent to an individual gift of one, two, or three guineas, or more, were incessant, and, as was revealed in a letter from Miss Emilie Lambert published at the time, not even personal expenses were paid. An experience after arrival in costly evening dress at a suburban station in drenching rain, coupled with the absence of any vehicle in which to drive to the local Town Hall, was the immediate cause of the contralto's complaint in this column. Her forcible statement opened the eyes of a number of thoughtless people to the unfairness of such treatment, and did a great deal of good. It is now in most cases an understood thing on the part of Red Cross or Battalion Comforts Societies that artists appearing at military camp concerts, or at other suburban centres, shall be at least conveyed there and back as guests. Even so, it is still probable that the artists, so generous as a body, are expected to outrival much richer people than themselves in "doing their little bit" to help on Great Britain and her Allies through the war. The practical outcome of the Victorian Vocalists' Society will accordingly be awaited with interest in this State.

The recent revival of "Charley's Aunt" at the London Opera House, though the theatre was much too large, pleasantly astonished the management by a profit of £4000, and the public by yet one more humorous reminiscence culled from the biography of the late W. S. Penley, the actor-manager who first made a fortune by the piece. The anecdote is well worth adding to the list which the late Charles Arnold, and his partner Frank Thornton, circulated on this side, and is as follows:—"When we did our first performance of 'Charley's Aunt' on its three nights' trial trip," said he, "we opened at Bury St. Edmunds to eleven and ninepence. When we went to Cambridge we drew twelve and sixpence, and on going to Ipswich the returns rose to thirteen and ninepence. 'This piece,' said I, 'shows an upward tendency. I shall take it to London.'"

WORK OF THE WAR.

AUSTRALIAN CHARACTER.

III.

Half a century ago the writings of men about women usually varied between a high-flown flattery on the one hand and a contemptuous cynicism on the other. In the intervening years, however, women have entered an emphatic protest against this careless treatment, with the result that men are gradually becoming aware that a new force—and one to be reckoned with—has appeared over the horizon. This tardy discovery is typical of man's general attitude to facts of large significance. To take an extreme example—everybody is more or less aware that the earth turns on her axis once in the twenty-four hours; but because the movement is not felt it is seldom thought about. If, however, the orderly succession of night and day was suddenly to display some unexpected variation the half-forgotten law would be in everyone's mind. In some such way as this was the power of woman neglected. But the old order is changing; women are becoming daily more articulate, more sure of themselves and their place in the world, more insistent in their claim for recognition. Since this is so it will not be surprising if the circumstances arising out of the war tend to accelerate this development. Of one fact we may be sure, that during the past few months women have been able to prove the true quality of their powers more convincingly than would have been possible in a century of their former propaganda.

Men have been compelled to jettison much mental rubbish under the tempestuous buffetings of the war, and, amongst the rest, many well-worn superstitions concerning women have gone by the board. No man can with justice ever again refer to women as the frivolous, irresponsible portion of humanity. Incidentally, the charge was always either untrue or else directly attributable to man and his economic arrangements. To cast the jibe at the thousands of women who work for their living or at the other thousands who, unaided, have the care of home and children, is simply nonsensical. Possibly there was a growing tendency to irresponsibility among those women whose men folk relieve them of every opportunity for work of practical value; but the war has worked a change in providing an opportunity previously denied or far to seek. Social entertainments have altered in character to such an extent that no society hostess dare call her friends together except with the object of engaging in war work of some kind.

Very possibly there is some mixture of motive even here, but the object of these gatherings proclaims to the world that the war has forced even those who were accounted among the less responsible members of their sex to find work for their hands to do.

Women's war work has been the subject of some ill-considered censure. It is possibly true, of course, that in direct utility the effect produced has not always been commensurate with the effort expended; doubtless, too, some well-favoured and popular members of the Expeditionary Forces have been overwhelmed with tributes in the shape of socks, balaclavas, washing cloths, mufflers, and other comforts. But, after all, any surplus could always be passed on to less fortunate comrades, while it is well to remember that it is always more difficult to arouse energy than, once aroused, to turn it into fruitful channels. I cannot refrain from illustrating this point. At the commencement of the war many girls and women, filled with a desire to do something, organised ambulance classes in order to learn first aid to the injured. This activity might have been useful in the actual service of the war, though the probabilities were somewhat against it. The sequel, however, is interesting. A man conducting a small business in one of the suburbs of Sydney had the ill luck to injure a limb. The wound became septic, and demanded skilled attention. After the danger of amputation was averted it was still necessary to dress and bandage the wound daily. Here, however, was a difficulty. No hospital was within easy reach, and attention, for so long a period from the doctor, meant a crippling expense. The doctor himself solved the problem by enlisting the sympathy of two members of a women's ambulance class, formed in the first flush of war enthusiasm. These amateur helpers gladly undertook the case, and the injured limb received every care until it was entirely healed. It is unnecessary to point the moral and adorn the tale.

But specific activity in war work is not the chief contribution of Australian women in the hour of the nation's need. It is impossible for a man quite to realise the heart-break a woman knows, but always conceals, when she sees husband or son stepping forward to join in the great fight.

Certain women who have never made the sacrifice of those they love are seeking to persuade their sisters to refuse it. They preach their gospel to the strains of their battle-song, "I didn't raise my son to be a soldier!" The contrast between the spiritual problem Australia's women are nobly facing and a gospel taught in the cheap phrases of this lyric constitutes the gravest insult ever offered by one woman to another.

War is awful, who can deny it? But the women of Australia have not endeavoured to write dissertations on the folly of war, nor even to reason out very closely the right or wrong of this war. No; their faith has accepted, or rather made personal, the righteousness of our cause; their faith is daily moving mountains of reluctance, of shuddering horror at the thought of the conflict, of dread of the anguish of waiting, and is constraining them to offer the completest sacrifices possible to women.

The social barriers between our women are melting away, distinctions of position or wealth are, after all, beside the all embracing fact of common sacrifice. In this unity the greatest difficulty confronting the organisation of the woman-force of Australia has disappeared. Hitherto many women have frequently expressed the opinion that their political rights were unwanted, or of little value. That sentiment will be heard less frequently in the future. Their sex-consciousness is rapidly evolving. Their capacities have been tested by this war and have withstood the trial.

Women are now fully conscious that there are essential interests in which every woman shares. Already portents for the future are appearing; for instance, it seems as if the women of New South Wales are making the liquor question their peculiar province; but this will not be the limit of the activity made possible by this new sense of unity. Many questions, such as the equalisation of wages, the divorce laws, possibly, too, questions concerned with the economic dependence of married women, will pass from the agitation of the few into the working creed of the whole sex.

So it is true that the national life and character of Australia has been thrown into the melting-pot. We have tried to indicate certain possibilities of change which are already emerging. How far our prophecies will be justified by events time alone can tell. Of this, however, we may be certain—that whatever the future holds in store, the storm and stress of the past few months has brought no spiritual loss to Australia, rather are we a people more mature, stronger, more dignified than before the trial tested us. We are doing our work well and the rest can be left to the judgment of history.

HIGH COURT.

The first sittings of the High Court for the present year will be commenced on Monday afternoon next, when only motions will be taken. The hearing of appeals, of which there are nine, will start on the following morning, and the number of cases is comparatively small, none being of striking importance. There are also four cases down for determination in what is termed the Court's original jurisdiction.

Approval has been given for Imperial Reservists returned from England for medical treatment on account of illness or injury due to the present war, to be admitted to military hospitals as patients, without pay or any responsibility by the Defence Department, provided the men hold good discharges, and can establish identity.

THE CHURCHES.

HUMBLING OF THE NATION.

Canon Foster, sub-dean of All Saints' Cathedral, Bathurst, delivered an interesting sermon this week on the "Humbling of the Nation" writes our local correspondent. He remarked that the same spirit of world domination as that written of in the Book of Isaiah was familiar to all now, along with the same contempt for small nationalities, the same ruthless and inhuman methods of warfare. We could see Assyria plainly enough to-day got up in a spiked helmet and grey uniform, and could see the blatant pride of the Teuton and hear his voice in that arrogant and self-sufficient speech of the Assyrian commander before the walls of Jerusalem. There would have to be a humbling of Germany if that nation were to be saved. Germany would have to regain her vision of God, and that we would have to help her do in the most vigorous manner. But, while it was easy to see faults in Germany, it was not so easy to see them in ourselves. He did not think that the British nation had ever been brought down to a humble mind; had yet been sufficiently brought face-to-face with the great facts of life to bring her to national humility. We had to put away our pride, our self-sufficiency, and our unequalled trust in material forces and material power. All our terrible sacrifice of precious life and blood would go for naught unless those who lived on got the true God-vision and truly made the future of the country great. It was with the Church and those who made a profession of religion that this humbling would have to commence. Had they of the Church been as firm as they might have in the discountenancing of evil? Had they, too, not lost their vision of God? Had they even shown themselves openly on the Lord's side? The humbling would commence with the Church and work outwards to the masses of the people who made no profession, and who yet looked on keenly to note the genuineness or otherwise of the professions which the Church made.

THE COUNTRY CHURCH.

A plea is put in for the country church in the current number of the Presbyterian "Messenger." It says: "Not long ago one of our correspondents suggested that city ministers should occasionally exchange pulpits and manses for a month with country ministers. It would be a great benefit to both. City men would have a better understanding of the difficulties and discouragements of the country men. They would know more of the kind of work the Home Mission Committee has to do. Collections for the Home Mission Fund would be at least doubled in the city if ministers could speak from personal observation of the conditions under which the country church labours. A mere handful of men will often keep a church going at great cost of time and money, and then they are told sometimes that the committee has not a man to send. One country Church is losing three of its best families at one sweep, but the others who are left are willing to shoulder the greater responsibility that will rest upon them. A fresh voice in the pulpit, a popular lecture or two, and great encouragement is given to our country brethren. Life is somewhat lonely out in the country, more lonely than ever since so many of the young men have gone to the front, and greater sympathy and help is needed."

THE TRAGEDY OF SIN.

A sermon with the above title, being the first of a Lenten course on "the spiritual message of the war," was delivered on Sunday week by the Rev. W. F. Wentworth Sheilds at St. Thomas' Church, North Sydney. The text was the first verse of the Gospel of the day, and the preacher said that the Church's message on that day was the story of our Lord driven into the wilderness. In the figure of Him who was tempted we beheld the tragedy of sin. The exact meaning of tragedy was pointed out, the old Greek idea of disaster being contrasted with the development in Shakespeare's plays, where moral failure was the tragic element. Temptation was then defined and its necessary part in the discipline of the character. The war was a time when everything was turned up by the roots, and temptation of all kinds was abundant. The preacher uttered a warning against the temptation of self-satisfaction. "We condemn Germany, and say that she has lost her soul, but have we found ours?" He had some vigorous words to say in pointing out the present dangers from the low moral tone of theatrical plays and picture shows, the surroundings of military camps, and the curse of alcohol.

Miss R. Bachlor, of the New South Wales Church Missionary Association, was to have left Yungchowfu, Hunan, China, on February 4 on her way to Australia on furlough. It would take her a month to reach Shanghai, and she intended then to start for Sydney by the first available steamer.

The president of the Sunday Schools' Union of Victoria, Mr. Aston, has initiated a new phase of children's work in the form of sand services for children at the seaside resorts. At his suggestion Mr. Findlay, the secretary of the union, tried these sand services on the foreshore at Frankston, and they were so successful that the union agreed to carry them out at the five beaches from Mordialloc to Frankston. The children, under competent teachers, gather on the sand, which is used to make models and pictures with which to illustrate the lesson and impress it upon the children's memory. Thus the delights of a holiday are combined with useful instruction.

The Society of Friends has since the beginning of the war carried on continuous voluntary work in France, Belgium, and Holland, a number of Australian members being engaged. The Friends' Ambulance Unit, which is under the British Red Cross, has at present on its staff 430 trained men and 38 women. Its headquarters are at Dunkirk, and it has carried out work immediately behind the firing line. In the Friends' War Victims' Relief Work 77 men and 73 women are engaged, all giving, as in the case of the ambulance unit also, their services without salary. The expenditure so far has been over £11,000, raised by voluntary subscriptions.

RED CROSS GIFTS.

SOLDIERS' APPRECIATION.

A young lady, a resident of Rooty Hill, recently sent a package of sweets to the Australian troops in Egypt. On an Australian Red Cross label attached to the package she wrote a short message conveying Christmas greetings. By the last mail from Egypt the young lady received a letter from Sergeant L. P. Curnow, of the 4th Battalion, in which he returns thanks for the present, and then refers to the work of the Australian Red Cross in the following words:—

"I wish to take the opportunity of thanking one of the great bands of Australian womenfolk, whose unselfish efforts have given inestimable delight to all we boys. You will, perhaps, be pleased to know that the resources of the Red Cross Society here in Egypt have been a wonderful help to the various hospitals. The society has provided innumerable comforts and necessities to wounded and sick men, which the hospitals themselves were unable to supply. We all feel the greatest appreciation of the thoughtfulness of all of you."

NEW MUSIC.

Messrs. W. H. Paling and Co. publish "Cooee's Answer" to the call from the Dardanelles, composed by Edward H. Tyrrell, words by Sam Cowan. This is a patriotic song of a useful, popular type, characterised by a march melody for the refrain that is full of movement.

Drain's music depot issues the "Sympathy" valse for pianoforte, by Raimond Pechotsch. This may be summed up as a superior ballroom valse, marked by melodic animation, whilst the harmonies are distinguished by refinement of idea.

Private Harley Cohen, who was wounded at Lone Pine, with the 4th Battalion, is the author and composer of the new patriotic song "They were There, There, There," introduced at the Tivoli Theatre on Thursday at the M'Intosh invitation matinee to a thousand returned soldiers. Mr. Peter Dawson was the singer, and made bright use of his opportunity, whilst the zest with which the audience joined in the chorus showed that the soldier-composer had hit the mark.

THE RED KITE.

BY WILLIAM A. HENRY.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

CHAPTER XXII.

The column of troops had continued to advance in stolid fashion, emerging from between the tree-trunks like a grey snake of interminable length. But although the rank and file contented themselves with heavily curious glances, the officers were busy. Signals were rapidly passed down the line. The column came to an abrupt halt, while at the same moment a general, attended by a numerous staff, came galloping rapidly to the front. Mingled with the deadened thud of the horses' hoofs sounded the sharp click of metal, as the bolts of the rifles were adjusted, and cartridges prepared.

The scene just then in the middle of the pine forest was a dramatic one. In the centre of the clearing was the "Red Kite," hovering a few yards above the ground, her crew as alert as hawks, her machine-gun pointing menacingly. Less than 40 yards away were the foremost Prussian soldiers, loading their rifles in feverish haste, while between the two, more astonished than ever, but no longer dismayed, the little red-cloaked girl sat on the ground, turning her eyes from the troops to the aeroplane and back again.

It was into the midst of this tremendous moment of pause that the general and his staff galloped from out of the sombre background of the forest. The leader appeared to be an officer of peculiar distinction, for his breast was generously covered with orders. He came swinging along directly towards the "Red Kite," as though in contempt for this lowly winged thing. Then, when quite near, he forced his horse back on its haunches, and shouted a curt command. From the movements of the men it was clearly an order to begin the action.

Arthur Brand was at the trigger of the machine-gun.

"Loose off, now!" exclaimed Gardiner impatiently. "What the devil are you waiting for? Now man, now!"

To the amazement of the rest of the "Red Kite," Arthur Brand remained motionless. Then his arm slid out slowly forward, as though moved by an involuntary force, to point towards the Prussian general. The others followed the direction of his arm, and their astonishment deepened.

The general had opened his mouth to rasp out another order. But before the words could sound his expression had completely altered, and he remained mute. A light of surprised recognition was breaking on his face. He waved a greeting, shouted a few words back to his staff, and as though by magic the aggressive preparations ceased. Presently the column was marching forward again as though nothing had occurred. The general was advancing alone and with confidence towards the "Red Kite."

The remaining occupants of the aeroplane gazed first at each other and then at Arthur Brand. The change in the latter's countenance had corresponded with that in the German officer's. It had been simultaneous, but even more marked. Arthur Brand's expression had been [illegible], and lowering. He had been poised tensely above the machine-gun, a whole-souled agent of destruction. Now he stood erect, open-handed, and loose of limb. His chin had dropped, and his features wore a look of incredulous dismay.

The German general had halted now, and was waiting expectantly. For some moments there was a complete silence. The eyes of the "Red Kite's" crew had left the German officer. They were fastened on Arthur Brand's face with an intensity that seemed to bore its way behind the twitching features and the lips that opened and closed, but uttered no sound.

At length Arthur Brand spoke. His voice had changed as much as his countenance. It sounded hoarse, strained, and yet lifeless.

"I must speak to him for a moment," he muttered. "Put me down, please!"

The others, dumb with amazement, continued to stare at him. Arthur Brand struck out his hand with a movement of impatience.

"I must speak to him, I tell you!" he exclaimed. "Can't you see he's waiting? You must put me down!"

Gardiner was gazing at him with a knitted brow.

"And suppose," he said, "we refuse?"

Arthur Brand turned a pair of wild eyes on him.

"You need only touch the ground for a moment," he said. "And then you may go right away. There's no danger for you!"

"It isn't a question of that," exclaimed Chetwood. "The thing is—why should we put you down?"

Arthur Brand leaned over the side, measuring with his eye the distance between the well and the ground. The aeroplane had now risen to a height of fifteen feet or so.

"If you'd rather not," he said, "I must jump. But I have to go!"

The determination in his voice was inflexible. His brother flung a rapid glance at him, scanned the expressions of the rest, and then bent to his levers. The "Red Kite" sank slowly to earth, coming almost imperceptibly to rest.

Arthur Brand turned to othe others, his face deadly pale.

"That was good of you," he said. "If you hadn't come down I should have had to jump. Yes, and if you had gone up, I should have had to jump, even then! It had to be, you see. It was a question of—" he broke off and laughed with a curious hardness. "Yes, I will, why shouldn't I say it?—it was a question of honour!" He laughed again, and swung himself over the side on to the ground.

Then he strode forward to meet the German. The latter greeted him with brusque joviality.

"Well met, Mr. Arnott!" he exclaimed in a burly, jolly voice. "Well met, friend Arnott! You are always late, I know. But this is an unexpected meeting—and a dangerous one. In another moment my men might have shot. But it is fortunate, for I have need of you. What is the news? What are your latest gleanings?"

Arthur Brand's reply was inaudible. Still speaking in low tones, he drew the general some distance away from the aeroplane. The staff followed at a respectful distance, and the conversation between the two principal figures was carried on at a spot on the edge of the clearing.

Three deeply perturbed men and one puzzled boy remained in the well of the "Red Kite." No one took any notice of the aviators. The faintly-heard tramp of the passing hordes continued without a break; from out of the forest aisles streamed the grey companies, to be swallowed up, one after the other, by the trees on the further side of the clearing.

When the name "Arnott" had come from the general's lips the three men in the aeroplane had been unable to suppress a start, and, moved by a common impulse, their eyes, eloquent of horror, had sought each other's with a flash. It was as if the rough hand of the German had wrenched aside a curtain, and had revealed behind it an unsuspected and hideous mass of rottenness. Each felt himself scorched by a burning flame of merciless understanding—a flame that lit up cruelly the most loathsome and sordid picture in the world.

After that first too eloquent exchange of glances, each of the three endeavoured to avoid his neighbour's eye. James Brand's gaze sought the deck of the well, and stayed there, while his shoulders hunched forward and his body drooped. The Lamb's clear young eyes marked this with a growing understanding and sympathy. He moved towards Chetwood, and with a faint deprecating grin began to rifle the latter's pockets. Presently he had extracted a cigar case and a box of matches.

Armed with these, he glided across to where James Brand sat. But the pilot, his head still bent low, saw nothing of the proffered attention. The Lamb drew out a cigar from his case, snicked the end with his knife, and tapping the unconscious man lightly on the shoulders, held it within a few inches of his mouth. It was the Lamb's notion of practical sympathy.

A few seconds later James Brand was blowing out a cloud of smoke. He shook himself, looked about him, and for the first time the significance of the action came home to him. He nodded heavily towards the boy.

"Good lad!" he muttered. "Good lad!"

Then silence fell again, and the tension of waiting seemed to increase. Chetwood was the first to speak.

"What the devil's going to happen?" he demanded.

Gardiner shook his head in mute reply.

"One thing is certain," he said, after a pause. "The news of what we did in Berlin can't have filtered through to here by wireless or any other way. If it had, it wouldn't take long to rouse the suspicions of all these troops. And then—hullo!" he said, in altered tones. "Here's Arthur Brand coming back!"

The general and Arthur Brand had now drawn apart, and the latter was hurrying towards the "Red Kite." In the meantime, the group of German officers walked to a small table which had been set in readiness for them. On it were slim, long-necked bottles and sandwiches, contrived of rolls and meat. Many thousands of passing eyes surveyed the repast with a diffident longing. But it was not for their owners, mere humble "cannon fodder," who went tramping by, ever tramping by!

The bride was attended by her two sisters as bridesmaids, the Misses Lilian and Meta Ford, who wore pale pink embossed ninon over satin, the bodice being made coatee fashion, worn over pink ninon blouses, finished with black tulle bows; black tulle hats were trimmed with tiny pink roses. The bridegroom's presents to the bridesmaids were a silver bag and gold bangle, and bouquets of pink roses and carnations. The trainbearer was Miss Nancy Ford, niece of the bride, who wore a dainty frock of white organdi chiffon, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and insertion. Her present from the bridegroom was a gold cable bracelet. Sergeant-major Porter acted as best man, and Mr. R. G. Allison was groomsman. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ford at Sargent's, Market-street, where the wedding breakfast was served, after which the happy couple left for Melbourne and Tasmania. The bride's going-away gown was a navy gabardine coat and skirt and a white silk hat.

A military wedding was celebrated at St. Stephen's Church, Phillip-street, on February 19, by the Rev. John Ferguson between Lance-corporal Jack Reid, 12th Reinforcements, 17th Battalion, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Reid, of Alyth, Scotland, and Jessie, daughter of Mrs. James Edward, Bervie, Scotland. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. Thomas Reid, wore a gown of white crepe-de-chine with a veston and trimmings of Honiton lace, and a train from the shoulders lined with pink ninon, and fastened with pearls and orange blossom. An embroidered tulle veil was arranged mob cap fashion, and caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and roses, and wore a gold pendant, gifts from the bridegroom. Miss May Reid, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and silver chain purse, gifts from the bridegroom. Private M. West attended the bridegroom. Mrs. Thomas Reid, the bride's aunt, wore a black crepe de chine coat and skirt, and carried a bouquet of mauve asters. The reception was held in Sargent's. Subsequently Lance-corporal Reid and Mrs. Reid left for the South Coast.

ENGAGEMENT.

The engagement is announced of Lieutenant Travers Lengfield Brett, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Brett, Boronia, Cheltenham, to Miss Louie Estelle (Essie) Mutton, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Mutton, Leeholme, Roseville.

CITY RAILWAY RESUMPTION.

It was stated in the Legislative Assembly recently that part of the Hotel Sydney block had been resumed for city railway purposes. We are asked to say that it was the site of old St. Francis's Church, on the Elizabeth-street side of the Haymarket subdivision, which was resumed. The land on which the Hotel Sydney stands has not been interfered with.

NIELSEN PARK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your correspondent, "Australian," appears to be astonished that Nielsen Park has been called after Mr. Nielsen, and asks why the most beautiful site in Australia should be called after that gentleman, and asks what he has done for Australia. He thinks that surely Wentworth or Greycliffe would be a more appropriate name. For his information the writer states that it has been a custom for many years to name parks acquired by a Government after the name of a man who happened to be Minister for Lands at the time. For example, various parks round the harbour have been named after Messrs. Lyne, Ashton, etc. Having been practically the chief stoker for the Harbour Foreshores Vigilance Committee that were responsible for the acquisition of Nielsen Park, and as I happen to be a trustee of the same park, I can speak with confidence on the matter. Some years ago the writer, supported by a portion of the daily press, strongly recommended the Crown to call Nielsen Park Columbia Park, in honour of the visit of the American warships. Incidentally, I might state, although the late Mr. Wentworth's father did no doubt a lot for Australia, yet the late Mr. Fitzwilliam Wentworth was paid in full for every yard of Nielsen Park resumed. So naming it after this gentleman, after having received full payment, would not perhaps be the right thing compared to if he had given the area to the public.

I am, etc.,
W. A. NOTTING,
Hon Sec. Harbour Foreshores Vigilance Committee.
March 22.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In reply to your correspondent, who desires to know why the park on the Vaucluse Estate was named Nielsen Park, I beg to inform him that the park was proclaimed Nielsen Park on May 1, 1912, and subsequently an area of 3 roods 32 perches was added by proclamation on September 1, 1915. The name was given in honour of Mr. Niels Nielsen, a late Minister for Lands, who interested himself in resuming this place for the benefit of the public.

I am, etc.,

AN ENGLISH WOMAN WRITES.

Mrs. Mary Lomax, "Chelsea," 15 Milton Terrace, Dawes Point, Sydney, writes a most convincing letter to the merits of Clements Tonic. In it she hopes that its publication may benefit others suffering from nervous breakdown. Here is her letter:—

CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.,

"Two years ago I had a nervous breakdown through overwork. In sending you this unsolicited testimonial I wish to benefit others who have suffered in the same way.

"Six weeks ago I began to take your Tonic, and I can honestly assure you I felt better from the first bottle; now I have taken six, and I think it will be the last I shall require.

"I cannot speak too highly of the good it has done me. Use this as you may wish, it cannot be too much known."

CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.,

"It is with the deepest feeling of gratitude I write you my opinion.

"Clements Tonic IS THE MOST WONDERFUL REMEDY I have ever known. My little girl was very bad with St. Vitus' Dance, and poor appetite. She could hardly walk across the floor. I tried all the medical skill I could think of, but nothing seemed to do her any good.

"I saw your advertisement in the paper, and I tried your Tonic. I have been using it for the last six months, and now my little girl is rapidly on the mend, thanks to Clements Tonic."

CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.,

"I have much pleasure in testifying to the beneficial effects of Clements Tonic.

"I had a severe illness last year, which left me in a very nervous and irritable state. Upon the advice of a friend I bought a bottle of your Tonic, and after its use I was surprised at the change in me.

"All my friends have remarked and complimented me on my healthy appearance. I am happy to recommend your valuable tonic to anyone I know.

"I wish your medicine all the success it deserves."

CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.,

"For some time I have been thoroughly run down, suffering from Rheumatics and Nervous Complaint. I WAS NEVER REALLY FREE FROM PAIN.

"I am a great believer in your medicine, having used it some years ago with great success. I decided to give it another trial, and am pleased to tell you three large bottles have made a wonderful difference to my health.

"I FEEL AS WELL AS I EVER DID, and wish to thank you.

"Anyone calling on me I can give them personal testimony to the value of Clements Tonic. I have recommended it to many of my friends."—Faithfully yours,

Mrs. S. BARRETT WRITES THAT SHE SUFFERED FOR FIVE YEARS FROM NEURALGIC TROUBLES UNTIL SHE TOOK CLEMENTS TONIC. READ HER LETTER.

6 Hancock St., Rozelle,
Sydney, 1.3.'15.

CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.,

"My illness was the result of a chill, followed by a severe attack of neuralgia, and although I took all kinds of medicine and used liniments and other treatments I could get no relief from pain for more than a few weeks at a time. This went on for five years. I gave up all hope of ever being cured.

"My mother, who was a nurse, came to see me, and brought a large bottle of Clements Tonic. I took it more to please her as I had no faith in anything. Before I had finished the bottle I began to get better. I took five large bottles, and have not suffered with neuralgia since, and that is years ago. My friends were surprised, as they knew how bad I had been."

(Signed) Mrs. S. BARRETT,

"Minto," Dudley St., Bondi,
Sydney, 25.1.'16.

CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.,

"After several years of suffering the after-effects of operations, I heard of your wonderful medicine, and decided to try it.

"After taking a course of the tonic I entirely recovered from all feelings of depression, and in every way am much benefited.

"I have much pleasure in sending you my appreciation, and shall always recommend your tonic to my friends."

(Signed) Mrs. ALICE E. STANLEY,

If you have Insomnia you should take Clements Tonic and sleep like a child. It is the one Great Weak-Nerve Remedy in peace or war. Its effect on the jaded, run-down constitution is magical. It does good because it is good. All Chemists and Stores sell it.

REAL ESTATE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

The real estate market passed through another quiet week. There is no doubt the Fair Rents Act is proving temporarily a check to the wheels of progress. The declaration that a property owner must be content with 6 per cent. net, when, perhaps, he is paying 7 per cent. to the bank for accommodation, has startled many investors, and is proving a nightmare to the speculating builder. A few years ago suburban property which did not return 10 per cent. after paying rates and taxes was not regarded as a first-class investment. No doubt a great deal of property was sold even in those days which did not yield anything like that rate of interest. The 10 per cent. also allowed for wear and tear, loss of rent, and repairs, and gave the owner in the end 7 or 8 per cent. net. Why the Fair Rents Act should in these times of costly building have fixed 6 per cent. net as sufficient is hard to understand. Then, again, it is the mode of valuation which is troublesome. The Government makes the valuation through its own officers; but if the Government wished to purchase or sell a property it would employ one or more of the large firms of auctioneers who are the recognised authority in property valuations. There is no doubt the operation of the Fair Rents Act is causing prospective buyers of real estate to play a waiting game, and it is having a deadening effect on the market. But, after all, the scare may soon pass away. People will see that the effect of the Act generally on property will be small, because very often it is the landlord who has been charging exorbitant rents that is being hauled over the coals. The property owner who is acting fairly and squarely with his tenants, and who is content with a fair margin of profit, is not likely to be troubled with a Fair Rents Court.

This was the off-week for indoor auctions, and very few were held. Mr. Little, who occupied the rostrum, had about a dozen properties to offer. He managed to dispose of five. Two houses in Windsor-street, Paddington, were sold for £800. shop and six houses, leasehold, at Forest Lodge, realised £1300; a house in Albion-street, Surry Hills, was disposed of for £700; a house in Bellevue-street, Surry Hills, changed hands at £480; and a block of land at Marrickville was disposed of for £65. There was good bidding for several of the other properties on the list. During the week this firm sold a cottage at Strathfield for £1100, a block of land at Eastwood for £296, a block in the Mihell Estate, Bankstown, at £2 per foot, and several lots in the Terry Estate, at Eastwood, at prices from 25/ to £2 foot.

Messrs. Hugh Duff and Co. had a fairly busy week. They sold three cottages at Neutral Bay for £1000, a pair of cottages at Rickard-avenue, Bondi, for £1200, a block of land at Chatswood for £450, and three allotments at Mortdale for £125.

Messrs. Stanton and Son included in their sales for the week a cottage residence at Haberfield for £1050, and a cottage at Rosebery Model Suburb for £750.

There is still a good demand for property at Cronulla. Mr. Monro, one of the local agents, this week sold a weatherboard cottage in Enos-parade for £1075, and a weatherboard cottage now being built in Roker-street, for £1000; also several allotments in the Sunnyside Estate at good prices.

Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co., Ltd., report that the public demand for small farms is still excellent, Toongabbie and Wentworthville supplying nearly half of the sales over the counter. The successful sale at Lidcombe (Marne Park Estate) last Saturday, and the subsequent sales in the office, testify to the public interest in the great industries that will shortly be grouped round the new abattoirs. There is still a good demand for land at pleasure resorts, and Cronulla is in the foreground. But it is the home sites which form the backbone of this firm's business all the year round, and these range from the workman's lot at Merrylands to the costly sites of gentleman's residences at Bellevue Hill or Dobroyd. The total sales equalled the record amount (for war times) the last two weeks.

Mr. Percy G. Sharpe this week included in his sales a factory site at Redfern for £2900, two cottages in Randwick for £2050, and two cottages at Neutral Bay for £1400.

WATER SUPPLY FOR MOUNTAINS.

AN IMPORTANT REPORT.

Mr. J. Wall, president of the Blue Mountains Shire Council, having completed arrangements with the Katoomba Lighting Company to light up Blackheath, Wentworth Falls, portion of Leura, and Lawson with electricity, and to supply the householders with the current for lighting up their homes at a very moderate cost, has now to work in earnest to secure, with the aid of the members of his council, a water supply for the principal centres of the Blue Mountain Shire. Mr. Griffith, Minister for Education and Local Government, has for some time been anxious that the thousands of visitors yearly to the mountain centres outside Katoomba, to say nothing of the hundreds of permanent residents, should no longer be in the awkward predicament of having a shorage of water, as they undoubtedly had during the latter half of last year. On that occasion most of the household tanks were empty, and water was being carted long distances. To make matters worse, bush fires were raging, and some valuable house property was destroyed. The shire council, through its president, immediately revived a long-standing agitation. The local Water Supply League, of which Mr. Wall is also president, bestirred themselves. Mr. Griffith, as Minister for Local Government, was sympathetic, and he at once instructed Mr. E. M. de Burgh, Chief Engineer for Water Supply and Sewerage, to prepare a report in regard to the Blue Mountain water supply. Mr. Griffith had already come to the conclusion that, instead of the larger and expensive scheme from the Grose River, in the vicinity of Mount Victoria, which scheme had been investigated, they ought to be able to dam the local creeks at several centres, and thus give an immediate, less costly, but adequate supply to all main centres outside Katoomba, which already has water, sewerage, and lighting facilities in abundance. Indeed, it is these splendid advantages which helped to build up Katoomba and make it the great city of the mountains, and there is no reason why Blackheath, Wentworth Falls, Lawson, and other centres, with all their natural beauties and advantages, should not become quite as attractive residential spots as Katoomba is to-day—in fact, more so. Within the next few years the mountains will carry a big residential population, for, despite the war, land is being taken up, houses are being erected, and there are signs of progress in many directions. But it cannot be denied that very many more people would reside on these beautiful mountains if they had the streets well lighted, a proper water supply, and excellent drainage facilities ahead. Mr. Wall and his fellow-councillors have been warmly congratulated by the local progress leagues and the residents generally on securing the electric light, which it is hoped will be switched on before the end of the year. As for water, Mr. de Burgh, the engineer, has lost no time in answering the Minister's request as to the possibility of utilising the creeks. This week the Minister furnished Mr. Wall with a copy of Mr. de Burgh's report, which had just come to hand, which is as follows:—

"I made a personal inspection of a number of creeks between Springwood and Katoomba, and as a result surveys will be made of some good local storages on the Woodford, Wentworth Falls, and Linden Creeks. Quite considerable volumes of water can be stored on these creeks, and the scheme would be to construct such storages to take the fullest advantage of the catchments; that is, to impound the maximum volume of water that the creeks will yield with regularity, and that the storage sites will admit of, and to construct distributing reservoirs on the heights, the water to be lifted by pumps operated electrically from the electric supply station at Katoomba, or, if necessary, from a separate electric supply station close to the railway, say, at Valley Heights.

"Having estimated the quantity of water which can be economically stored in the creeks and lifted to the heights, and it being known what the cost per thousand gallons of the water is, the question of the distribution would next be taken up to ascertain what numbers of consumers can be relied upon to take the water, and what the cost of the distributing mains would be. Briefly, to ascertain how much water we can get, what it costs to put it into use, and what revenue we can obtain.

"Under the Local Government Amending Act, it would be competent for the Shire to have these works constructed, if they can finance them, in the same manner as a municipality now finances works under the Country Towns Act. I am not in a position at this stage to say whether the scheme will be within the financial capacity of the shire, but I can say I am well pleased with the result of my inquiries into these storages on the creeks referred to, and I am satisfied that the scheme will work out more economically, and of course, with vastly less capital expenditure, that the larger scheme which we investigated from the Grose River in the vicinity of Mount Victoria.

"In conclusion, I may say that though we are very pressed with matters in regard to the Sydney Water Supply at this moment, this local Blue Mountain scheme is, in my opinion, thoroughly worth following up, and I will follow it up carefully."

It is understood that within a few weeks Mr. de Burgh will submit the cost of construction to the Minister, who will then be in a position to devise a scheme for payment of interest of the outlay involved, and to proceed with the work. Mr. Wall has already formulated proposals to make the cost to the local taxpayers a very light one, when compared with the benefits of a good water supply, which will be the making of the Mountains. The local shire council should, as soon as the water supply question is settled, set to work to devise a scheme for adequate drainage. However, if the lighting and water supply is perfected within the next 18 months or two years, Mr. Wall and his fellow-councillors, with the aid of the Minister, Mr. Griffiths, will receive the thanks of many.

STATION PROPERTY SALE.

Mount Driven, in the St. George district, Queensland, comprising 31,537 acres of grazing farms, together with 200 head of cattle, has just changed hands at a satisfactory price. Mr. Stephen Fennell was the vendor, and Dr. C. J. Burge, of Sydney, the purchaser. Winchcombe, Carson, Ltd., were the selling agents concerned.

Morath Bros., of Sydney, report having sold direct, on account of Mr. A. Buchanan, his Durhambone Station, situated half a mile from East Collarenebri Railway Station, comprising an area of 21,461 acres freehold, conditional purchase, and conditional leasehold, together with all sheep, horses, etc. The purchaser was Mr. P. D. M'Naughton.

SUBDIVISION WORKS.

LAST SATURDAY'S SALES.

One or two subdivision sales were held last Saturday, and in each case the result was satisfactory. Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co. were at Lidcombe, where they submitted the Marne Park Estate. In all 68 allotments were sold, the prices ranging from 16/ to 35/ per foot. This produced a total of £2614. With such a result it cannot be said that there is no demand for subdivision land if in a suitable position.

Last Saturday Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co., Limited, in conjunction with Graff and Co., submitted a little subdivision of 18 lots, called the Eulalia Estate, Drummoyne, and sold 12 lots at prices ranging from £3 2s 6d to £2 per foot. Total sales, £1175. The firm has sold privately this week three other blocks at the same prices.

The third sale was conducted by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench, who submitted the third subdivision of Chesterfield Estate at Epping. Fourteen allotments were sold, at prices ranging from 12s 6d to £1 14s 6d per foot. A total of £1179 was produced.

Thus these three subdivision sales yielded a total almost of £6000. It was not too bad an afternoon's work.

TO-DAY'S AUCTIONS.

There are several sales set down for this afternoon. Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have three listed. One sale is at Kandos, five miles on the Sydney side of Rylstone, on the Mudgee railway line. It is the first subdivision of the Ferndale Estate, which is to be submitted, and as the land is opposite the large works of the New South Wales Cement, Lime, and Coal Company, it ought to sell well. Another sale by this firm to-day, which should prove attractive, will take place at Coogee. It is the call of the surf which has made Coogee one of the principal seaside resorts. Fine parklike lands will be offered this afternoon. This sale should attract a good deal of attention. The third sale this afternoon by Messrs. Hardie and Gorman will take place at Manly, which is also a great surfing centre. There, the house and grounds of Mr. Eden George will be submitted. The house is a very fine one. There are but three building allotments to be submitted, and these are practically the last in the neighbourhood, and ought to sell rapidly.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench have a sale this afternoon at Ingleburn, when a town subdivision running on both sides of the railway line will be offered. As the land is right at the level crossing to the station, it is the key corner of the district, and embraces business sites at the station entrance, also cottage and villa sites, farm and grazing blocks, ranging from 2½ acres to one acre in size. There has been a good demand for lithos. for this subdivision, which ought to sell well.

To-day, at the corner of Telegraph-road and Station-street, Pymble, Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co., Ltd., will submit the Wantage Estate, comprising some very fine allotments, commanding extensive views, and also standing by itself, the family residence, with about one acre. This estate is 10 minutes from the station, and from its position ought to attract attention from buyers wishing to live on the North Shore line.

AUSTRALIA'S DEAD ON GALLIPOLI.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—May I throw out a suggestion that, in perpetual memory of Sunday, April 25, 1915, the date of the landing of our troops at Gallipoli, that April 25 in each year should be dedicated as "Anzac Day" by the people of Australia and New Zealand to the heroic dead who lie buried there in at present unknown, untended graves, and that a collection like the Hospital Sunday collection should be made annually on that day throughout the Commonwealth and the Dominion until a sum was obtained the interest on which would be sufficient, when the war was over and satisfactory arrangements could be made, to be devoted to the marking, preservation, and upkeep of the graves of those who fell in the first landing at Gaba Tepe, in the awesome shadow of the Valley of Death, the glorious ridge of the Lonesome Pine, or elsewhere on the bloodstained shores of Gallipoli? Little difficulty should be experienced in obtaining from those nearest and dearest to them, whether relations or friends, and all true admirers, such contributions to the collection as their means would allow. The initial expenditure would, of course, be heavy; but common and united action towards the end in view would be far cheaper and simpler than any individual effort, and if annual subscriptions were promised by those who could afford them, and an annual collection was made from those whose means would not allow of a definite promise, a sufficient sum should soon be available to mark, preserve, and beautify the last resting-places of "the boys" from the land of the Southern Cross who offered up their lives so willingly and heroically for their King and country.

I am, etc., THE TIME IS SHORT.

A NEW CAR depreciates from one-third to one-half the first year. A good guaranteed rebuilt Car, bought at the right price, is a profitable investment that after years of service only shows a low rate of depreciation. We have rebuilt and soiled Cars that have had very little use going for half or less than half their original cost, and are good for years of use. We have sold hundreds of cars, and can refer you to satisfied clients throughout the country.
We have some of the best of new European and American Cars on hand for sale, and could arrange to take your small Car as part payment.

BANCO COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and a jury of four.)

DISPUTE ABOUT COMMISSION.

Martin v Armstrong and another.

Mr. J. L. Campbell, K.C., and Mr. Boyce, instructed by Messrs. Boyce and Magney, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Windeyer and Mr. Parker, instructed by Mr. E. S. Dunhill, for the defendants. This was an action brought by Louis Ormsby Martin against William Thomas Armstrong and Walter Lassetter Beauchamp to recover the sum of £2469 14s 9d, which included two amounts which the plaintiff claimed to recover, as money improperly paid to defendants in respect of commission on a transaction for a sale which was supposed to have been carried out in the interests of the plaintiff, and £2000, which, he said, had been improperly made by the defendants out of the same transaction. Defendants pleaded not indebted.

During the morning counsel and the parties consulted together, and subsequently Mr. Campbell said that the case had been settled in terms which would be filed in Court. It was unnecessary to say what they were.

His Honor: Then you do not want to take a verdict?

Mr. Campbell: No; it will not be necessary.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

QUESTION OF LAND BOUNDARIES.

His Honor delivered his reserved judgment in the special case stated by the Registrar-General, asking for the direction of the Court in certain matters connected with the Real Property Act. Many years ago H. E. A. Allan and C. F. D. Priddle subdivided an estate of 9 acres of land at Petersham, of which they were the registered proprietors. Sales were made of certain of the numbered allotments, which were transferred by reference to lots on a deposited plan. One of the lots faced a proposed street called Dudley-street. Owing to the formation of the railway line this street became closed to traffic. Robert George Priddle, as the successor in title to H. C. A. Allan and C. and D. Priddle, applied to be registered as the owner of portion of the soil in Dudley-street, which, he claimed, had not passed under the transfer of the particular lot in question.

Application for direction by the Court was also made concerning lands at Oyster Cove, North Sydney. In this case a subdivision had been made the same as in the Petersham case. Here the registered proprietor of the complete block claimed that he was entitled to a residue certificate for the unsold lots and the whole of the side of the streets in the subdivision.

What the Court was asked to determine was whether, in a subdivision sale of numbered allotments, the transfer of these lots sold would include not only the land within the boundary of the lots, but also the land to the middle thread of any street which the lots faced.

His Honor held that, in the absence of any particular facts or circumstances, a transfer, describing the land transferred by reference to numbered lots on a deposited plan of subdivision, should be construed to divest the estate and interest of the transferer in the roads or streets adjoining the lot or lots transferred to the middle thread of the street. Consequently his Honor held that neither Priddle nor the applicant in respect to the Oyster Cove land were entitled to be registered as proprietors of any portion of the streets contained in the subdivisions.

AUSTRAL EDEN ESTATE.

BENEFICIARIES ASK FOR SALE.

The disposition of considerable areas of land on the Macleay River, and at Dungog, interests in which were bequeathed to a number of beneficiaries by the late John Verge, who died in 1861, was the subject of a motion for a decree. Mr. Maughan and Mr. Weston, instructed by Messrs. Abbot, Tout, and Balcombe, represented plaintiffs, Florence Auburn Lodge, Harold Banks Smith, Doris Auburn Banks Smith, Oliver Moreton Lodge, and John Dixon Lodge, to ask for a decree that the estate should be sold out of court, subject to the approval of the Master in Equity, and that the proceeds may be distributed amongst the beneficiaries. It had been stated that the property was extensive and valuable. It had been assessed for taxation purposes at over £250,000. There were a large number of defendant beneficiaries, and that if a decree was made the property would be sold and distributed in court. The Permanent Trustee Company (trustees) was represented by Dr. Waddell, instructed by Messrs. Allen, Allen and Hemsley; Mr. Lingen, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., appeared for George, John, and Cuthbert A. Verge; Mr. Ferguson, instructed by Messrs. M'Carthy and Maxwell, appeared for Mary Elizabeth Farquharson; Mr. Harriott, instructed by Messrs. John McLaughlin and Son, appeared for Sydney Verge; Mr. Hardwick, instructed by Messrs. Barry and Norris, agents for Mr. C. E. M. Finn, of Canowindra, appeared for Essington Oden Rudder (now Rutter); and Mr. Royce, instructed by Messrs. Barry and Norris, agents for Mr. Finn, of Canowindra, appeared for Essie Eiben Essington Verge, and Ina Rudder (now Rutter), infant defendants.

After hearing argument, his Honor granted a decree that the property shall be sold in court, the Permanent Trustee Company to have power to pay all costs of liquidation, and of the case before the Court.

CONSTRUCTION OF A WILL.

The construction of a certain clause in the will of the late Mary Sawtell was submitted to his Honor. Plaintiffs in the suit were George Arthur Robinson and John Besnard Sawtell, while defendants were Emily Ford, Eileen Read, and George William Sawtell, an infant. Mr. Parker appeared for plaintiffs, Mr. Milner Stephen for Miss Read, Mr. Brown for Mrs. Ford, and Mr. Ferguson for the infant G. W. Sawtell. All counsel were instructed by Messrs. Higgins and Robinson.

Testatrix died on July 11, 1915. On June 3, 1915, she made a will, in which one clause read:—"I bequeath to my sister, Emily Ford, the sum of £500, and to my friend, Eileen Read, free of succession, probate, and estate duty." His Honor was asked to decide whether testatrix meant either to divide the £500 between the two people mentioned, whether she meant to give each of them £500, or whether, as was contended by plaintiffs, the words "and to my friend Eileen Read" had no meaning, and had been intended to be struck out. Lower down in the will Miss Read was given a diamond necklace.

His Honor decided that the intention of the testatrix was to divide the sum of £500 between her sister Emily Ford, and her friend Eileen Read.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

AN ACTOR'S CLAIM.

CHARGE OF BREACH OF AGREEMENT.

Cross v George Marlow, Ltd.

Mr. M'Kean, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Kalynack and Mr. E. M. Mitchell, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell for the defendants. This was an action brought by George Cross, a member of the theatrical profession, against George Marlow, Ltd., to recover compensation for alleged breach of agreement. This case was that by an agreement dated May 3, 1913, he entered into the service of the defendants for a period of three years, from May 31, 1913, at £14 per week for the first year, £16 per week for the second, and £18 per week for the third year. Plaintiff's case, as stated by his counsel, was that in 1913 he was playing under engagement to the defendant company, and having had a very favourable offer from Mr. King, of Brisbane, he communicated the fact to Mr. George Willoughby, who was at that time managing director for George Marlow, Ltd., informing him that he was disposed to accept it. Willoughby appeared to be very much surprised that plaintiff should think of leaving him, and Cross told him that Mr. King had offered him £15 a week and a certain percentage. Willoughby then offered to enter into a three years' agreement with plaintiff on the terms already stated, with a guaranteed minimum of 46 weeks' salary each year, until the end of the contract. Plaintiff accepted, and the agreement was drawn up, to commence from May 31, 1913, and terminate on the same date in 1916. A short time after the execution of the agreement the theatrical firm of George Willoughby, Ltd., was formed, which took over certain assets of George Marlow, Ltd., though the latter firm had never been out of existence. Plaintiff continued his services, but in July, 1915, George Willoughby, Ltd., went into liquidation. Before that date, however, Mr. Marlow had informed plaintiff that, as things theatrical were in a bad way, if he continued on he would have to accept a lower salary than £18 per week, but to this plaintiff strongly demurred. After taking over the business of George Willoughby, Ltd., defendant company intimated their intention of reducing plaintiff's salary to £15 per week, and eventually plaintiff entered into a temporary arrangement, without prejudice to his rights under the original agreement with Willoughby, which he did not abandon, qualify, or compromise in any way. At the time he was playing at Melbourne, and he was paid £18 per week until the 29th August, 1915, which was the close of the Melbourne season. The arrangement for the payment of £15 per week then came into force, and continued till the 29th October, 1915, when plaintiff, upon going to the defendants' office, was informed that there was no further salary for him. No reason was given, and no complaint was made as to his conduct, capacity, or ability, and the agreement was then broken, although plaintiff was entitled to be paid £18 per week until the 31st May, 1916. Counsel also mentioned that 46 weeks constituted a theatrical year's work. Damages were laid at £500.

The defendants pleaded that the agreement was that they should not be bound to provide plaintiff with more than 46 weeks' work or any additional salary beyond 46 weeks, and that upon the expiration of such term they could then or at any time thereafter dismiss plaintiff from their employment, and after the expiration of 46 weeks they dismissed him. Another plea was that before the alleged breach plaintiff exonerated and discharged them from the performance of the agreement; and, further, that the agreement sued upon was made with one George Willoughby, who was not authorised by the company to make it, and that, in consideration of defendants continuing to employ plaintiff under a fresh agreement, he agreed to forego any claim he might have in regard to the agreement entered into with Willoughby.

Defendant, in the course of his evidence, said that when plaintiff consented to a reduction of his salary to £15 per week, he admitted that the agreement with Willoughby was of no value. Defendant stated further that when plaintiff entered into the agreement with him he did not say that it was without prejudice to his rights under the original agreement. If £16 per week was paid plaintiff during the second year, it was paid by George Willoughby, Ltd., and witness knew nothing about it. He added, "There is such a thing as actors entering into an agreement for so much per week, with an undertaking to pay a portion back."

The evidence and counsels' addresses were concluded, and the further hearing was then adjourned till Monday.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson and juries of four.)

HOTEL STOCK.

Winkleman v Ward.

In this case, which was part heard from the previous day, the plaintiff sued the defendant to recover £78 16s 7d, balance of account for certain liquors bought by the defendant in connection with the sale of a hotel at Cessnock, and the defendant pleaded that they were valueless to him, as they were not of proper quality. The taking of evidence was concluded and counsel addressed the jury. After his Honor had summed up the jury retired to consider its verdict. The jury returned a verdict for plaintiff for £40/2/9.

EJECTMENT.

Louis v Noakes.

Mr. Cowan, instructed by Messrs. Webster and MacLean (for Mr. D. Cowan, of Taree), appeared for the plaintiff; defendant did not appear. This was an action to recover possession of 104 acres 3 roods 20 perches of land in the parish of Macquarie, county of Macquarie, the plaintiff being William Harold Louis, of Wauchope, farmer, and the defendant Norman Noakes. The jury returned a verdict for plaintiff.

WRONGFUL PROSECUTION ACTION.

Ryan v Sharland.

Mr. O'Reilly and Mr. Perry, instructed by Mr. J. B. Moffatt, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Watt, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, for the defendant. The plaintiff in this case, Hannah Ryan, sued Alfred William Sharland to recover damage for alleged wrongful arrest and malicious prosecution. She alleged in her declaration that the defendant gave her in custody of a policeman on a false charge of having stolen certain moneys, that she was taken to a police station and imprisoned there until she was brought before a magistrate, who dismissed the charge against her, and that she had consequently suffered in body, mind, and reputation. She claimed £1000. The defendant pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Watt asked leave to enter a further plea of justification, and his Honor granted it.

Mr. O'Reilly in opening the case to the jury said the plaintiff was a barmaid, employed at a hotel kept by defendant at Chatswood. There were two cash registers in the establishment, and plaintiff was in charge of one of them. Previous to February 10 last she had been 11 days in defendant's employ, and when she had been there about a week defendant's wife said she was short in her cash according to the reading of the machine. Mrs. Sharland, however, admitted that she was wrong, and plaintiff right. On February 10, about half-past 11 o'clock at night, plaintiff was called from her bed, and defendant told her the patent till showed takings £6 6s 6d, while the cash inside it was £4 2s 3d, leaving a deficiency of £2 4s 3d. He further said to the plaintiff, "You must find the money or go to the police station." A constable was present at the time, and defendant was given in charge. The constable asked her how much money she had, and she replied, "A few shillings." She directed him as to where the money was kept, and he proceeded to her room, made a search, and found 6s 11d. The sergeant at Chatswood was also present, and asked defendant if he had the tape record of the machine; defendant said "No." Eventually the plaintiff was taken to the police station by the sergeant and the constable and locked up for the night. On a later day she was brought before a magistrate, who, after hearing evidence, dismissed the information. Plaintiff, giving evidence, said she was taken from Chatswood police station to North Sydney station, thence to the Central station in Sydney, where she was searched, and then back to North Sydney, where she was bailed out about 11 a.m., and was afterwards brought before a magistrate. She also stated that the cash register was defective.

Further evidence was given that the cash register was defective, and that plaintiff had called defendant's attention to the fact. A barmaid, who had previously been in the employ of defendant, was called, and also stated that the cash register went wrong.

The case stands part heard.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

CROSS APPEALS.

Judgment was delivered in the cross appeals by the Pastoralists' Union and the Federated Engine-drivers and Firemen's Association, against the award of the No. 1 (Shearing Shed and Station) Board.

His Honor stated that the employers complained that a complicated method of computing the power of engines by the diameter and surface area of the cylinders had been introduced in place of the horse-power which had hitherto been used on stations. He left the provisions of the board in this matter untouched for the sake of uniformity. In the matter relating to oil engines, the evidence satisfied him that they could be quite easily driven by any man of ordinary intelligence and care, and that when once started they could be left to themselves for hours; but the former award adopted the compromise of the Sundry Industries Board, and, on the principle laid down above, that should remain undisturbed. The employees asked that the provision as to "engine-drivers or firemen, or shed hands who are engaged to assist the expert," should either be taken out or amended to prevent possible abuse. He substituted for the words "to engine-drivers or firemen, or shed hands who are engaged to assist the expert," the words, "to men engaged to assist the expert in firing or otherwise at the engine."

He re-inserted the old provision that the man engaged outside who travelled to the station should be paid his travelling expenses one way. He allowed the time given to re-adjusting bearings and repairing the engine, but disallowed the time for pressing. He fixed the engine-drivers' average week at 50 hours, and accepted the deduction by the board of 15s in lieu of keep. As for the other rates of wages, he left them as fixed by the board.

(Before Mr. Justice Edmunds.)

BUILDING TRADE.

The cross-appeals by the Master Builders' Association and the Australian Builders Labourers' Federation against the award of the No. 10 Board, Building Trades Group, was mentioned by Mr. Richards on behalf of the Master Builders' Association.

He stated that the matters before the Court were pending on a decision of the Privy Council.

Under the circumstances, his Honor stated that he would allow the case to remain in the list until the Privy Council decision was reached.

The appeal by the Australian Builders Labourers' Federation against the award of the Country Board in the same matter was allowed to remain on the list, the circumstances being the same as in the previous case.

APPLICATION FOR VARIATION.

The Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Service Association applied for a variation of the award of the No. 2 Board, Government Railways Group.

HABERFIELD.

It is now over 12 years since Haberfield was first thought of, and the scheme that was then propounded has been carried out in its entirety and conducted on all sides with very great success.

SUCCESS ATTENDED THE BUILDING up of Haberfield because, firstly, the buildings at all times and of all descriptions have been of a most substantial character; secondly, the properties were highly finished, and at the same time with artistic treatment. Thirdly, large areas were reserved for all time round the properties, and only buildings of a certain class allowed. Fourthly, our terms have always been on a

FIVE PER CENT. BASIS,

and we have been able to meet the financial requirements of almost any buyer. In this direction everything has been made extremely easy. Fifthly, the sanitation and general layout of the Suburb have been conducive to the healthiest conditions.

WE CAN GO ON GIVING MANY OTHER REASONS, but we think those mentioned above are sufficient for the present.

TO-DAY WE HAVE A FINE ASSORTMENT OF COTTAGE HOMES, ranging from, say, varying in size, some three bedrooms and 4 bedrooms, some two [illegible] and breakfast-room, etc. In all cases large [illegible], wide verandahs, well-fitted bathrooms, [illegible], sewerage, and electric light. [illegible] roads are all metalled, all footways kerbed, and the Municipal work is up to a high standard of [illegible].

OUR OFFICES AT HABERFIELD AND SUMMER HILL are open all day Saturday, and we have Salesmen in attendance, who will be glad to take you round.

DO NOT MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY.

It is quite an acknowledged fact that building operations in the future will be much more expensive than in the past, so buy the properties while you can get them at a reasonable figure.

OUR PRICES WILL COMPARE WITH ANY PROPERTIES of similar size in any Suburb close to the city.

HABERFIELD IS APPROACHED

by Electric tram from George-street, or from Summer Hill and Ashfield Railway Stations, and is within four miles of the G.P.O.

THE TITLE IS TORRENS.

We are prepared to allow ANY AMOUNT TO REMAIN ON MORTGAGE AT 5 PER CENT.

FARM AND STATION.

WILD CATS, GOANNAS, AND BIRDS.

(BY W. M. SHERRIE.)

On several occasions recently odd farmers in different parts of the State have come forward to champion the cause of the crow as a useful insect-eating bird. Now it is the turn of the wild cat, and the so-called "iguana." It may be pointed out, by the way, that there are no "iguanas" to be found in Australia. These members of the great lizard family are indigenous to Brazil and other parts of South America and Jamaica, and are, unlike their alleged relation in this country, of vegetarian habit. The Australian goanna (it should be noted that this name has now been adopted in deference to popular usage, and probably for want of a better), is of carnivorous habit, is extremely pugnacious, and well able to defend itself against all manner of enemies. Indeed, this hardy creature possesses quite exceptional powers both of attack and defence. No ordinary bush dog is a match for a large goanna. The writer once saw two strong and well-seasoned cattle dogs vanquished in a fair fight on the ground by a single goanna about 4ft 6in in length. When attacked, that particular goanna was in the act of raiding the nest of a wood swallow in a small box-tree, which fact reminds us that some farmers are now seeking to have this animal protected on the ground that it kills large numbers of rabbits.

At a meeting of the Wagga Pastures Protection Board a leading farmer wrote asking that steps should be taken to have both the goanna and the domesticated cat, which has gone wild, protected for the reason stated. After discussing the matter the board agreed to ask the department which is entrusted with the administration of the Animals Protection Act to "Extend its provisions in that district to the goanna and the domesticated cat living in the bush." Having had many years of experience of both this species of wild cat and the goanna, the writer strongly feels that this action is not justifiable. It may be admitted freely that these animals kill rabbits. But it must not be lost sight of that they also destroy great numbers of the eggs and young of useful indigenous birds. The "home" of the domesticated cat which has harkened to the "call of the wild" and taken to the bush—usually a hollow log, or uprooted tree in a secluded spot where timber is thick—generally will be found to be surrounded literally with the bones and the feathers of birds. Wild cats of domestic origin also may become a great pest about homesteads where there are chickens. As to the goanna there are few of the smaller indigenous animals and birds which do not suffer from its predaceous and voracious habits. It kills opossums, native cats (the Dasyure tribe, which are also useful for preying on rabbits), and bush mice and rats, and the writer has known it to attack even so large an animal as the kangaroo-rat. But it is among the birds that the goanna does the greatest mischief.

One goanna has been known to "clean up" the eggs of eleven woodswallows' nests in the course of half an hour. If those nests had contained young birds the results would have been just the same. It is, of course, quite probable that with the introduction and multiplication of the rabbit the goanna does not give so much attention to other wild creatures as it did in the days when flesh food was less easy to obtain. But it must not be forgotten that the goanna has an instinctive taste for eggs just as the fox has for the tongues of sheep, and the crow for the eyes of the same quadruped. Because of this the widely distributed bush marauder will always remain a pest among wild birds, no matter how abundant and easy to capture may be the rabbit and other small animals on which it preys. In many parts of Riverina goannas even become a trouble to poultry keepers, and will come right up to the homesteads in quest of eggs.

It is likely that in some localities they may be entirely useful because there is no scope for mischief. In not a few farming areas there is so little timber that breeding birds are not attracted thereto. In such circumstances it might, therefore, happen that goannas would render good service in destroying rabbits without becoming a pest among wild birds. For this reason it may be that some farmers do find the goanna much more useful than harmful on their holdings. But the writer has no doubt whatever that in all regions where indigenous, insectivorous birds are in the habit of breeding, the goanna will be found to be more valuable dead than alive. The taste of these creatures for birds' eggs seems to be insatiable, and it is impossible to compute the extent of the damage they do season after season in raiding nests for eggs and unfledged young.

One of the principal victims of the goanna in this respect is the woodswallow family. The woodswallows are among the most valuable of the insect-eating birds in Australia. They come south in vast numbers in the spring, and build flimsy, open, exposed nests, placed in situations which make them very easy for climbing animals to get at. Like the fairy martin (or bottle swallow), the woodswallows mostly nest in communities, so that within a very limited space of land covered with saplings or scrub two or three goannas may, and commonly do, consume hundreds of eggs and young birds every day during the breeding season of these useful migrants.

There are very few farming localities in which some wild birds do not nest that are valuable insect-eaters, and which build nests that are easy for both cats and goannas to raid. If there is no timber about a farm, of course, there will be no nesting birds there, with the possible exception of sparrows (which are a great nuisance), and meadow larks (or pipits), which are not sufficiently numerous to be of very much value as enemies of insect pests. The point for the farmer to keep in mind is that if he is going to cultivate the goanna and the domestic cat gone wild he cannot also expect to have wild birds in the same region. And if the question is given full consideration it will probably be recognised by everyone that the service of birds in preying upon insect pests is of more value than the service of goannas and cats in destroying rabbits.

THE WOOL TRADE.

A SUCCESSFUL WEEK.

With the bulk of the good wools already disposed of, the offerings in the Sydney market this week were necessarily of a clearing-up character. There was a very small proportion of good to super wool in the grease to catalogue; consequently the selections mainly comprised medium and faulty descriptions, many being short, dusty, and burry. The scoureds, however, were generally attractive, and included some good lines from country establishments in this State, as well as from Queensland. Although the market dragged for short, faulty, burry wools, and the selections were mainly of a medium character, the demand was only dull for very inferior descriptions, which proved difficult of sale. When any good, free merinos appeared in the catalogues the scene in the saleroom was full of animation; not so excited, perhaps, as during the latter part of January and most of February, when some choice merinos and crossbreds were included in the offerings, still brisk and active enough to result in good clearances at high rates for both greasy and scoured.

On the four selling days some 25,830 bales were catalogued, of which about 20,360 were sold at auction. A larger percentage of clearances would have been acceptable at satisfactory prices; but, considering the quality of the wools, and the large proportion of medium and inferior descriptions that looked absolutely hopeless some months ago, the market conditions are very good. The ninth month of the current selling season is not quite reached yet. No fewer than 628,381 bales have been catalogued in the Sydney market, and 628,159 bales sold by auction and privately, at rates far in excess of anything anticipated 12 months ago. A small legacy from last selling season is included in that total. During the 1914-15 selling season it was not possible to conserve the market and clear all the stocks, consequently the season was extended into the 1915-16 period, with the very best possible results to growers. All that is needed in wool-growing circles now is good rains. If good general rains fall soon the prospects for next season's clip will be good; if dry weather continues the wool in some districts will again show the effects of drought, and diminish further in quality.

Rates current for the principal descriptions of the staple may be given as follow:—

THE OFFERINGS AND SALES.

A very medium selection of wools in the grease was submitted on Monday, when three catalogues, totalling 5420 bales were offered, and 4244 bales cleared at auction. There were no super lines, medium and faulty descriptions preponderating. The scoured section, however, including a parcel from Queensland, was attractive, and comprised a number of good to super lines. The market was firm for medium merinos, but burry crossbreds were easier. Best scoureds, when free, were firm at previous rates, but burry sorts were irregular and lower. Greasy sold to 16¾d for lines from New England, scoured to 28¾d, paid for 10 bales of TS/Budda, from Bourke, nice quality, colour, and quality, free.

On Tuesday the selection was a much-improved one on that of the previous day. The offerings included a few super lines, and comprised a very fair proportion of good and average wools in the grease, one catalogue including a clip of last season, as well as that of the current season's growth. There was also a good display of scoured. With such a comparatively attractive selection for the lateness of the season, there was every inducement for buyers to operate freely on all the better descriptions, and this they did with very satisfactory results, for out of 7954 bales offered 6695 bales were cleared at auction. Wasty and faulty sorts were irregular and difficult of sale, but all good, free wools were in strong demand at the best rates of the season. Greasy sold to 19¾d for 18 bales AAA of JK/Mount Kennedy/New England; and scoured to 29¾d for 8 bales 1st com e of WMcC/M/Coomburah, from Brewarrina.

On Wednesday four catalogues were submitted, aggregating 6048 bales, of which 4671 were cleared under the hammer. It was only a medium selection, and the large lots few, while the star lots were many. There were a few nice lines, but the bulk were of medium and faulty descriptions. Good, free wools were in active demand, but short, faulty, burry sorts were dull and weaker. Greasy sold to 18d and scoured to 26d.

Three catalogues were submitted on Thursday, totalling 6429 bales, of which 5235 were realised at auction. The selection included a sprinkling of good, useful merinos, with a considerable proportion of medium and faulty sorts. There was a fair display of scoured, including one or two attractive parcels from Queensland. The market ruled firm for all good wools, but irregular for faulty, burry sorts. Scoured sold well up to the best point of the week. Greasy realised to 18¾d, and scoured to 30¾d, paid for 18 bales AA h of ADA/Willoughby, from Barcaldine, Q., good quality and condition, free.

The quantity catalogued and sold during the week, and total for the season, compared to the corresponding period last year, is as follows:—

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

The first of the two weeks' series, which constitute the clearing-up sales in Melbourne, have been held, and the closing auctions will take place on Wednesday; to be followed by a one-day's sale in Geelong on Thursday. The offerings included a good display of merinos from Western Australia, which improved the selection considerably. Good to super wools were in strong demand at unchanged rates, but inferior and faulty descriptions were in buyers' favour, while lambs' wool was irregular and generally lower. The quantity catalogued and sold in the principal interstate centres to latest available dates compares with the corresponding period last season as follows:—

PARRAMATTA ORCHARD NOTES.

Growers state that the orchards need some more rain at the present time, in order to bring on the second crop. It is this crop to which the growers are looking for some return for their year's labour, for the main crop is extremely light in most places, and practically nil with others. With favourable weather from now, it is estimated that the second crop will be early this season. Unless it gets a check it should, they say, be ready for market early in January, though, even at that time of the year, it is not expected that it will realise high prices, as it will clash with the summer fruit. This is the opinion of a Dural grower of long experience. People, he says, are educated up to a fine point in the matter of fruit consumption, and as soon as the cherries and early apricots and peaches get on the market the orange is passed over. His experience has been that oranges reach their top price in Melbourne early in November, and then, with the advent of the cherries and other early fruit, there is a big slump in oranges. Of course, the second crop orange is not of the highest quality as a rule, but this season it promises to be equal to the main crop, owing to the fact that it will get the full benefit of the tree's vigour, which will not be checked as it generally is after carrying a full main crop.

SETTLERS' ATTITUDE.

Mr. J. H. Jarrott, hon. secretary, Leeton, writes:—Will you kindly give publicity to the following resolution adopted by the Murrumbidgee Irrigation Farmers' Union, and forwarded to the Premier:—

"That this meeting of the M.I. Farmers' Union, while expressing its appreciation of the comprehensive promises made by the Premier, maintains—(a) that the charges of misrepresentation unitedly made by the settlers against the Government have been fully substantiated, and that the promised compensation can only be regarded as the discharging of the definite obligations of a responsible government; (b) that the Government should defer the fixing of any detailed policy in regard to the redesigning of living areas until the new commission and the proposed joint board have made a searching inquiry into the requirements of the various industries it is proposed to encourage, and the full weight of all available experience, both local and otherwise, has been brought to bear upon these all-important problems.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

GOULBURN.—Mr. F. Bell, of Kingsdale, has this season from one hive taken 743lb of excellent honey. This is probably a record for the district. A local amateur apiarist has taken over half a ton within two months.

KEMPSEY.—At the Stock Board meeting on Friday a rate of a penny on large stock was struck. The number of horses in the district, 12,298, is a decrease of 48 on the previous year; cattle, 113,867, being an increase of 4321; sheep, 3044, a decrease of 422. The increase of cattle, considering the big losses during the dry weather, is regarded as very satisfactory.

MULLUMBIMBY SHOW.

MULLUMBIMBY.—The Mullumbimby Patriotic Show was held yesterday under good weather conditions. The attendance was not up to previous years. The exhibition of cattle was considered the best ever held on the North Coast. Results:—

In the farm and dairy produce section, H. C. Yager won for maize in five classes. Collection of bananas: J. and H. R. Bower.

Cattle.—Jerseys. Champion bull: W. Bower, 1 and 2. Champion cow: W. Bower. Pen three cows, milking: W. Bower, 1; J. E. M'Paul, 2. Pen three cows, dry: W. Bower, 1; J. E. M'Paul, 2. THE LATE MR. J. S. SHEARSTON.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I was exceedingly sorry to read of the death of Mr. Shearston in your issue of yesterday, and would much have liked to have been able to pay the last tribute of respect and esteem at his graveside. I read with much interest the account of his work, and note the reference to a letter which he received from the Admiralty expressing their lordships' appreciation of the splendid work he was then doing (in the early 'Eighties) amongst the men of the fleet.

I know that he was very proud of that letter, because it is not usual for such to be written by the Admiralty. He had it framed and hung in his office at the Royal Naval House, pointing it out to me some few years ago. I would like to say in regard to this that the letter resulted from a despatch sent to the Admiralty by the late Rear-Admiral J. C. Wilson, A.D.C., then commanding the Australian station, and whose secretary I was at the time. This officer recognised the great value of Mr. Shearston's work, and especially drew the Admiralty's attention to it, asking that official recognition should be made.

This was at the time of handing over the station to his successor (Commodore J. E. Erskine) and transferring his flagship, the Wolverene, to the Australian Government as a free gift from the Admiralty; and so far as I remember the despatch was the last one written on board that ship flying the white ensign, which was soon after replaced by the Australian blue flag, the Nelson succeeding as flagship. Since those days I have been more or less in touch with the late Mr. Shearston. His keenness in his life's work always seemed to me to increase rather than diminish (despite failing health), and feeling as I do his loss I can fully realise what the feelings will be of the thousands of officers and men of the fleet, who can look back with intense gratitude to the never-failing kindness and sympathy which he gave so freely out of the great love and admiration he felt for them.

I am, etc.,
ERNEST E. ROW.

Did ease his pain and give him rest.

THE RUSSIAN ADVANCE.

At no time since the war began have the geographical advantages and disadvantages of the Central Powers been more clearly manifest than they are to-day, when the Germans are making a gigantic attempt to break through the allied lines on the west, and the Russians are beginning to advance at almost every point of importance on the east. From the outset it was realised that the Central Powers had two great advantages, which would compensate for any possible inferiority in numbers. Their policy had given them an army completely equipped; their geographical position gave them a degree of mobility through which they could concentrate armies at any particular point in such a manner as to be numerically superior to their adversaries. The plan which was founded on these two advantages was used in the attempt to crush France before Russia was ready. The manner in which they had been developed in combination was revealed in the campaigns of last winter, when the western line was held with inferior numbers, protected by a skilfully-fortified system of trenches, and large numbers abundantly supplied with artillery were employed in the east with the object of conquering Poland, and ultimately capturing one or more of the Russian armies. There is no doubt that the partial success of that campaign disclosed weaknesses in the allied organisation which they themselves had never suspected. The Allies in the west were convicted of failure to appreciate the needs of modern warfare, in spite of the lessons of their early defeat. The Russian plans were shown to have been equally at fault, whether through miscalculation or treachery or negligence will scarcely be known until the impeachment of the late Minister for War has been completed. But it is no less clear that the failure to destroy the Russian armies or to obtain a separate peace convinced the German leaders that their plans had been mistaken, and that if an immediate decision was desired it must be obtained in the west. The Allies were naturally left to ask themselves whether they would see a march towards Petrograd or Kief or Odessa, just as the British advisers were warned to expect an attack on Egypt. But the General Staff had evidently decided on the offensive movement which began in January, and has now culminated in the five costly assaults on Verdun. The prospect of subduing Russia was too remote. The vital spot in the nation could not be found, and if found might have to be pursued to the Ural Mountains. The most promising course was, therefore, to aim at the heart of France, and until success was assured to hold the eastern frontier by the methods which had been successful in the west; by fortifications and by successive attacks where the foe seemed likely to become aggressive. The success of this plan depended on two factors, both of which were present last year. The main attack must be successful within a reasonable time, and the defence must be able to hold its ground either through its own strength or through the continued backwardness of the enemy. This year the enemy has so far failed in his first object. His attack, though still treated by the French with the utmost respect, has caused him enormous losses without any serious gains. In the east there is abundant proof that his lines will be tested at every point from the Baltic to the Black Sea, and from the Black Sea to the north of Persia. In their first campaign of this year the Germans were anticipated by the Russians. Though their attack on Verdun is said to have been premature, the Russians had been before them with their campaigns in Galicia and Bukovina and Asia Minor. The fighting in Europe was inconclusive, except in so far as it proved the quality of the new equipment of the Russians and the bravery of the new armies. But the fighting in Asia Minor was the beginning of a campaign as vital to the German cause as any battle on German or French soil. It was to prove to the world that if the Allies had failed to save their friends, Germany could do no better for hers. It was to show many Turks and Bulgarians that their only safety lay in an early peace, and that if they were to remain in the war none of their troops could be spared from their own frontiers. This initial victory on a famous battlefield was to send the Russian armies into their next campaign inspired by the certainty of victory.

We have already seen the improvement which a fair appreciation of the needs of the war has made in the strength of the Allies first in the Champagne offensive, and secondly in the defence of Verdun. There is conclusive evidence of a similar improvement in the Russian equipment, in their capture of the Austrian position about Czernovitz, when an elaborate system of fortifications was destroyed. A few months ago a commission of Russian officers visited the trenches in the Artois district and marvelled at the comforts of the French soldiers, saying what a different reception they would have given the enemy last year had they been supplied with the same defences and the same compact food. Later on when a French commissioner visited Petrograd he reported that by March of this year the Russians would be as well off as their Allies. The result has not been achieved without many of the difficulties which were thought to be unknown to an autocratic Government. There have been strikes on a large scale, and considerable dissatisfaction with the members of the Government, especially with the Prime Minister. The success of the Government appears to be due to a combination of factors; to the detestation of Germany which has obliterated distinctions between merchants and Socialists; the skill of M. Sazonoff, who has kept Russia in touch with her liberal Allies and has checked German propaganda, and to the idealism of the Czar. It is no new feature in Russian history to find the Czar embodying the ideals of his people. It was the Czar Alexander who proposed a league of peace to Pitt in 1804, and it was his successor who convoked the first peace conference at The Hague. But we have had to wait for the defeats of this war to find this idealism take a practical form in destroying all political quarrels and teaching the nation that its one hope of salvation was in the army. It is obvious that the struggle to prevent a breach between the progressive parties and the reactionaries who fight against any further inroad on the despotic form of government has not been easy. That it has been successful was shown by the presence of the Czar at the opening of the Duma, and by the statements of the new Prime Minister. The Czar has shown that Russia needs unity among her people as well as in the army; for that purpose he has added members of the Duma to his Council and to his Ministry. Baron Sturmer's appointment was a sign that no political changes were to be made during the war, but his resignation of his place in the Conservatives was a proof of his intention not to continue the reactionary and repressive policy of the former Prime Minister, M. Goremykin.

THE FRIEND OF SAILORS.

In the old days the captain of a ship was called the rector; and if one wants to realise the connection between the Church and the sea one has only to read Mr. Frank T. Bullen's book, "With Christ at Sea," the author of which tells us that he was converted at a seamen's mission. Or we may read the memoirs of the Rev. John Cavendish, who followed the sea until middle age, when he inherited a competency and, retiring from his profession, entered the Church. When he died it was found that he had directed in his will that he should be buried at sea "to show that I believe in the essential unity, though few perceive it." He used to say: "I've been a captain, and I'm a rector now, and I see the connection." The clergyman simply had to steer the ship of heaven, laden with souls, into port. And here in Sydney for more than 40 years there lived and worked a man who bore witness to that "essential unity" that Cavendish spoke of. This week he died and was buried, but the years will not efface the memory of John S. Shearston. Here and there in the world we find some quiet, unostentatious man giving up his life to the service of his fellow-men, one in this direction, another in that, careless of the world's applause, content to do his duty, and there an end. The late Mr. Shearston was such a man as this; and if ever a man deserved a monument, here was one. But he has his monument already; and it is the Royal Naval House of Sydney, which stands in Grosvenor-street. You may roam the seas all over the earth, but you will never find an ocean where ships go to and fro and the name of John S. Shearston is not known. That unique thing may be said of him that he was better known abroad than at home. Save when there was something to be done for the sailor, he was rarely seen in public. His life was spent at the Royal Naval House, caring for the seafaring stranger within our gates; and when he was not there, then you would find him seeking out the strangers in their ships. And thereafter the stranger was the friend—a lifelong friend. Up to the last, we are told, he maintained his correspondence with the large numbers of men who had been stationed here; and though in later years his work had been chiefly devoted to the blue-jackets on this station, many of his correspondents were seamen of the mercantile marine who had never forgotten his kindness to them. For this man had a heart as big, and sympathies as wide, as the seas themselves. Nor will his passing be mourned only wherever there are British ships and seamen; it will be mourned by sailors of all nations. There was never a seafaring man, of whatever nationality, who received anything but kindness from this man who was variously and lovingly known as "Johnny Shearston," "Father Shearston," and "The Sailors' Friend." "I often sit and think with mellow happiness," wrote the late Mr. Frank Bullen, just before he died at Madeira a year ago, "that scattered all over the world there are people who are thinking kindly of me as of one who spoke words to them pleasant to recall." And so it was with the subject of this article—scattered all over the world there were men thinking kindly of him, even as he was thinking of them.

Mr. Shearston has gone from us, but his work must go on. Difficult as it will be to find a man to take his place—it will, indeed, be impossible to find one who will combine in his nature so many admirable qualities—there must yet be a continuation of the work he so nobly performed. Men come and go, the greatest with the rest, but the world's work goes on; and there is no work more necessary than that of caring for our sailors. We of the British Empire in particular are a great maritime nation. When we speak of the Fleet of England as her "all in all," the words call up the vision of the British flag planted in the four corners of the earth and of the long succession of British ships ploughing their way through the waves, under the protection of that Fleet which is to-day the guardian of our rights and liberties against an implacable and powerful enemy. But if it is the Fleet that has kept us inviolate and secure, it is the British mercantile marine which has built up the greatness of our Empire. It is that which has helped to make Sydney, until to-day Sydney is the fifth port in point of shipping in the British Empire. We live on the sea folk. We speak often of the dependence of the city upon the country, and that is true, of course; but city and country alike are dependent upon the ships that enter our ports. Our railways would be useless if there were no ships in port to take our wool and wheat and all the products of our soil away. So that we owe it as a duty that we shall do what in us lies for the comfort and the welfare of seamen. They are part of us. No man realised this better than the late Mr. Shearston. No man better understood the sailor's heart, his loneliness in a strange city, his yearning for friendship, and withal the many temptations which beset his path. In him the sailor found a true friend who helped him on his way—helped him to steer clear of pitfalls and gave him a real home, never neglecting to point out the path of duty and honour. He was a true missionary who, mindful of the perils of the land as well as of the sea, found his text in the Divine words: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me." We have in Sydney the Rawson Institute for Seamen and the Sailors' Home; both of which are doing magnificent work among our sailors, and many a one has spoken with gratitude of the real help these institutions have afforded them. There are also one or two denominational institutions. But the Royal Naval House in Grosvenor-street is the chief of all. The conditions have changed, and Australia no longer has an Imperial squadron policing her shores. We have a navy of our own now. And it is with the men and boys of our own ships that the Royal Naval House will be chiefly concerned in future. That is an additional reason why it should be an institution very near and dear to our hearts.

SHIPS AND WHARFS.

STRINGENT REGULATIONS.

The following order has been issued by the Defence Department with regard to persons boarding ships or wharfs without special permission:—

If any person shall enter or board a British merchant ship which engages in oversea or interstate trade, while such ship is moored alongside any wharf or is in any harbour, without the permission in writing of the competent naval and military authority, or of the owners of or agent for the ships, he shall be guilty of an offence under the War Precautions Act.

The regulation does not apply to any person employed by the Commonwealth or State who enters the ship on duty; any member of the naval and military forces on duty; any person employed by the harbour authorities; or any member of the ship's crew; or any person who has engaged a passage by the ship. Any person authorised for the purpose by the competent naval or military authority, or any police constable, or officer of the Customs, or any person employed by the harbour authorities, may arrest, without warrant, any person who commits or attempts to commit a breach of this regulation.

The same applies to any person, other than those exempt, who shall enter on any wharf which is enclosed or shut off by walls, fences, hurdles, or other obstacles erected to prevent or regulate access thereto without permission in writing from the authorities, as in the case of boarding a ship.

COAL TRADE RESTRICTIONS.

VESSELS LEAVE IN BALLAST.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

At to-day's meeting of the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce a discussion took place on the embargo upon the export of coal to foreign countries. The opinion was expressed that it was ridiculous to see vessels leaving the port in ballast, when they were prepared and anxious to take coal. The case of the steamer Atua was mentioned. This steamer called at Newcastle with the intention of taking a cargo of coal to Java, a country which at one time received a very large quantity of Newcastle coal. She had a following charter from Java, and therefore could not take wheat from here to England. Yet in those circumstances the vessel was still allowed to go out in ballast. Certain information was placed before the council, and they deemed it inadvisable to take any action.

LAND FOR SOLDIERS.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

The Barrier Empire League has received the offer of a block of land at Wentworth from Mr. George Sykes, to be disposed of, and the proceeds to be divided between the wounded Soldiers' Fund and the Wentworth and West Darling Empire Leagues. The offer has been accepted.

NEXT P.L.L. CONFERENCE.

When the Political Labour League of New South Wales commences its annual conference on April 22, it will be asked to consider no fewer than 450 proposals which have been remitted to it by affiliated organisations. These embody an extraordinary variety of ideas, ranging from a suggestion, made by the Randwick league, that no voter shall be allowed to travel less than one mile in a motor car to a polling booth, to the proposition, advanced by the A.W.U., that "all servile language" be eliminated from Parliamentary petitions. The Thirlmere league asked that all labour laws should be administered entirely by "labour sympathisers;" the rubber workers' union wants the tourist vote and the maintenance of commercial agents in other countries abolished, and the money thus saved applied to the compulsory free technical education of all apprentices; while the Ourimbah league advocates a law compelling a husband, when making a will, to bequeath at least one-third of his property to his wife.

The proposals relate to practically every aspect of democratic government, and many of them urge an extension of the activities of the State. Ashburnham wants State labour bureaux; Bogan Gate seeks the direct control of public hospitals by the Government; that the Government establish Mont de Piete for loans at a reasonable rate of interest, is proposed by the St. George council; the King league would have the ferry services nationalised; and others want the State to take over the cement industry, the sugar industry, the distribution of milk, the conduct of lotteries on a large scale, and the complete control of the liquor industry.

Great significance may be attached to the proposals put forward by the executive body of the league. These ask, among other things, that all appointments to the Legislative Council be first endorsed by the league executive; that Ministers be not expected to vote collectively when Labour platform matters are being considered by the caucus; that a tariff in favour of the goods of the allied and friendly neutral nations be adopted; that no Liberal member of Parliament who has volunteered for active service be opposed by a Labour candidate; that the Greater Sydney Bill authorise the council to carry on the undertaking business; that the conference heartily endorse the Government's bread monopoly scheme; and that either Australian soldiers be asked to record their votes at the front, or that the present Parliament remain in existence until the end of the war.

Under the heading of "censures," a broadside of hostile resolutions is directed against the Holman Government. The A.W.U. and the Coraki, Orange, and St. Leonards leagues say that the Legislative Council should have been abolished; Coraki deplores the failure to establish the totalisator; Orange censures the Premier because he has not dealt with the liquor question; the rubber workers allege "inexcusable delay" in providing for the inspection of land boilers and machinery; Mascot objects to the truce with the Liberals, which resulted in the absence of "domestic legislation;" Carlton suggests formal disapproval of all Labour members who voted against the House sitting during the day; Coraki "protests against the subsidising by Labour Governments of prominent and aggressively hostile Liberals to Government positions while equally efficient and eligible Labour sympathisers are available;" the A.W.U. condemns leading Labourites "for associating themselves with the capitalist class" in advocating conscription; and there are a host of other similar proposals.

The system of government receives much attention. About a dozen resolutions urge the abolition of the Legislative Council, and others propose that there shall be no State Governor, and that the State Administration shall be smaller and more economical. Two branch leagues, Mortdale and Hurstville, propose that 5 per cent. of the salaries of Labour members, whether State or Federal, be used in the organising work of the Political Labour League. "Initiative, referendum, and recall" are well supported, and others want the franchise extended to all persons over 18 years of age.

Remarkable measures, held to be necessary owing to the war, are advocated by some of the branches. Orange wants the Government to confiscate all incomes in excess of £300 per annum, and the half of all fortunes greater than £10,000. The A.W.U. suggests that "the source of production, distribution, and supply required for war purposes and national salvation be at once nationalised." Surry Hills desires the issue of 3 per cent. Treasury bills, holders to be ultimately repaid the face value of the bills, and the accumulated interest to be distributed by means of a lottery.

The A.W.U. wants the differentiation between classes in railway travelling abolished. The Homebush and Dundebleton leagues are opposed to extra tram fares being charged on Sundays, and urge Government action in relation thereto.

Y.M.C.A. APPEAL.

GENEROUS OFFER.

Mr. Septimus Levy has offered to give £100 to the fund, provided nine other gifts of a like amount can be secured. The citizens' committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. F. G. Sargood, is busy with its organisation. Already the committee has secured several generous gifts. £1000 was cabled to Egypt on Tuesday, and further cables for money are expected. Since Australia has indicated a willingness to undertake the whole expense of the Y.M.C.A. work in Egypt and at the front for serving Australian soldiers, British Y.M.C.A. money hitherto at call is withdrawn, and the financing of the work now falls wholly on Australia.

"We are doing pretty well," said Mr. Sargood yesterday, "but we must see to it that we fulfil our whole responsibility, and provide for our Australian boys as Australia wants us to do. The Y.M.C.A. is simply the trustee for Australian fathers, mothers, and friends, for looking after their boys. The citizens' committee of responsible citizens guarantees the efficiency and value of that service."

The hon. treasurers, Mr. A. W. Meeks, M.L.C., and Mr. J. T. Tillock, acknowledge the following amounts:—

COMMONWEALTH BANK.

BRANCHES IN NEW ZEALAND.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

During his visit to New Zealand the Governor of the Commonwealth Bank (Mr. Denison Miller) made preliminary arrangements for the establishment of three branches of the Commonwealth Bank in the Dominion.

RUSSIANS.

FURTHER PROGRESS.

FIERCE FIGHTING.

IN THE WEST.

THE GERMAN ATTACK.

MORE SHIPS SUNK.

A Petrograd communique states that the Russians have penetrated the German organisations in the Jacobstadt sector, between Riga and Dvinsk.

Elsewhere there has been fierce fighting. In the Upper Strypa region the Russians claim to have repulsed an attack, inflicting enormous losses.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Petrograd correspondent states that a fierce battle is raging along a line of lakes south of Dvinsk.

A German wireless message says that the Russians repeatedly attacked between Lakes Narotch and Wiszniefl, but did not secure any advantage.

The German failure at Verdun has created a bad impression in Bulgaria. Several Bulgarian regiments are said to have massacred their officers.

The Germans are continuing the movement to encircle Morthomme, in the Verdun region.

French troops from Salonica engaged and drove the Germans from the heights north-eastward of Maisikova.

Several more vessels, including two Norwegian steamers, have been sunk by German submarines.

The Budget Committee of the Reichstag is sitting secretly to discuss the matter of submarine warfare.

SUBMARINES.

MORE VESSELS SUNK.

TWO NORWEGIAN SHIPS.

LONDON, March 23.

The steamer Sea Serpent (902 tons) has been sunk.

The French barque Bougainville (2248 tons) has been sunk. Twenty-three members of the crew were picked up.

The Norwegian steamer Kannik has been sunk. The crew were saved.

The Norwegian vessel Lindfeld has been sunk. Thirty members of the crew have been landed at Queenstown.

WATCHED SAILORS DROWN.

PARIS, March 23.

When the steamer Renaudin was torpedoed the officers and crew of the submarine impassively watched the sailors drowning. A French destroyer hastened to the rescue of the crew and the submarine disappeared.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS' ATTITUDE

AMSTERDAM, March 23.

The Socialists in the Reichstag have resolved to move in connection with the submarine campaign of Germany the avoidance of everything detrimental to the rights of neutrals. They have also decided to urge the Government to do its utmost to secure a speedy peace, guaranteeing the Empire's integrity, political independence, and freedom of economic development.

The Budget Committee of the Reichstag is sitting secretly to discuss the renewal of submarine warfare.

AIRMAN'S DEATH.

FELL 1500 FEET.

LONDON, March 23.

A verdict of death by misadventure was returned at the inquest regarding the death of Lieut. Alan Walker, an Australian, who fell 1500 feet while aeroplaning at Dover.

[The late Lieutenant Alan Walker was the son of Mr. C. A. Le M. Walker, the hon. secretary of the War Chest Fund. He was 22 years of age, and was educated at the North Sydney Church of England Grammar School.]

INTERNED GERMANS.

LONDON, March 23.

In the House of Commons, Mr. H. J. Tennant, Under-Secretary for War, stated that 36,291 German civilians had been interned in Britain. Four thousand British were interned in Germany.

EASTERN FRONT.

FIERCE BATTLES.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE.

PETROGRAD, March 24.

A communique has been issued as follows: We pierced the enemy's organisations in the Jacobstadt sector (between Riga and Dvinsk).

We again advanced south-west of Lake Narotch (south of Dvinsk).

We repulsed an attack at Kosloff (in the Upper Strypa region, due west of Tarnopol, in Galicia, inflicting enormous losses.

LONDON, March 23.

The "Daily Chronicle" correspondent at Petrograd says that a fierce battle is raging along a line of lakes south of Dvinsk to Molodetchno. The battles for railways have commenced, Marshal von Hindenburg putting out a feeler at Lake Anger, near Riga and then south of Dvinsk. This stirred up a Russian offensive, and Generals Kuropatkin and Everth are attacking in the Vidsky region, where they seized German trenches at Lake Sekly, and north west of Vileika, where the Russians are seeking to force a passage between Lakes Narocz and Wiszniefl. The Germans meanwhile are struggling to reach the railway from Molodetchno to Polotsk, thus getting to the rear of the Dvinsk position. The Germans are mainly on the defensive, and are stubbornly holding their positions between the lakes which were elaborately constructed during the winter.

GERMAN STATEMENT.

A German wireless message says that the Russians repeatedly advanced with strong forces at Jacobstadt. They delivered four attacks at Vidsky, south of Dvinsk. They also repeatedly attacked with renewed violence between Lakes Narotch and Wiszniefl, but did not secure the slightest advantage.

WESTERN FRONT.

MORTHOMME.

CIRCLING MOVEMENT.

PARIS, March 23.

The Germans continue the movement to encircle Morthomme. If it succeeds it will involve the withdrawal of the French to the line Avocourt-Esnes-Chattancourt-Cumieres.

But the Germans must first take Hill 304, which has a sort of glacis in its completely bare and slippery slopes commanding the adjacent wood, from which the Germans have been unable to debouch since Monday.

The latest communique states: We carried out numerous concentrations, firing upon enemy organisations along the roads and railways east of the Argonne and Malancourt Wood. There were no infantry actions during the day.

EFFECT ON BULGARIA.

The German defeat at Verdun has created a bad impression in Bulgaria. Several Bulgarian regiments have massacred their officers. The people are angry at the German requisitions, and in some instances fired their rifles at the requisitioners.

THE ZEEBRUGGE RAID.

AMSTERDAM, March 24.

The newspapers state that the allied raid on Zeebrugge destroyed an aerodrome containing six aeroplanes.

One of the three torpedo boats which were driven out of the harbour returned with six dead and 30 wounded on board.

SALONICA.

FRENCH ENGAGE GERMANS.

SALONICA, March 23.

The French engaged and drove out the Germans from the heights north-eastward of Maisikova.

TONNAGE.

THE WHEAT PROBLEM.

"FARMERS' SELFISH FOLLY."

LONDON, March 23.

"Fairplay," the ship-owners' organ, refers to what it terms the selfish folly of the Australian wheat farmers in insisting that their crop be carried at any cost, regardless of the claims of other members of the community or the interests of the United Kingdom. The journal hopes that Mr. Hughes will realise that his Government cannot take up the position of Lord High Requisitioner without injurious results to the Empire. Tonnage is scarce for general cargo to Australia, and exorbitant rates are offered without attracting tonnage, because the owners know that the Australian Government is waiting to pounce upon British tonnage coming along in order to compel the owners to take about half the freight to which they are entitled compared with other business offering. Thus, the Australian farmer is depriving the entire community of a thousand and one articles required from Britain and America; or, if the people eventually get them, they pay through the nose for the freight. Mr. Hughes is much too sensible not to see the disadvantages of the present policy.

Granting that the wheat problem is serious, "Fairplay" is sure Mr. Hughes will first recognise that it must always be subservient to Imperial interests.

ARMOURED MOTOR CARS.

OPERATIONS AGAINST SENUSSI.

LONDON, March 24.

The official account of the rescue of the shipwrecked survivors of the steamers Tara and Moorina at Cyrenaica, states that the rescue was due to armed motors with ambulances which sped 121 miles from Sollum and surprised the guards.

The latter fled, but were overtaken and killed.

[A cable a few days ago stated that the Duke of Westminster's motor cars operating against the Senussi tribe, rescued all the imprisoned survivors of the steamer Tara, of whom 95 fell into the hands of the Senussi after the steamer was sunk in the Eastern Mediterranean by a German submarine in November last. The cars also rescued the survivors of the steamer Moorina which was sunk on November 11.]

PARIS CONFERENCE.

POSITION OF MR. HUGHES.

DELICATE QUESTION.

STATEMENT BY MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

LONDON, March 24.

On a motion for adjournment, Sir James Henry Dalziel (Liberal member for Kirkcaldy Burghs) urged the Government to reconsider its decision to send delegates to the Paris Conference merely as observers. The Government, he said, was missing an opportunity to strike a blow which would have an effect in stopping the war. The delegates should have power to say that never in future could trade relations with Germany be as before the war. He urged that Mr. Hughes be included in the delegation.

Mr. Ellis J. Griffith (Liberal member for Anglesey) said we must be careful that we did not punish ourselves more than Germany. There were certain materials only obtainable in Germany, and it would be ridiculous to deprive ourselves of them.

Mr. Donald Macmaster (Unionist member for North-west Surrey) urged that, if Mr. Hughes were allowed to attend the conference, representatives of other Dominions should also be present.

Mr. Lloyd George (Minister for Munitions) said that it was undesirable that a declaration should be made regarding the instructions the Government gave the delegates. It was obviously a case wherein we must trust our delegates to a very considerable extent. This was the first conference of the kind, and he would be surprised and disappointed if it were the last. If they were to organise their trade for generations to come, it had to be done deliberately and carefully. It was not merely a question of tariff. There were much bigger questions, such as our relations with Russia and France, where the opportunities for trade were almost infinite. At the first conference it would be wise to feel our way. The first object was to bring the war to a successful conclusion.

Mr. Lloyd George paid a tribute to the great ability and astuteness of Mr. Hughes. He pointed out that if he went to the conference he would discharge his duties with consummate ability. This, however, was a delicate question which he did not think it was desirable to discuss in public. (Cheers.) He had presided over the shipping conference, at which Mr. Hughes was present, and he could say that he had never met a more astute man of business. There was no one in the House who had a greater regard and admiration for Mr. Hughes than he had.

The Minister added that when considering a question of trade the first thing was to obliterate any idea of revenge. Let them do what was best for the millions of people of the United Kingdom. But he did not think they could ever have the status quo ante bellum.

"I don't mean to say," Mr. Lloyd George said, in conclusion, "that you will set up a system of tariffs, or set up rival commercial federations which will simply perpetuate the war spirit, but we have discovered that Germany has craftily built up many industries, not with a view to trade, but with a view to war. We were almost done for because we were without them, but we have built them up now, and it would be a fatal blunder to allow them to go down."

INSTRUCTIONS TO DELEGATES

Mr. B. E. Peto, M.P., has given notice of his intention to move the following motion in the House of Commons:—That delegates to the Paris conference should be instructed that the Government is prepared in concert with the Allies to penalise trade with the Central Powers, and also to establish the closest trade relations with the Allies subject to the preferential treatment of the oversea Dominions.

WAR CONFERENCE.

Mr. Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, and Lord Kitchener will attend the Allies' War Conference in Paris next week, when consideration will be given in secret to the conduct of the war.

At the same time, an inter-Parliamentary conference will be held, at which Mr. B. R. Wise (Agent-General for N.S.W.), and Sir John McCall (Agent-General for Tasmania) will represent Australia.

The third Paris Conference on April 15 will deal with post-war trade.

SIR THOMAS MACKENZIE'S VIEWS.

Sir Thomas Mackenzie (High Commissioner for New Zealand), speaking at a meeting of the Early Closing Association at the Mansion House, said the conditions in New Zealand in 1873 were better than in many parts of London to-day. Unless we won the war all social reforms would be useless. Adequate Imperial defence must be the first consideration, and next in importance was the organisation of the national resources. It should not be possible for the products of the Dominions to be landed cheaper in Germany than in Britain. German exports had an advantage, because of the cheap State-owned railways, compared with the high rates in England; and an additional advantage was that they were carried abroad in subsidised steamers. These handicaps to British trade must be counteracted.

MR. HUGHES'S MISSION.

"CANNOT BE FOILED."

LONDON, March 22.

The "Evening Standard" says that Mr. Hughes cannot be foiled or quieted, because he knows his own mind, has something to say, and will say it; so the free-traders are trying another plan. When they don't ignore him they pretend he is a dear, good fellow, but with a bee in his bonnet, and therefore unpractical.

The "Standard" adds: We welcome Mr. Hughes and his virile speeches, which are awakening a feeling in the country that will make itself felt somehow or other.

MANY INTRICATE QUESTIONS

The "Westminster Gazette" sympathises with the proposal that Mr. Hughes should go to Paris. The trade policy for which he asks, it says, must be agreeable to the Allies, and it is one which raises many intricate questions of European trade policy. It would unquestionably be a good thing if Mr. Hughes were given an opportunity of examining them. Assuming that Mr. Hughes has advised the Imperial Government that the Dominions desire to proceed on preferential lines, with a threefold tariff—namely, a lower tariff against British and the Dominions' goods, and a higher Empire tariff against the rest of the world, with the highest Allied tariff against Germany—it would be necessary to discover whether this is agreeable to the Allies, and the policy must also be consistent with the interests of the people of the United Kingdom.

ATTENDS WAR COUNCIL.

Mr. Hughes attended the War Council and listened to the discussion with the aid of a microphone. Mr. Hughes and his wife lunched with Lord Bryce, and had afternoon tea in the House of Commons as the guests of the Empire Parliamentary Association. They were received by the Hon. J. W. Lowther and Mrs. Lowther at the Speaker's residence.

Mr. Hughes will go to Cardiff on Friday, where he will receive the freedom of the city, and subsequently address the wounded Australians there. Later he will visit Manchester, Glasgow, and Edinburgh. It is expected that Mr. Hughes will prolong his visit to England at least a week.

TRIBUTE FROM BENCH AND BAR.

The English Bench and Bar will entertain Mr. Hughes at a banquet at Lincoln's Inn on April 5, Lord Buckmaster (the Lord Chancellor) presiding.

VIOLENT ATTACK.

Mr. J. Ramsay MacDonald, M.P. (Socialist and Labour member for Leicester), in his organ, the "Labour Leader," makes a violent attack on Mr. Hughes, declaring that his speeches rival the most intolerant utterances of British jingoes. The speeches, he says, must not be taken as representative of Australian Labour opinion.

WAR PENSIONS.

THE BRITISH BILL.

LONDON, March 24.

Mr. W. Hayes Fisher (Under-Secretary to the Local Government Board), in introducing the War Pensions Bill, said that widows' allowances would be partly based on their husbands' incomes. The Government would endeavour to make up allowances to widows with children to two-thirds of their income before the war, but it would not exceed 40s weekly.

An endeavour would be made to give orphans the same education as if the father had lived.

There were, he added, 46,000 widows and 30,255 disabled soldiers already receiving pensions. Parliament would be asked to vote £1,000,000 as a first instalment.

TURCO-BULGARIAN TREATY.

LONDON, March 23.

The Bucharest correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" states that a secret Turco-Bulgarian alliance was arranged in April, 1914; and the treaty between Bulgaria and Germany in the spring of 1914.

NEW ZEPPELINS.

Count Zeppelin, in the course of a speech in the Diet, announced that he was constructing airships that would reach a greater height and carry a heavier load. He expected a certain percentage of losses in the near future, as the new types of motors could only hastily be tested.

THE RAID ON DOVER.

SECOND MACHINE BROUGHT DOWN.

LONDON, March 23.

During Sunday's raid on Dover an aviator, while taking an aeroplane to France, brought down a second German aeroplane in the Channel.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LONDON, March 23.

According to Lloyd's statement yesterday, the Galloper lightship at Harwich was torpedoed and sunk. A later message says: The Galloper lightship has not been sunk. It has been merely withdrawn.

WAR NOTES.

BETTER ZEPPELINS BUILDING.

According to this morning's cables, Count Zeppelin has informed the Diet that he is constructing airships that will reach a greater height and carry heavier loads than the best now in commission. So, apparently the Germans still expect to see the "Zeppelin" justify itself as an offensive weapon. It certainly has not done so up till the present. A very large number of raids have now been carried out; the airships have reached their objectives, launched their bombs, and have generally returned to their bases without injury, despite vigorous hostile fire from the earth and also lively attacks from the air. Yet, notwithstanding all this, the military damage effected by the Zeppelin has so far been practically negligible. As an expert recently put it: "The exclusive possession of a large fleet of airships has not up to the present seemed to benefit the Germans to any noteworthy extent. Especially as a means of spreading terror among enemy non-combatants was the Zeppelin expected to prove very valuable, but even in this subsidiary capacity its failure has been manifest. Massed raids such as those which took place over the Eastern and Midland Counties last week undoubtedly caused alarm locally, and are responsible for a certain number of casualties and for damage which is no light matter to the people immediately concerned. But neither the moral nor material results justify the expenditure of the energy required to attain them. Germany has used her Zeppelins absolutely without scruple and under the most auspicious conditions. Yet the sole result of eighteen months of strenuous effort and the outlay of millions of money is a civilian death-roll of 249, and considerable damage to private property. It has taken 29 raids, involving the use, perhaps, of 100 Zeppelins, to kill 17 British soldiers. What the Germans think of this we do not know, but to outsiders it seems a singularly unimpressive performance."

THE FUTURE NOT CERTAIN.

But although all this can be said about the failure of the Zeppelin to live up to expectations so far, it were altogether unwise to assume that the same will inevitably be said at the end of the chapter. To us the Zeppelin has always appeared a tremendous potential power for harm—necessarily so because of the very great amount of high-explosive she can carry; but it is all a question of her being able to apply her destructive power with some degree of certainty. At the outset it looked as though her clumsiness and vulnerability, and the fact that she could only hope to operate in the dark, would make it impossible for the Germans to rely on a raid achieving any prearranged result. But experience has proved to us that she is neither particularly clumsy nor particularly vulnerable. Remains, then, the single matter of tolerably accurate bomb-dropping, which is simply dependent upon the commander securing his bearings at night; for, unlike an aeroplane, if a Zeppelin can once get over its mark, it can come to a halt and drop its missiles with fairly certain precision. And we ourselves would hesitate to declare that the Germans will never find means of getting the bearings of important military points at night. Once they solved this difficulty, and they used squadrons of airships in order to increase the chances of perfectly accurate shots, their Zeppelins would become a very grave danger indeed. The problem we have to solve is how to attack the Zeppelin most effectively. So far, it must be admitted, anti-aircraft guns have been curiously impotent against them, and there are very decided limitations to the effectiveness of the aeroplane as an offensive weapon at night. If it be true that the Germans, as stated this morning, are building airships that will reach greater heights than at present, then these things will apply with even greater force. We must assume that the Allies are giving the whole subject the attention it deserves, and there may be some unpleasant surprises in store for raiding Zeppelins in the future; but, on the position as it stands, it seems to us that the only certain and effective way of dealing with the enemy airship is to seek it out and destroy it in its own home. This is the view that is being continually urged upon the British Government by our own aerial service, and it will be a thousand pities if that service does not soon get the order to "go ahead."

GERMANY'S SUPPLY OF STEEL.

Considering the tremendous amount of steel that is consumed in the warfare of to-day—an amount far beyond the capacity of Germany to maintain from her own resources—we are apt to take it for granted that the way she has been able to continue expending ammunition on such a lavish scale is very largely due to the laxity of the "blockade." But Dr. A. C. Edwards, Professor of Metallurgy and Metallography at Manchester University, has recently given us a useful reminder in this connection. He points out that when the Germans after attacking through Belgium, bent round so as to outflank the French, they turned the latter away from the iron ore deposit district, with the result that the Germans were very soon in possession of the richest iron ore deposit in Europe. The professor, proceeding, says: "Consider what this means; largely as the result of their occupation of Belgium and the north-eastern area of France the production of steel advanced to 1,000,000 tons a month during this last summer, and was used mainly for the production of shells. Once get them away, he says, the make of steel will be reduced to les than 250,000 tons a month, which would be absolutely inadequate to carry on the present war. This has been recognised by the German industrial magnates: quite recently a statement was made that without Lorraine they could not resist. This is a matter to which little attention has hitherto been devoted; but it is certainly one which cannot be ignored. The enemy has gained material strength by his advance, and in considering the effect of our blockade, this has been too frequently ignored."

RECRUITING.

Yesterday 59 men were accepted at Victoria Barracks. Eighty-seven men volunteered for service.

Among the recruits who offered themselves for enrolment at Victoria Barracks yesterday was a youth of 20, who stood 5ft 10in high, and weighed 19 stone 8 pounds; still, he failed to pass the medical tests.

Other good men who were accepted, however, were to be found in a railway clerk, a musician, a pipelayer, two cooks, a farmer from Wyong way, a bootmaker, two bank clerks, a stonemason, a clerk from the Department of Lands, and one miner from Lithgow, and another from Helensburgh. Five dental mechanics applied for enrolment, a loco. driver from the State Government Railways, several shop assistants, a baker, a station hand from Cowra, with a mate in a similar position from Coonabarabran, a linesman from the Public Works Department, an engineer, and a waiter from the People's Palace.

Major H. G. Edwards, of the University Scouts, recently on the Censor's Staff, in this State, has taken up duty as officer commanding Rosebery Park Camp.

Surgeon-Major Brooke Moore left Bathurst for Sydney on Thursday. A contingent of armed troops from the local camp, headed by the camp band, assisted in giving the officer a send-off at the Bathurst station.

Captains W. P. Martin (43rd Infantry), W. Sneddon (13th Infantry), W. U. Alley (11th Light Horse), M. S. Kennedy (6th Light Horse), A. H. Wilkinson (6th Light Horse), E. A. W. Hudson (7th Light Horse), P. Connolly (28th Light Horse), and T. N. Johnstone (5th Light Horse) have passed the course of instruction under the Defence Act for the rank of major.

IN OTHER STATES.

BRISBANE, Friday.

In Queensland to-day, 72 men volunteered and 54 were accepted, bringing the total enlistments to date up to 33,745.

PERTH, Friday.

There were 44 volunteers to-day, of whom 31 were accepted.

LIVERPOOL CAMP.

INSPECTED BY COMMANDANT.

Brigadier-General Ramaciotti, the District Commandant, paid a visit of inspection to Liverpool camp on Thursday. The troops were formed up in line battalions in mass on the parade ground, opposite the camp. At the conclusion of the inspection the troops marched past to their respective parade grounds to carry on their training.

The Commandant expressed his approval at the steadiness of the men, and the manner in which they marched, particularly with the fact that the men, in answer to his questions in regard to food and equipment, had no complaints to make.

A.I.F. OFFICERS.

Owing to the large number of officers of the A.I.F. who have been appointed from the ranks, the District Commandant, General Ramaciotti, stated yesterday that he had received orders not to recommend any more officers of the Commonwealth Military Forces for commission in the A.I.F. until these officers have all been absorbed.

MACHINE GUN COMPANIES.

General Ramaciotti stated yesterday that, owing to the supply of recruits for the Australian Field Artillery being far in excess of requirements, men who had been told to make their applications for this arm of the service in April could not be taken into it. These men would, however, be accepted at once on application at Victoria Barracks as reinforcements of brigade machine gun companies. These reinforcements, for which only a limited number of men was required, would be quartered at the School of Musketry on Randwick rifle range.

Lieutenant-Colonel R. Rourke and the officers of the reinforcements, Major Hunt, Captain Brache, and the returned officers and men of the 13th Battalion, and the committee of the comforts fund, will hold a reception in honour of Colonel Burnage, C.B., V.D., at the Wentworth Hotel this evening.

Shackleton Expedition.

AURORA RETURNING.

FOUR MEMBERS LEFT BEHIND.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

News of the Shackleton expedition has at last been received.

This has come in the form of a brief wireless message, mentioning that the Aurora has been damaged and that four members of the expedition have been left behind, but there is no word as to what has happened to Sir Ernest Shackleton's overland party.

The Minister for the Navy (Mr. Jensen) announced this afternoon that at an early hour this morning the naval radio station at Williamstown and the Melbourne radio station in Domain-road had received the following wireless message from the Antarctic ship Aurora:—

> Hull severely strained; ship released from ice on March 14, latitude 64.30 south, longitude 161 east, drift 500 miles. Gaze, Richards, Hayward, and Jack have been left ashore. Wireless appeals for a relief ship were sent during the winter, but with no acknowledgment. Ship is proceeding to Port Chalmers, New Zealand, under jury rudder. No anchors. Short of fuel. Expect to arrive early in April.

SOUTH GEORGIA.

BUENOS AYRES, March 23.

A whaler has brought Sir Ernest Shackleton's diary of his voyage to South Georgia. The whalers there said the ice had been bad this season (apparently the 1914-15 season), and the pack had not broken. Sir Ernest Shackleton had abandoned the idea of crossing the continent in that year, and had decided to winter in the Weddel Sea. He hoped to reach 77 deg. 30 min. south before being frozen in.

The Endurance, one of the Shackleton Expedition vessels, is expected daily.

The diary of Sir Ernest Shackleton says a stowaway was discovered on the Endurance in the tank locker. He said his only chance of joining the expedition was to stow away.

The Shackleton party to attempt to reach the Pole would probably comprise:—Sir Ernest Shackleton, Messrs. Frank Wild (who was with the Mawson Expedition), George Marston, Frank Hurley (of Sydney), and Dr. Macklin.

The men were in splendid health. They expected to take a cinema picture of the Polar journey.

Sir Ernest Shackleton, in his diary, says:—"It is difficult to realise that in South Georgia there is a population of 2000 in the summer. The homes of the station managers are replete with every comfort. Electric light is installed everywhere, even in the pigstyes and hen houses. The island is the most valuable to the expedition, because the dogs could be exercised and fed on fresh meat. The stowaway was a healthy young sailor, and Sir Ernest Shackleton made him a cook help. Frank Hurley is a great worker. He has a good camera and many feet of film, which will enable moving pictures to be taken for the first time of a Polar journey."

HOPING FOR THE BEST.

SHACKLETON'S SAFETY.

MAY BE ON ENDURANCE.

SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON'S VIEWS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Sir Douglas Mawson, the Antarctic explorer, who is visiting Melbourne, was asked to-night for his views on the wireless message received from the Aurora, and also upon the cable message from Buenos Ayres.

Sir Douglas Mawson commenced by referring to the visit of Sir Ernest Shackleton to South Georgia, and describing this island belonging to the Falkland group as being on the direct route to the place at which Sir Ernest Shackleton had intended to winter in the Weddell Sea. It was from South Georgia that Sir Douglas Mawson received a letter from Sir Ernest Shackleton, and this was the last that had been heard from him. In this letter Sir Ernest Shackleton described an attempt that he had made to proceed towards the Weddell Sea. It was earlier in the summer than the ice-packs as a rule permitted navigation, but Sir Ernest decided to make the attempt. He was, however, obliged to return to South Georgia, and as he had used up a good deal of coal he refilled his bunkers, and after a stay of about a week sailed again. This was in December, 1914. His intention on leaving South Georgia was to reach the wintering station, which Lieut. Filchner had discovered two years earlier, and there to freeze in the Endurance.

"Whether he succeeded in doing so," Sir Douglas Mawson continued, "is not known. The Aurora, meanwhile, after fitting out in Sydney, reached Macquarie Island in January, 1915. Further news was expected from the Aurora, but not a word had come until today. This, in my opinion, was probably due to some breakdown in the wireless installation, which has since been remedied. The instructions to the Aurora were to go as near as near as possible to the late Captain Scott's last quarters at M'Murdo Sound.

"We don't know," Sir Douglas went on, "if the Aurora ever got there; but there should have been no difficulty about it, as navigation is not difficult. Captain Mackintosh's orders were to freeze the Aurora in, and to wait for Sir Ernest Shackleton, who was, according to the previously concerted plan, frozen in on the other side of the South Polar regions. The plan was that Sir Ernest Shackleton was to wait until the summer, and then continue towards M'Murdo Sound. After reaching the Pole he intended to follow his own tracks, and hoped to reach the Aurora by the end of February of this year. In the meantime, the men on the Aurora were to establish food depots as far as they could on the route.

"Captain Mackintosh's further orders were, I understand, to wait at M'Murdo Sound until there was a danger of freezing in again. Then she was to return with or without Sir Ernest Shackleton and his party. The difficulties of the journey are very great, and it may be that Sir Ernest Shackleton meeting with trouble at an early stage, returned to Weddell Sea, and it is possible that he may not reach the Ross Sea side."

Asked if in view of the fact that Sir Ernest Shackleton had evidently not reached the Ross Sea side there was ground for anxiety concerning his safety, Sir Douglas Mawson replied that he saw no reason for undue alarm, as Sir Ernest and his party might be heard of any day as being on board the Endurance, which was expected to arrive at Buenos Ayres shortly.

"There is, of course, however, a chance," he added, "that the Endurance may not reach Buenos Ayres for the present, but that she may be frozen up for another year."

In reply to a question about the four men left behind by the Aurora, Sir Douglas expressed the opinion that the reason was to keep a look-out for Shackleton. It was, however, possible that they had been landed for some purpose or other, and that it had been impossible to pick them up. It would be necessary to send a relief ship to bring them back, and this could not be done until next year.

In conclusion, Sir Douglas Mawson stated that the Endurance was not fitted with wireless. This was, in his opinion, a very grave error.

Professor Orme Masson, who was chairman of the Australian committee, also emphasised that the Buenos Ayres message referred only to the earliest part of the expedition.

FURTHER MESSAGES.

QUESTION OF RELIEF SHIP.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

It is understood that no action will be taken in regard to sending relief from Australia. If relief is necessary it will probably be despatched from New Zealand.

The New Zealand authorities, however, state that the Awarua wireless station was in communication with the Aurora to-night, receiving private messages, and that as far as they can judge, there is nothing to indicate any distress or need for assistance.

MEMBERS OF THE EXPEDITION

A complete list of the members of the expedition that accompanied Sir Ernest Shackleton in the Endurance to the Weddell Sea side of the Antarctic Continent is not available. The principal members of Sir Ernest's staff, however, were Messrs. Frank Wild, who was with the Mawson expedition; Frank Hurley, of Sydney, who was also with the Mawson expedition, Crean, George Marston, Macklin, Clark, Wardie, James.

The officers, staff, and crew of the other half of the expedition, which left Sydney on December, 1914, aboard the Aurora, were:—

Captain Aeneas A. Mackintosh, R.N.R., commanding the party.

Lieutenant J. R. Stenhouse, R.N.R., chief officer, S.Y. Aurora.

A. H. Markman, M.I.M.E., chief engineer, S.Y. Aurora.

A. Stevens, M.A., B.Sc., lecturer in geography in the University of Glasgow, geologist and chief of the scientific staff.

Rev. A. P. Spencer-Smith, B.A., F. R. Hist. S., chaplain and photographer.

J. L. Cope, B.A., M.B., Cambridge, surgeon.

A. Keith Jack, M.Sc., of Brighton, Victoria (science master at the Dookie Agricultural College), physicist and assistant biologist.

R. W. Richards, of the Junior Technical College, Ballarat, Victoria, physicist.

Irvine O. Gaze, of Melbourne, commissariat officer.

Ernest Joyce, of Sydney, in charge of dogs.

A. H. Ninnis, cousin of the explorer who lost his life in the Mawson expedition, in charge of motors.

H. E. Wild, brother of Frank Wild (with the main party), in charge of stores.

V. G. Hayward, secretary.

C. C. Mauger, carpenter.

— Hooke, wireless operator.

James Paton, boatswain.

S. Atkins, W. Kavanagh, A. Warren, J. Downing, G. Glidden, S. Grady, W. Mugridge, I. Wise, J. Gates.

THE MAIN OBJECTS.

TRAVERSING AN UNKNOWN AREA.

The objects of the expedition were, in Sir Ernest Shackleton's own words, to cross the Antarctic from sea to sea, securing for the British flag the honour of being the first carried across the South Polar continent, to make all possible scientific observations on the journey, to carry on similar scientific work by parties operating from the two bases on the Weddell and the Ross seas, and to carry on scientific work and trace unknown portions of the coastline by the two ships of the expedition—the Endurance and the Aurora. For over 700 miles the region to be traversed is one which has never been penetrated before.

Sir Ernest took with him to Weddell Sea 120 dogs, bred in Alaska and Siberia, to act first as food-carriers, and later as food. "We'll probably end up with no dogs at all," he remarked, just before leaving, "but if we get to the Pole with 50 we shall be absolutely safe."

AURORA'S EQUIPMENT.

WHY THE WIRELESS WAS SILENT.

The expedition aboard the Aurora had to leave without certain equipment that it was hoped would have been provided by friends in Sydney, and which undoubtedly would have been provided in normal times. When the expedition was being fitted out here, however, all the patriotic funds were in full swing, and the appeal of the expedition did not meet with the response that would ordinarily have been assured. A wireless plant was provided by subscription here, and it was hoped by medium of it to keep in constant touch with the outside world. Captain Davis explained recently that the probable reason why the wireless did not work while the party was in the Antarctic was because of the difficulties in erecting masts and insulating them on account of the violence of the winds. It is now evident, however, that these difficulties were overcome, and the explanation of the absence of news is that while the expedition was away the Commonwealth meteorological staff on Macquarie Island, one of them being a wireless operator, was brought back to Australia, and so the link between the Antarctic and the Australian stations was removed. Had the staff—or, at all events, the wireless operator—remained there, we would no doubt, have received news of the expedition long before this. Lieutenant Stenhouse, in his message, says that the wireless appeals for a relief ship were not acknowledged. These were obviously sent to Macquarie Island, which was the only station within range of the low-power equipment on the Aurora; but there was no one there to receive them. How great a disappointment this must have been may be gathered from a letter which Captain Mackintosh addressed just before leaving Sydney, to those who had subscribed the wireless plant which would, all had hoped, have kept them in touch with the outside world. "With the wireless," he said, "we shall be able to contribute and sustain a series of weather observations for the Commonwealth Meteorological Bureau. Such have already proved valuable as providing more complete information on which to base the weather forecasts for the Commonwealth. In addition to this scientific use of the installation, it will ensure our safety, inasmuch as we shall be able to communicate with outside sources of help should danger threaten. It will also be a boon to our relations and friends, whom we shall be able to keep informed of our movements." These expectations were not realised through the removal of the staff from the island.

The Aurora was in Cockatoo Rock in the middle of an overhaul when a strike occurred. This had the effect of seriously delaying her, and Captain Mackintosh, just before he left Sydney, expressed grave doubts as to whether the plans he had agreed upon with Sir Ernest Shackleton could all be carried out according to the scheduled times.

THE TWO SHIPS.

Of the two ships used by the expedition, the Aurora is very well known in Sydney. It was the Aurora, then under the command of Captain J. K. Davis, that conveyed the Mawson expedition to and from the Antarctic.

The Endurance, employed on the Weddell

Sea side, is a Norwegian built ice vessel, of 350 tons. She is a barquentine rigged vessel, and built of selected pine, oak, and greenheart. She was specially constructed for Polar work under the supervision of a committee of Polar explorers. She has triple expansion engines, giving her a speed under steam of nine to ten knots per hour, and to enable her to keep longer at sea she was fitted so as to carry oil fuel as well as coal. Lieutenant Worsley, a New Zealander, was the navigator of the Endurance.

Only two other ships have previously wintered in the ice, the Discovery (Captain Scott's ship) being the first. The Belgica was also interned in the ice, but it was not intended that she should having merely got there by accident.

CAPTAIN MACKINTOSH.

It will be noted that the wireless message published is signed by Lieutenant Stenhouse, second in command of the Aurora party, and not by Captain Mackintosh, the leader of the party. He is not mentioned as one of those left behind in the Antarctic.

AMUNDSEN'S VOYAGE.

COPENHAGEN, March 23.

Captain Amundsen, with the Norwegian Government's support, is starting from Northern Alaska in the summer of 1917 on a voyage of discovery.

BREAD AND FLOUR.

PRICES FIXED BY THE COMMONWEALTH.

FEDERAL LAW PARAMOUNT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The regulations fixing the price of flour and bread in all the capital cities of Australia were adopted to-day by the Federal Executive Council.

The proclamation setting out the details of the new regulations stated that the Governor-General certified that "on account of urgency," the following war precautions regulations should come into operation on April 3.

The regulations fix the price of flour at £11 5s per ton delivered within any of the proclaimed areas of any State of the Commonwealth other than Western Australia, and £11 8s per ton in Western Australia. The price of bread in any of the States other than Western Australia is fixed at 6½d the 4lb loaf sold over the counter. The price in Western Australia is fixed at 7d per loaf. It is provided that where a fraction of 4lb is purchased the price shall be proportionate, and that where such price includes a portion of a penny other than a half-penny the amount may be increased to the nearest half-penny.

The areas proclaimed in various States are:—(a) Within a radius of 10 miles from the General Post Office, Sydney, together with the Municipality of Parramatta. (b) within the Commonwealth electoral division of Newcastle, and the subdivisions of Largs and Maitland of the Commonwealth electoral division of Hunter. (c) Within a radius of 10 miles from the General Post Office, Melbourne. (d) Within a radius of seven miles from the G.P.O., Brisbane, together with the towns of Sandgate and Wynnum. (e) Within a radius of six miles from the G.P.O., Adelaide, together with the municipalities of Glenelg and Port Adelaide. (f) Within a radius of four miles from the G.P.O., Perth, together with the municipalities of Claremont, Fremantle, East Fremantle, and North Fremantle. (g) Within a radius of three and one-half miles from the G.P.O., Hobart. (h) Within a radius of two miles from the Post Office, Launceston.

The regulations provide for the creation of a Prices Adjustment Board, which is given power to—(a) Summon witnesses; (b) take evidence on oath; (c) require the production of documents, books, and papers; and (d) enter upon any premises and inspect any documents, books, and papers, or any stocks of flour and bread, or authorise any member of the board or any other person to enter upon any premises and inspect any such documents, books, and papers or any stocks of flour and bread.

Any person who fails to appear before the board when summoned or who refuses to produce any documents asked for will be deemed guilty of an offence. The Governor-General, on the recommendation of the board, may declare any area, other than those specified in the schedule, to be a proclaimed area and to come within the operation of the regulations. He may also determine the maximum prices which may be charged for flour and bread in any proclaimed area, as well as the conditions under which that flour and bread may be sold. The prices fixed in the present regulation may be amended by the Governor-General at any time.

The regulations provide that the chairman of the Prices Adjustment Board shall receive the sum of 30/ a day, and other members of the board the sum of 25/ a day on account of expenses incurred by them in travelling, whenever such expenses have been incurred in the performance of their duty as members of this board. They will also receive such sums as may be necessary to pay the cost of their conveyance.

The members of the Prices Adjustment Board have been called together for Monday next, and they will probably hold their first official sitting in Melbourne on Tuesday. Senator Russell, assistant Minister, who is administering matters connected with the bread and flour price-fixing, stated to-day that no decision had yet been arrived at as to the State in which the board would first investigate the questions of delivery and conditions of sale.

When asked what effect the Federal regulations would have upon the decision of the New South Wales Government that flour should be sold at £11/5/ and bread at 7d, and the arrangement of the Victorian Government for sale of bread at 7d, with flour at £11/7/6, Senator Russell stated that where the Federal and State regulations clashed the Commonwealth law would prevail.

The Commonwealth has asked the Governments of New South Wales, Queensland, and South Australia to permit their State price fixing boards to assist the Commonwealth in administering these regulations, but so far no replies have been received from any of the Governments approached.

Senator Russell stated that he was hopeful that the Federal Government's request would be treated favourably within the next few days.

GILCHRIST'S CHARGES.

INQUIRY TO BE HELD.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Federal Executive Council has appointed Judge Eagleson, of the County Court of Victoria, to inquire into certain charges relating to the construction of the western section of the Kalgoorlie to Port Augusta railway made by D. L. Gilchrist, in August of last year.

These charges were debated by the Federal Parliamentary Labour party in caucus, and were of such a serious nature that they were referred to on the floor of the Federal Parliament. The then Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Archibald) went to Kalgoorlie to investigate the matter, and on his return stated that he had secured statutory declarations, which he said proved the charges to be entirely without foundation. One charge, relating to an alleged shortage of £80,000 in the stores account, was the subject of an investigation by the Federal Auditor-General (Mr. Israel), who reported that there was no ground whatever for the allegation.

Recently considerable trouble has been occasioned by the Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. O'Malley) seeking to reinstate Gilchrist on the works. The officers in charge refused to employ him, and were discharged, but were subsequently taken on again. The matter was referred to the Federal Cabinet, which ordered Gilchrist to be transferred pending an inquiry by a Judge.

RAILWAY REFRESHMENTS.

NEW SCHEME.

The Premier yesterday announced that the Railway Commissioners are going ahead with the scheme of direct Government control of the railway refreshment rooms.

"The idea of the Railway Commissioners," said Mr. Holman, "is, as I understand it, within 12 months from the end of June next, to replace the whole of the existing establishments with Government institutions. Those lessees who have the best record will be those to be replaced last."

ENLISTMENTS.

N. S. WALES TOTAL, 106,854.

RESPONSE TO FEDERAL APPEAL, 20,428.

Yesterday Mr. J. H. Catts, M.P., organising secretary of the State Recruiting Committee, claimed that New South Wales had supplied more than 106,854 men since the commencement of the war. The recorded New South Wales enlistments in response to the appeal of the Prime Minister from December 1, 1915, to March 18, 1916, are 20,428.

This is the statement in regard to enlistment figures as furnished to the "Herald" by Mr. Catts:—

When Senator Pearce issued a comparative statement, giving enlistment figures, six months ago, said Mr. Catts, there was a howl of indignation in Victoria. It was said that that State had supplied more soldiers than it was credited with. A few days ago, when Senator Gardiner quoted figures showing New South Wales to be ahead of Victoria in total enlistments, another vigorous protest was registered. The same reception was accorded a statement issued by me some few weeks ago. However, I have a table prepared, which I believe substantially represents the position.

In the statement issued by Senator Pearce on Wednesday last he takes November 26, 1915, as the commencing date of the new 50,000 army-raising campaign. He says: "There have enlisted since that date up to approximately the middle of March 58,637 men." My records, upon which my figures have been based throughout, give 59,073 as the total enlistments from December 1, 1915, to March 18, 1916. There is, therefore, nothing substantially wrong with my records.

As to New South Wales and Victoria enlistments, I have the official returns of the military authorities showing this to be 106,854 for New South Wales. The Victorian figures, based upon the returns published in the Melbourne "Age" give the total Victorian enlistments to the same date as 97,766. New South Wales is, therefore, nearly 10,000 ahead of Victoria in total enlistments. These figures do not credit New South Wales with portions of the State included in the Victorian military district; Broken Hill, which is included in the South Australian military district; and the North Coast, which only recently has been handed over to New South Wales for recruiting purposes, but which belongs to the Queensland military district.

The Battalion and Quota Committee, which reported for New South Wales early in January, found that New South Wales gave up one battalion area, or one twelfth of its population, to other military districts. We have not been credited with enlistments from these areas, and they must total some 3000 or 4000.

The following table shows the quotas and enlistments covering the period December 1, 1915, to March 18, 1916. Victoria has been making up leeway during the past six weeks, but is still behind New South Wales, whether in actual enlistments or proportionately:—

The campaign for the 50,000 army, with reinforcements for both existing units and new army, commenced in New South Wales on December 1, 1915.

The figures for New South Wales are official. The figures for the other States are taken from unofficial returns. These are available for inspection at the headquarters of the Recruiting Campaign Committee, Challis House, Sydney.

COBAR MINES.

GENERAL STRIKE FEARED.

COBAR, Friday.

The industrial position here is very unsettled. The Federated Mine Employees' Union has served a notice on all mines in the district that unless the demand for increased wages, averaging 20 per cent., is granted before April 8 there will be a general strike. Over 1000 men will be affected. Two hundred men are already out at the Occidental gold mine, and there is no prospect of a settlement. The company obtained six month's exemption from labour conditions at the Warden's Court yesterday. The Department of Labour and Industry is endeavouring to arrange a conciliation committee, but the outlook is not regarded as promising.

UPPER HOUSE.

EARLY APPOINTMENTS.

The long-contemplated appointments to the Legislative Council are, it is understood, to be made as soon as the session closes.

It is considered that the late Speaker of the Assembly, Mr. Henry Willis, Mr. H. D. M'Intosh, and Mr. Percy Hordern, a member of the Metropolitan Meat Industry Board, will be among the names to be submitted to his Excellency Sir Gerald Strickland.

In all it is probable that 10 new names will be nominated.

FOR THE NURSES.

COLLECTION IN THE CITY.

The welfare of the nurses at the front was the object of a collection in the city yesterday.

"Button Day," as it was called by the organiser, Mrs. T. S. B. Russell, of the Nurses Gift and Convalescent Soldiers' Fund, was in every way a success. All day long willing workers, with stalls throughout the city as their bases, put forward their plea for the nurses, for whom this was the first collection of its kind. The response was gratifying—people were in generous mood, and for the collectors to ask was to receive.

The first button was sold for £10, and for many others £5 was paid. At 10 o'clock—two hours after the collection started—10,000 buttons, bearing a picture of a nurse tending a wounded soldier, and the words, "Nurses' Day, 1916," had been sold. The brisk sale proceeded all day, until, before 6 o'clock, 22,000 buttons—all that were available—had been disposed of. Besides the buttons, flowers, fruit, cigarettes, and various other salable articles were disposed of.

Among the helpers was Miss Dorothy Brunton, who presided at the "So Long, Letty" stall outside Her Majesty's Theatre. She was assisted by young ladies of the J. C. Williamson companies. Mr. George Marlow had charge of the "You're the One" stall, and as assistants had ladies from the Tivoli and National theatres. Between noon and 2 p.m. a concert was given by Miss Sara Collins and her pupils, in Martin-place. The monetary response repaid the effort.

In many country centres collections were also made. It is anticipated that the total of the metropolitan and country collections will be about £[illegible]

"CEASE WORK."

POWERS OF INDUSTRIAL COURT.

A JUDGE'S WARNING.

Reference was made by Mr. Justice Heydon in the Industrial Court yesterday to the resolution carried by the Sydney branch of the Federated Engine-drivers and Firemen's Association in favour of a systematic cessation of work to gain their demands.

"The matter in question," said his Honor, "was in reference to something under the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth. It is impossible to have a Commonwealth cessation of work without a State cessation of work—and that would be a strike. One cannot have a systematic cessation of work without a systematic design and understanding. It might be that the proof of a common design would be somewhat more difficult to obtain, but the fact of a strike having been sporadic makes no difference at all. This is a matter that has been engaging the attention of the Court. It had not been brought forward in a public way, because no application has been made, but the Court has full power to vary, suspend, or cancel awards.

"If strikes take place, and applications are made to the Court to relieve the parties who are struck against from the burden of awards," went on his Honor, "the Court will consider those applications. What the result will be will depend, of course, upon the circumstances of each case. It will be in the power of the Court to suspend the award.

"I am calling attention to a power that a Court has that does not seem to have been fully realised in the industrial world. However, the union of which Mr. Mitchell was secretary, has invariably been in favour of law and order."

ELECTRICITY.

UTILISATION OF WATER POWER.

NEW STATE SCHEME.

A series of proposals for the generation of electric power by the utilisation of waterfalls in various parts of the State is to be submitted by the Government to the Public Works Committee. The scheme involves an expenditure of considerably over £100,000.

The Premier stated last night that the Cabinet had considered the matter during the day, and had authorised the Minister for Works to take the necessary Parliamentary action. There will be three or four proposals, the most important being in connection with the overflow from the Barren Jack dam. To harness the volume of water at this point will cost about £100,000. The upper portion of the Clarence River will furnish easily controlled hydraulic power, and an electric plant can be established at some point along the river, probably at Grafton, at a cost of £25,000. The third item in the scheme refers to a South Coast district.

Mr. Holman says that the present scheme has been in contemplation for the last 15 months, and engineers have tentatively recommended the several works included in it.

The State Government, in deciding that the time has arrived to levy upon the inland rivers for motive power for industrial purposes, is following the example set by Tasmania, which has a big electric centre at the Great Lake. New Zealand is mapped out in electric districts, each being supplied actually or potentially from a particular source.

"The Government proposes," said the Premier, "to make this an absolutely State affair. It will be State-owned and managed from the beginning. I do not want to enter into its possibilities now, but it is obvious that it marks a most important turning point in the industrial development of the State. The importance of it will become more evident when the scheme is fully debated."

Mr. Cann stated last night that he will submit the scheme to the House this session. The Barren Jack proposal, he explains, will enable power to be transmitted to the southern tableland, supplying Cootamundra, Junee, Wagga, and other towns.

SHELL-MAKING.

SUPPLY OF STEEL.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

Mr. Ralph N. Lewis, manager of the Broken Hill Munitions Works, was asked to-day if it were a fact that the Barrier Munitions Company had cancelled its orders with the Newcastle Steel Works for the supply of steel for shell making. He said that the company had simply asked the manager of the steel works to hold up the stock order for steel until the Barrier work was going again. The company had a big stock of steel (approximately 200 tons) at the works, he added, and were unable to store any further quantity.

NORTON GRIFFITHS.

THE TWO PROPOSALS.

The Minister for Public Works, referring to the letter from Mr. C. W. Oakes, published in yesterday's "Herald," regarding the Norton Griffiths agreement, pointed out that, intentionally or unintentionally, Mr. Oakes would place the public under a misapprehension.

"Apparently Mr. Oakes takes exception," Mr. Cann said, "to my statement that it was to guard against the unemployment of our people during the war that the Government entered into an agreement of this kind, and he then proceeded to point out that, whereas war was declared on August 4, 1914, the particulars of an agreement with Messrs. Norton and Griffith and Co., were supplied to Norton Griffiths and Co. were supplied to the press by Mr. Arthur Griffiths on August 21, 1913.

"It is true that a copy of an agreement and a minute by himself were laid on the table of the House by Mr. Griffith on August 20, 1913, but Mr. Oakes might have added that notice of motion to ratify such an agreement was tabled seven days later, and being put to the vote on October 2, 1913, was negatived.

"The agreement now in force, which was entered into by the Agent-General on behalf of the Government in London on April 24, 1915, is a totally different and distinct instrument, and was the outcome of negotiations by the Premier and State Treasurer for the object which I have already stated."

LATE CAPTAIN McARTHUR.

Regret was expressed in shipping circles yesterday when it became known that Captain W. G. McArthur, assistant superintendent of the Eastern and Australian Steamship Company, Ltd., had died at his residence in Waratah-street, Rushcutter Bay.

Deceased was one of the best-known and most highly-appreciated of Sydney's seafaring men, and the suddenness of his death came as a shock to his many friends in Sydney shipping and commercial offices, and along the waterfront many flags were flying at half-mast as a tribute to the late captain.

Captain McArthur, who was 60 years of age, had been in his office all day on Thursday, and appeared to be in good health. In the evening he went with Mrs. McArthur to Watson's Bay and, after returning home, sat down and read a book, when he suddenly died, the apparent cause being heart-failure.

The late Captain McArthur was born in the Goulburn district, New South Wales. He started his seafaring career in the sailing vessels Circe and Black Diamond. He made the voyage to England and back as an officer in the ship Gladstone. In 1877 he joined the E. and A. line as third officer of the steamer Brisbane, and also served in the steamers Normanby, Menmuir, Tannadice, Guthrie, Australian, Eastern, Empire, Aldenham, and St. Albans. Deceased took a keen interest in the Seamen's Mission, and was a strong supporter of the Royal Shipwreck Relief Society of New South Wales. He was also a member of the League of Ancient Mariners.

The late Captain McArthur left a widow, but no family. The funeral will take place at South Head Cemetery to-day.

PRICES OF FOODSTUFFS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The A.N.A. Conference yesterday decided to urge the State Ministry to appoint boards to regulate the prices of principal foodstuffs.

CAPITAL.

CONTROL OF INVESTMENTS PROPOSED.

FEDERAL ACTION INDICATED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

An important statement with regard to the control of the investment of capital was made to-day by the Acting Prime Minister (Senator Pearce) while replying to a deputation from the Melbourne Trades Hall Council.

The deputation pointed out the necessity for making immediate preparation for the establishment of new industries, and the stimulation of existing ones when the war was over.

Senator Pearce, in reply regarding remarks on shell-making admitted that the industry had not been successful as he had hoped. The experience with regard to shell making indicated the necessity of taking time by the forelock. The whole of the difficulty could be expressed in the one word, "steel." The steel industry in Australia was so far behind that all secondary iron industries were necessarily handicapped. If perfectly flawless steel could be turned out in Australia, shells could be made here just as well as in any part of the world. He recognised that the large quantity of wool exported and the large quantity of clothes imported represented a bad phase of Australia's industrial position. The woollen mills of Australia at present could not meet the requirements of the military forces. If every mill in Australia could double its output it would find a profitable market for every yard of cloth it could turn out. Since the Federal Treasurer had assumed control of capital investments, it had been discovered that while thousands of pounds could be found for the flotation of companies to run picture shows, there were few willing to put their money into the woollen industry, which was natural to Australia, and obviously profitable. This fact showed that what the Government was doing now would have to be done in time of peace. The Government would have to have a voice in saying how capital should be applied. (Hear, hear.) The Government was saying now that capitalists should not put their money into picture shows while the industries of the country were languishing for the want of capital. (Hear, hear.) The establishment of new industries was not purely a tariff matter; a great deal more than establishing a tariff would have to be done. There was a tariff protecting the woollen trade, but capital did not flow into that trade although assured of profit. The capital of a country belonged to a country, and the Government, should have the right to see that it was invested for the benefit of the country. In a country where labour was highly paid, the most scientific and up-to-date processes of manufacture must be employed, the best brains in the community must be organised, in order to get the best results. The Government had already taken action in that matter, and when Parliament met the Government would seek authority to continue the action, so that scientists might be organised, and their knowledge applied to industrial production. They were now testing dyes made from materials discovered in Queensland, at the woollen mills in Geelong, and the manager, Mr. Small, reported that, as far as the experiments went, the dyes were thoroughly successful. The question of whether they could be produced on an economical basis had not yet been investigated.

NAVVIES' STRIKE.

NORTH COAST RAILWAY.

Owing to the refusal of three gangers employed on the Kempsey-Wauchope section of the North Coast railway, now in course of construction, to become members of the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Union, the whole of the men on that section, numbering about 500, have gone on strike.

The particular gangers objected to are members of the Field Service Association, and the men in each gang refused to work with them. The remaining seven gangs afterwards downed tools.

PRICE OF BACON.

PRODUCERS' COMPLAINTS.

The Necessary Commodities Commission was yesterday asked to reconsider the prices fixed for pigs and bacon, representatives of the co-operative companies and other interests appearing before Mr. M. J. Connington (Deputy Chairman) and Mr. W. White.

It was pointed out that the restriction of prices was likely to create a serious diminution in supplies. Since the price of bacon had been fixed at 1s per lb no co-operative factory had been able to pay more than 7½d for pork, and there was a danger of farmers finding it not worth while to replenish their stock of pigs. Already there was a serious shortage, as they found it more profitable to use dairy by-products for feeding calves than for fattening pigs, the producer getting a relatively better return for his money in this way.

Mr. Connington said the prices indicated a scarcity of pigs in all the States, and it would appear that what pig-producers were getting was over 100 per cent. higher than usual. As long as he was satisfied that those in the industry were making a fair profit, he thought the price was sufficiently high. If, however, a statement was submitted that the price of bacon, as compared with the price of meat, was inadequate, it would be put before the full commission with Judge Edmunds presiding. The figures presented showed that the supply was considerably less than the average, and this question would also be considered by the full commission. In a general way, the commission hoped to fix a price that would allow the producer a fair profit; as to whether a more than fair profit should be allowed, Mr. Connington's mind was made up.

The commission also sat to fix the price of superfine butter. Trade representatives suggested a postponement, as the Dairy Industry Act had not yet become law. A telegram was read from Mr. O'Callaghan, Chief Dairy Inspector, in favour of a postponement, pending the regulations regarding the grading of butter under the Act being gazetted.

Mr. L. MacInnes, who represented the department, agreed, and the matter was adjourned.

SMALL ARMS FACTORY.

STEADY PRODUCTION OF RIFLES.

LITHGOW, Friday.

A steady production at the Small Arms Factory continues, and though the number of the rifles turned out each week is not published, it is very much greater than ever before. New extensions will, in all probability, also tend towards an increased output. Some of the new temporary buildings are being utilised, while others are almost completed. It is understood that further temporary structures are to be commenced immediately.

FRENCH'S FOREST.

Motor lorries will leave to-day as usual from the junction of Manly and French's Forest roads, at 12.30, 1, 1.30, 2, 2.30 p.m. They will return from French's Forest at 5 o'clock sharp. Each week the voluntary workers' interest in the scheme is so largely on the increase that it is difficult to secure every week-end sufficient motor lorries to convey all the helpers to the ground. To supplement the service by road it has been arranged for a steamer to leave the wharf, Manly side of The Spit at 1.15 p.m. to just beyond Killarney Picnic Ground, Middle Harbour. From there on to the land that is being cleared is about 20 minutes' walk. The path is well defined, and those who have made the expedition assert it is preferable to the journey by motor lorry.

SCHOOL CLINICS DISPUTE.

The Education Department has taken another step in connection with the trouble between the department and the B.M.A. Advertisements are published to-day inviting doctors residing outside the metropolitan area to enter into negotiations to carry on the after-treatment at pre-arranged fees of school children who have been examined and treated by the school clinics.

COURT-MARTIAL.

CHARGES OF DESERTION.

A District Court-martial sat at Victoria Barracks yesterday to deal with cases of desertion from the A.I.F.

Private Robert Wilson, A.A.M.C., 29, was charged with deserting his Majesty's service, in that he, at Liverpool, on or about December 24, 1915, did absent himself from the Australian Imperial Force until apprehended by the Civil Power at Wangaratta, Victoria, on February 17.

He pleaded not guilty.

Corporal John Thomas Crooks, Provost Marshal's Staff, said that the accused was handed over to him by the civil police at Wangaratta. The accused was dressed in uniform, and wearing sergeant's stripes.

The accused, in his defence, said that he was wearing the three stripes, as he was then an acting sergeant. He did not wish to be discharged, as he was anxious to stay in the forces.

The prosecutor handed in a statement showing that the accused belonged to 12th Reinforcements of the 2nd Battalion, and that during the last 12 months he had been absent without leave for a period of 72 days.

The Court reserved its decision.

Private James Joseph Kirk was charged with a similar offence.

He pleaded guilty, and put in a written statement to the effect that he left Liverpool camp on December 24, as he was suffering from heart trouble. He could not stand the rowdyism of his mates in the camp, who usually returned very late. He was afraid to report the rowdyism to the officer commanding for fear of the retaliation which would have been meted out to him, and he would prefer to be discharged. At the same time he asked for lenient treatment, as he had only been in camp 10 weeks.

In this case also the Court reserved its decision.

Private Henry John Kent Martin, 18, was charged with deserting his Majesty's Service, in that he, at Liverpool, on or about December 17, 1915, did absent himself from the A.I.F. until apprehended by the military at Wingham on or about February 22, 1916.

He pleaded guilty.

The President: There is no doubt about the matter; you intended to clear out?—Yes.

The President read a voluntary statement made by the accused, in which he stated that he had only been in "C" Company of the 6th Light Horse for three weeks when he heard his mother was ill. He got three days' leave to visit his mother, but did not like to leave her, even when she took a turn for the better, so continued to stay on.

The President: You are very young.

The accused: I am only 18.

The President: And you look delicate.—I am.

The President: And your mother probably wanted you to stay with her, and did not like the idea of your going to the front?—Yes, sir.

The President: Are you prepared to go back home if we let you go?—Yes.

The decision of the Court was reserved.

Private Daniel Brew, of the A.I.F., 30, and a soldier of the Defence Force, and on active service within the meaning of the Defence Act, 1903-15, was charged with having deserted from his Majesty's service, in that he, at Liverpool, on or about November 10, 1915, did absent himself from the A.I.F., until apprehended by the military authorities at Surry Hills, on March 7, 1916.

Accused pleaded not guilty.

A statement by the accused was read by the president, in which accused set out that he enlisted on September 21, 1915. He was attached to the 13th Reinforcements of the 2nd Battalion. He left camp on November 11 and went to Surry Hills, and was returned to camp under escort. He had put in two months' training, and left camp because he was not able to sleep for about a week owing to neuralgia. After seeing the doctor in the camp he twice went home and was treated by a chemist. He recovered in about three weeks, but was ashamed to return to camp on account of the length of time he had been away. He kept on putting it off, but on no occasion had he disgraced the uniform, and had not been drinking.

In reply to the president accused said he felt his position very keenly, and had a brother who had already left for the front. On the night of the riot he was picked up in Sydney by the military police when he had a chemist's prescription on him and two bottles of medicine. He showed these to the lieutenant in charge, but the officer said that they were no good, only a doctor's certificate being of use.

The Court reserved its decision.

Private Walter Nicholls, 23, in B Company, 3rd Battalion, was charged with having, at Liverpool camp, on or about February 12, 1916, deserted, and having voluntarily returned to the camp on February 29.

He pleaded not guilty.

Lieutenant Patrick Gordon Power, 26th Infantry, assistant investigating officer at Liverpool Camp, produced a voluntary statement made by the accused, in which he stated that he enlisted in September, 1914. He went into camp at Kensington, and left for the front in October of that year. He was returned in October, 1915, to Melbourne as a venereal patient till Christmas, when he was transferred to Milson Island. He was discharged from there in January and attached to B Company, 3rd Battalion. He left camp on February 12, 1916 (with leave), and went to Canowindra, staying there till he returned to camp on February 29, 1916, of his own accord. He spent four months at the front, and was sent to Malta sick, and was subsequently sent back to Australia. The reason he did not return to camp was that though granted a week's leave, January 31 to February 8, he had to waste four days of the time waiting at the expeditionary pay office to get the money due to him, in spite of the fact that he had been told at the returned soldiers' pay office that he would get his money the day after he applied for it. As he had not been granted final leave to visit his folks before going to the front, and as he had not seen them for over a year, he went up some 300 miles to see them, and directly on his return reported to his platoon officer.

The Court found that the accused was not guilty of the charge, and he was discharged from custody.

STATE CATTLE STATION.

NEW VENTURE.

BRISBANE, Friday.

Referring to-day to the new Government scheme to start a cattle station at Dillalah, in the Charleville district, the Minister for Lands (Mr. Hunter) said that the Government did not intend to stop at that. They were out to do things. There were 5000 cattle on Dillalah country, but these did not belong to the State, and the question of stocking-up would not be definitely determined till expert reports had been prepared.

The pictures were taken with the express authority and encouragement of the War Office, the Admiralty, and the Ministry of Munitions.

The Governor-General and the Governor have granted their patronage to the exhibition, and the Minister for Defence and Acting Prime Minister (Senator Pearce) has fallen in line with Mr. Asquith and Lord Derby in according his official recommendation of the films to the public.

MOUNT OXIDE MINES.

SUIT IN EQUITY.

In the Equity Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Harvey, the hearing was continued of the suit in which the Mount Oxide Mines, Ltd., claimed £25,000 from four directors of the company— Sir Albert John Gould, Francis William Bacon, Thomas Brougham Birkbeck, and Gerald Francis Allen—and J. Earle Hermann, Ltd., for alleged negligent management.

During the course of the continuance of his examination by Mr. Adrian Knox, K.C., Siegfried William Griffith, accountant of the firm of Jamieson and Griffith, the Mr. Jamieson of which is the liquidator of the company and the plaintiff in the case, put in the agreement between Hermann, the Mount Oxide Company, and Perry's executors. At the meeting referred to in yesterday's evidence, said witness, Sir Albert Gould asked Hermann, "What about this £20,000?" Hermann said it had been advanced to his company. Gould said he did not think so, and Hermann produced counsel's opinion upon the point by Dr. Coghlan. Gould disputed the correctness of the case submitted to Dr. Coghlan for opinion. But they could not come to any decision as to whether it was to be an asset of the company or whether it belonged to Hermann. Witness and Mr. Jamieson suggested that it would be best to prepare a balance-sheet for the shareholders, showing the position of everything. Some things of Hermann's which were claimed as liabilities were put into suspense account along with the £20,000. The meeting lasted from noon to 2.45 p.m. on a Saturday. The secretary said there were minutes of a number of meetings to be confirmed, and Sir Albert Gould said it was then late, and it could be done some other time.

Witness audited a balance-sheet made up by the company to July 31, 1914. The balance-sheet showed that the whole of the capital of the company was subscribed. The shares held in reserve were not capital. A total of 170,000 £1 shares were subscribed, and paid for either in cash or some other consideration—they have all been paid up according to the balance-sheet. J. Earle Herman was shown as a creditor for £8236, but an investigation of the books showed it as being incorrect. Two promissory notes were given by the company of £1285 each to Hermann, Ltd., which had not been either charged against or credited by Hermann, Ltd. There was an entry debiting Hermann with the two sums, but there was also a further entry cancelling that by transfer. When the auditors asked for an explanation, the one given was that the bills had been returned by Hermann and destroyed. Cocker gave that explanation. The two bills were handed in. Witness said they were claimed on in liquidation. Another amount of £308 was shown as being paid by Herman to L. Burkard. Barkard had since proved in the liquidation for the amount. A "bills payable" book was shown to the auditors, but witness thought it had been written up at the last moment. The ink was not dry when they got it. Witness, after examining all the entries in respect of the bills under review, said they did not show anything to the company in respect of them. If the proper deductions had been made, as at July 31, 1914, the amount to the credit of Hermann, Ltd., would have been £257, instead of £3236 as shown. This did not debit Hermann with any part of the £20,000 advanced on the option agreement. The result was that Hermann was paid £209 13s 11d, and he paid a little printing account of 4s 3d, for which he would be credited. Up to the date of the balance-sheet on July 31, 1914, the company received £50,000 for shares and £8239 for sales of ore. The company had paid away £5338, and had still to pay £9363. From an inspection of the share register and transfer journals, witness found that there had been issued 5650 shares in excess of the subscribed capital of the company. Hermann called at the auditors' office, and asked them to delete the passage about the over issue of shares. When told it could not be done, he said such a report would ruin him. He promised to make restitution, and later on Cocker came back with share certificates amounting to 3813 on behalf of Hermann. There was a good deal of discussion on this matter when the report was read at the meeting.

Cross-examined by Mr. Shand, K.C., for the directors of the company, witness said the books really showed that Hermann had accounted for everything except the £20,000. As far as witness's investigations went up to the present there appeared to be a sum of £45 owing to Hermann, but it was very doubtful. It was not witness's business to say whether the question arose as to whether Hermann was bound to account for the £20,000 to the company.

Harry Brisbane Jamieson, liquidator of the company, and partner in the firm of Jamieson and Griffith, was examined in corroboration of the previous witness.

The further hearing was adjourned till Monday.

AMUSEMENTS.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

Owing to extra matinees after Christmas, "So Long, Letty" to-night passes its 100th performance, and is drawing such large audiences that the run could be prolonged but for the necessity of bringing on "Mother Goose" as the regular Easter pantomime. The last nights are therefore announced, the farewell being fixed for April 14.

CRITERION THEATRE.

"Under Fire" is another successful production which the J. C. Williamson management will shortly have to replace, as the drama "On Trial" is due at the Criterion at Easter. "Under Fire" has become highly popular owing to its realistic war pictures, which place it in the movement. In New Zealand Mr. Julius Knight will play the leading part.

THE SECOND MRS. TANQUERAY.

"The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," which has not been played in Sydney since the Brough days, will be the first effort of Mr. Frederick Ward's new company at the Little Theatre to-night. Miss Eily Malyon will play the leading role of Paula, with Mr. Herbert Bentley as Aubrey Tanqueray, and Frederick Ward as Cayley Drummle. Renovations at the Little Theatre have resulted in the old orchestra being cleared right away, in order that the entr'acte music may be supplied by a classical trio, consisting of Miss Zona Trador (violin), Miss Sylvia Roberts (pianoforte), and Mr. Carl Gotch ('cello). The plan is at Paling's.

PEG O' MY HEART.

J. and N. Tait's company to play "Peg o' My Heart" at the Palace Theatre, opening Saturday, April 15, will arrive early next month on board the Niagra, and all the arrangements for the production of the comedy of youth are well in progress. The scenery and dresses are coming out with the company, which includes E. W. Morrison, who will produce. Among Miss Sara Allgood's supporters is Mr. Gerard Henson, who will play "Jerry," Peg's lover. He has had nearly all his training with Forbes-Robertson. First-nighters' applications may now be made to the firm at the Banking House, Pitt-street. The general plan will open at Nicholson's on Monday, April 10.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

At the Adelphi Theatre Tom Armstrong leads the fun in "You're the One," as a comically reflective head-porter, full of unexpectedly saucy replies, and as a waiter, who ships off all the dramatis personae to Papua. There is a highly picturesque scene showing the savages in the forest where Tom Shelford, Abie Barker, and other clever people, cause renewed laughter.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

Ella Caspers, "the girl with the voice of gold," and likewise a classic contralto of considerable distinction, both here and over seas, will join the Tivoli Theatre company this afternoon and evening, with songs new and old. Peter Dawson and Annette George concert-room artists of recognised talent, also keep up the reputation of the management on the musical side; whilst Musette, the graceful violin dancer; Pearl and Irene Sans, in their dainty fashion-plate scene; Pollard, in juggling; Chas. Rich and Elsie Hobey, Mildred Grover, Wolgast and Girlie, Ula, and many others, also appear.

THEATRE ROYAL—"FEDORA."

This afternoon and evening the new week's programme will open with two new star films. There will be 2000 feet of the only official issue by the British Military Authorities of the story of Gallipoli, and the Anzac's memorable part therein; and 800 feet will be devoted to "Princess Romanoff," a Fox photo-play on Sardou's "Fedora," in which Nance O'Neill's thrilling impersonation of the name-part will be revealed.

"THE BIRTH OF A NATION."

D. W. Griffith's wonderful film "The Birth of a Nation," will be J. C. Williamson's Easter attraction (April 15), at the Royal, at their full theatrical prices, which even then are below the two-dollar American tariff for the same show. This costly story was performed 802 times in New York, and 482 in Chicago—a record for both cities. It deals with the war against the negroes in the middle sixties, when the night-riders of the Ku-Klux camp, garbed in white, terrorised the superstitious blacks. The whole scheme is in support of a White Australia.

PALACE THEATRE—VATICAN PICTURES.

The last week of the Vatican pictures begins this afternoon and evening at the Palace Theatre, where Pope Pius X. and Benedict XV., as well as Archbishop Cerretti, move across the screen, through the stately chambers of the Vatican Palace, at Rome. Robert Emmett's love story, and the recent Sydney celebration of St. Patrick's Day, with the little Irish colleens dancing on the lawn, are included. Mr. Ed. Macdonald has been engaged for Irish ballads. The plan is at Nicholson's.

SUBMARINE FILM AT THE PALACE.

Film exploration, thanks to the enterprise of the Williamson Brothers in the new field, has now been extended to fascinating glimpses of the ocean bed. The result of their deep-sea research will be seen at the Palace Theatre next Saturday afternoon and evening. Mr. W. J. Shephard, who introduced the Kinemacolour pictures, will present the Williamson submarine motion pictures. These pictures have proved one of the cinematographic sensations of the day. A new series of Kinemacolour pictures of "With the Fighting Forces of Europe" will complete a huge double bill. The plan will open at Nicholson's on Tuesday. Mr. Stanley Grant is business manager.

THE DANDIES, GARDEN THEATRE.

Mr. Edward Branscombe's "Green Dandies" Company, at the Garden Theatre, Bayswater-road, are meeting with consistent success. The programme for this week includes new comic characterisation by Messrs. Ben Calvert and Herbert Walton, and Miss Dorothy Grace is heard to advantage in Gounod's "Serenade." Miss Mona Thomas contributes pleasing light songs; and Mr. Beau Millar, Mr. Fred Monument, Mr. Cyril Connolly, Mr. William Spiers, and Miss Tessa Byrne assist in solo and concerted numbers.

ANCELON-CHAPMAN RECITALS.

To-night in St. James' Hall Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ancelon will give another of their "School of Education" recitals. Mrs. Ancelon will recite a portion of Longfellow's "The Death of Minnehaha" and "Mrs. McSweeney at the Sale." Mr. Ancelon will appear as Sir John Falstaff in scenes from "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and there will be minor items in a bright programme.

PICTURE BLOCK THEATRES.

"The Cowardly Way" will be the principal dramatic subject all next week at the Crystal Palace, and in the supporting programme patrons of this picture house will see Mr. Andrew Fisher, Commonwealth High Commissioner, inspecting troops at Abbey Wood, "Charlie in Cokeland," "Robbing the Fish," and Pathe's English Gazette. A romance of the prize ring will be featured at the Lyric in "The White Hope." In addition all next week the Cyclist Carabiniers of the Belgian Army," and "Its Might of His Right," will be screened. The announced new pictures at the Colonial include a mysterious drama, "Embodied Thought," "The Man with the Missing Finger," "Billie's Revenge," and the Gaumont Graphic. Episodes 7 and 8 of "The Romance of Elaine" are to be shown at the Empress; also "John Bull's Sketch Book," and the Gaumont Graphic. "The Little Doll's Dressmaker" and "Scenes in Eastern Transvaal" are in reserve for Thursday night.

LYCEUM.—TRIANGLE PICTURES.

"The Coward" and "Crooked to the End" were shown for the last time yesterday. This afternoon and to-night patrons of the Lyceum will see two new moving pictures of the Triangle combine. "The Golden Claw" is a drama in five parts. "A Submarine Pirate" is described as a four reel comedy extravaganza in which the story is told of a waiter who stole a submarine. These new features will be kept in the bill all next week. The incidental music at the Lyceum is furnished by De Groen's Vice-regal Orchestra.

WEST'S PICTURES.

There will be afternoon and evening shows to-day at the Glaciarium and Olympia at which the Mexican War Romance will be screened for the last time. Comedy and scenic subjects will also be shown in a programme which includes the Pathe Gazette. The change of films on Monday will bring forth "Sunshine Molly."

WADDINGTON'S THEATRES.

Theda Bara will be seen in the spectacular photo-play version of "Carmen" all next week at the Strand in Pitt-street, opposite Farmer's, and at the Majestic, Liverpool-street, Hyde Park. The Waddington management in addition to presenting "Carmen" announces that war pictures bearing the official stamp of the French Government have arrived in Sydney, and will be screened for the first time at the Globe Theatre on Monday next. These pictures, it is stated, depict scenes in the trenches, the firing of the wonderful 75's, the intrepid airmen, war scenes at night, the auto cannon on the battle front, and the daily life and fighting conditions of the French army.

GRACE BROS.' SCHOLARSHIPS.

In another column reference is made to the free scholarships at the State Conservatorium presented by Messrs. Grace Bros., and to be decided at a series of competitions in the music salon at the Broadway depot, beginning this afternoon. The Minister for Education (Mr. A. Griffith, M.L.A.) has consented to officiate at the opening session. Over 350 entries have been received, and Gustave Slapoffski is to act as adjudicator in the preliminary tests. Tickets can be obtained as notified.

FISK JUBILEE SINGERS AT BONDI.

Under the direction of Edward Branscombe, Pty., Ltd., the Fisk Jubilee Singers will commence a seven nights season at the Coronation Hall, Bondi Junction, this evening. During the season programmes will be changed in their entirety every other evening. Whenever practicable, requests for special numbers will be recognised. Special concession will be allowed schools, choirs, and musical societies, as notified.

MR. WILLIAM HOLMAN'S LECTURE.

Mr. William Holman will give a lecture to students and the public at the Conservatorium Hall on Monday evening, when his illustrations will include "The Message," "The Sailor's Grave," and the "Vicar of Bray," examples of songs without music, Hamlet's "Soliloquy" from the end of Act II., and Hamlet's "Instructions to the Players."

THE WHITE CITY.

The balloon contests at 8.45 in the ballroom are proving a most enjoyable novelty. The winners of contests to date are Miss F. Reynolds and Mr. R. Pearce, Miss McCabe and Mr. W. Rosenthal, Miss Betty Parkes and Mr. M. J. Page, Miss Myra Jones and Mr. A. Rosenthal, Miss May Cousins, and Mr. G. Irving. Winners in any of the fourteen preliminary contests are eligible for the final, for which prizes of £5 each to lady and gentleman winners have been allotted. Alfonso, the intrepid trick cyclist, nightly performs a mid-air somersault at 10 o'clock. Next Wednesday another fancy dress carnival will be held.

SECRET SERVICE WORK.

LONDON, March 23.

The intervention of the King's Proctor in regard to the divorce of Mrs. Eva Black, an Australian, from Horace Black, a company director, owing to alleged misconduct with W. P. De La Force, a mysterious Portuguese Jew, who turned out to be a German spy, has been dismissed.

Mrs. Black stated that she had in her possession for five days what she supposed to be a plan of the latest German aerial shell, but she did not know for what secret service she was working.

Counsel stated that Mrs. Black now said that De La Force belonged to the German secret service.

Mr. Justice Horridge declared that De La Force's connection with some secret service largely explained the position between the parties.

FINANCIAL.

FIGHTING WITH GOLD.

A POWERFUL WEAPON.

PARALYSIS THROUGH ABSENCE.

The war against Germany and her Allies is not being fought with high explosives and bayonets only. That is but one method of offence, of which there are several. The Central Powers are being attacked:—

1. On land through military forces.
2. By sea, when the enemy shows himself.
3. By economic pressure exerted through sea power.
4. Through the financial stringency due to the frightful cost of the war.

In this article the last-named weapon will be discussed to the exclusion of the others:—If the Allies win this war, it will not be through one of the above causes only, but through a combination of all. No matter how brave the German soldier may be, no matter how skilful his officers may prove themselves, they may be beaten by economic pressure, for hunger wears down the most valiant foe, and the army of to-day, like the army of a century ago, lives on its stomach. Or the hosts of the enemy may have to yield because of financial strangulation, and this quite apart from the loss of man power or of food or of munitions of war. War costs money, even to Germany, and paper money may some day fail to stand the strain of tottering credit. Some people think that Germany can fight wholly without money; but on a little reflection this can be seen to be absurd. Possibly Germany, if fighting alone, could do so for some time, if her people continued patriotic enough to accept their Government's "promises to pay" by the million. But Germany is not fighting alone. She must support Austria-Hungary, a country notoriously hard up; Bulgaria, which is ever on the lookout for a complaisant lender; and Turkey, which never was less than bankrupt since her hordes overran the Byzantine Empire more than 600 years ago. Some believe, too, that Germany can fight on quite irrespective of money, because her soldiery get but a few pence a day, and, seeing that they are content with so little, it is argued that they would in a pinch be content with nothing. But this idea of the German Army costing nothing is quite fallacious. It is true that in time of peace the German conscript gets but the price of a couple of glasses of lager beer each day. In time of war, however, when the whole nation is fighting, the wives and families of the warriors have to be kept, and to keep them costs money. The Imperial German Government does not raise war loans running into hundreds of millions sterling for nothing. It does so because the money is urgently needed for the prosecution of the war. That the method of raising loan money in Germany contains an element of unsoundness is another story.

Is financial stringency already affecting Germany, and so rendering her less able to fight? Let us see the evidence:—

Dr. Helfferich, the German Minister for Finance, recently said:—"All the news spread abroad regarding pressure and coercion is fiction. We solely appealed to the financial strength and patriotism of our countrymen. Our success must open the eyes of the world as regards the strength of Germany's financial power and Germany's will.

Dr. Helfferich added:—"England looks for money in America, while Germany finds means for the continuation of the war in her own country, and does not want any outside assistance. This may cause the war to do more harm to Wall-street than to Germany. He who loses the wager is worse off than he who wins the race."

Yet American papers contain large advertisements calling upon all and sundry to subscribe.

Dr. Helfferich says:—"Germany is splendidly placed as regards war loans. This is proved by the rate of exchange (sale price). Germany issued three war loans at the same rate of interest, but an increased price. England was obliged to increase the rate of interest from 3½ to 4½ per cent. England's war loans are badly placed, and their rate of exchange is several points under the rate of issue."

True, British war loans are slightly below par. To-day's cabled price for 4½ per cents. is 96¾. But Britain raised money at 4½ per cent., or less income tax at, say, 3½ per cent., whereas Germany is paying 5½ per cent. without any deduction for income tax.

Germany has just renewed a contract for the supply of a very considerable amount of coal to Switzerland at the same price as before the war, but on condition of being paid in Swiss francs, and not in German marks.

A Swiss banker writes:—"It is certain that this war organisation has preserved amid the German masses unbounded confidence in the issue of the war. On the other hand, this unbounded confidence will not alter the ultimate result, which will be nothing less than national bankruptcy, which must inevitably occur when the 'Imperial War Loan Fund' is called upon to effectively reimburse in cash the great mass of paper money, which represents a fictitious capital."

The Socialists in the Reichstag recently said that it was urgently necessary that the pay of soldiers in the field should be increased to 80 pfennigs (about 10d) a day, and the pay of soldiers in Germany to 50 pfennigs (about 6d) a day. All existing allowances should continue, and the value of the daily ration should be increased to 1 mark 20 pfennigs (about 1/2½) a day.

The Centre Party—whose competition with the Socialists in such proposals is a sure sign that working-class opinion about them is strong—urged that soldiers' pay should be increased by 50 per cent. A Radical Deputy asked why elderly soldiers in the Landsturm should receive only 18/ a month, while young lieutenants received £15.

A [illegible] lady, writing from Berlin about Christmas time, said: "Small change is getting very difficult to obtain in shops, and one is now usually given change in postage stamps. The authorities say that owing to the great extension of German territory there is not enough German coinage to go round, and that is why we must be content with postage stamps. But B—— tells me that it is due to the nickel and copper famine."

The American Association of Commerce and Trade of Berlin, in one of its weekly reports, writes:—"Workmen, servants, and pupils of numerous schools have invested their savings in the third German war loan; savings boxes, stockings and similar antiquated safe deposits were emptied of their contents, and this money, aggregating many millions of non-productive power, is now bearing interest and has become productive."

The obvious comment is that the stockings cannot be emptied twice.

The Zeppelin works at Potsdam compelled their whole staff to subscribe to the German war loan, that is, the management subscribed for the workman and reimbursed itself by weekly deductions from his pay. In this way there are no "objections."

The Chamber of Commerce of Schopfheim invited all the commercial and industrial concerns of the town to contribute to the national loan the sums ordinarily set aside for the purchase of Christmas presents.

The communal authorities of Lichterfeld raised a loan on their own account which is to be invested in the war loan. Each employee of the commune has to subscribe 15 per cent. of his salary.

M.L.C. REPORT.

The report of the Mutual Life and Citizens' Assurance Company, Ltd., covers the 12 months ended December 31 last. It shows some falling-off in new business, which is quite to be expected in these uncertain times. In another respect the report shows signs of the war. There was an increase in claims of £64,792, of which £53,661 was directly attributed to war claims. A more cheerful effect of the war and the consequent hardening of the money market was an advance of 2/5 per cent. in the average rate of interest earned on the company's substantial funds, which do not now fall far short of 10 millions sterling. The curtailment in the new business done has made possible a further reduction in the expense rates a pleasing feature. One of the most cheering facts disclosed is the fact that this institution rose so nobly to its public duty in this hour of crisis and invested no less than 2¼ millions sterling of its funds in the first and second Commonwealth war loans thus proving a shining example for all financial institutions of the Commonwealth. Here is a comparative statement of the new business done in the ordinary branch during the last few years:—

ORDINARY NEW BUSINESS.

	Policies. No.	Amount. £	Annual Premium. £
1915	7,219	1,357,236	42,200
1914	10,619	2,080,049	64,762
1913	11,758	2,306,527	73,042
1912	12,573	2,517,200	77,922
1911	13,543	2,511,886	81,245
1910	13,611	2,701,743	83,315
1909	11,382	2,609,469	79,423
1908	11,425	1,858,294	67,671

Claims on both the ordinary and on the industrial side show increases. The comparison is as follows:—

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

A little business in tapioca and pepper for indent was done yesterday for this month's shipment from Singapore. About 2000 bags of tapioca were brought down by the steamer this week, nearly all sold, with very little pearl. No firm, however, received all the shipments of which it received advice. Attempts to buy pearl tapioca on the local market failed, those who had the little brought down requiring it for their own clients. Local prices were advanced to 28/ for medium pearl and to 27/ for seed. The tapioca and pepper markets in Singapore continue very firm.

Some salmon sold on indent. Corned beef and sheep tongues sold freely. Merriwa canned rabbits were meeting with a better demand. Sales were made to large metropolitan retailers. There was also a demand from Melbourne and Brisbane. Portuguese sardines arrived during the week, and met with a favourable reception. Moderate orders were placed for currants grown by unassociated growers. The price was 6¼d or ¼d below the association rate. It was reported that jammakers were buying currants. The purpose was not known.

At the tea auction out of 730 packages of Ceylon tea submitted 650 were sold. There was good competition, with a steady demand at full rates. All except two lines were disposed of at from 10½d to 12¾d. The two exceptions realised one 8¾d and the other 9¾d.

A strong inquiry existed for whitelead. No Champions was available. American sold at £58. Linseed oil was without alteration, in spite of the fall on the London market. Freight difficulties prevent the local market following the world's price.

Tartaric acid and cream of tartar were fully firm. Caustic soda in some cases was being distributed at £48, or £2 under what parcels sales were made at.

MONDAY'S HOMEBUSH OFFERINGS.

The number of sheep and of cattle listed for sale at the Homebush yards on Monday next is as follows:—

Sheep (including lambs)	20,635
Cattle (including calves)	1,687

The amount of wool which was manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour and suburban stations yesterday was 641 bales.

BREADSTUFFS.

HEAVY STOCKS OF FLOUR.

The big order for flour which was placed with Australia by the Allied Government is almost completed. Millers are now face to face with an abundance of stocks and an almost complete absence of outlet. Everything possible is apparently being done to induce the oversea buyers to operate, but so far without success.

VARYING WHEAT PRICES.

The State Wheat Office announce the following prices for wheat, according to the purposes for which the grain is intended:—

Wheat for export, 5/5 per bushel f.o.b. Sydney.

Wheat or flour for local consumption and for Queensland, 4/9 net in trucks Sydney.

Wheat for flour for Africa, 5/4½ f.o.b. Sydney.

Wheat for flour for the East, 5/ f.o.b. Sydney.

Wheat for flour for elsewhere, 5/3 f.o.b. Sydney.

Wheat for local consumption, 5/3½ on rail.

Flour is quoted at £11/5/ a ton.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 2535 tons of wheat and 283 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

CEREALS.

LONDON, March 23.

The market for wheat is nominal, neither Pacific Coast nor Australian cargoes are offering. Sellers are not able to gauge the position of the trade.

Flour is easier.

Oats are dull. Bahia Blanca on passage are worth 29/3 per quarter of 480lb.

Peas are dull, New Zealand Maples selling at 5/5 to 60/ per quarter of 504lb.

AUSTRALIAN APPLES.

Further c.i.f. sales of Australian apples have been made at 9/ to 10/ per case. There are prospects of the season opening well, though 90,000 bushels of Nova Scotian apples are due to arrive simultaneously with the first Australian apple steamer.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

Butter is dull, high prices checking the demand. There is little Australian butter on spot; choicest is nominally 154/ to 156/, unsalted 156/ to 160/, secondary 148/ to 150/ per cwt.; New Zealand choicest is 158/ to 162/, unsalted 162/ to 164/.

Cheese is unchanged with rather an easier tone, as the delivery is improving. The Government is lending military motor lorries and soldiers to fetch cheese from the docks.

SUGAR.

The sugar market is without change.

BRADFORD TOPS.

There is a moderate inquiry for Bradford tops. Prices are steady and unchanged.

NEW-LAID EGGS MOSTLY 2/.

The bulk of the new-laid eggs received in Sussex-street yesterday were sold at 2/ a dozen. Only one or two lots brought 2/2. On Monday the price will be reduced to 2/ "straight out"—in fact, some of the leading agents were booking the best brands for delivery on Monday at that figure. Case eggs were also weak, but there was no actual movement in quotations. Adelaide eggs were offered on spot for prompt delivery at 1/6.

Cheese was scarce, and some houses were unable to accept all the business offering. No doubt an application for an advance in prices will shortly be lodged with the Necessary Commodities Commission.

River and railway poultry was in good demand, and old hens commanded from 4/6 to 4/9 a pair. Young roosters brought to 6/6. For turkey gobblers 22/ was obtained.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

INDIAN PEAS COMING.

For the second season in succession Tasmanian holders of peas have by the extravagant prices asked been their own undoing. The largest of the Victorian consumers have, according to the "Argus," again been forced to purchase the larger proportion of their requirements from abroad. Holders had learnt that freight from Calcutta was not obtainable until August. Unfortunately for them, and fortunately for Victorian consumers, ample freight became available for March shipment, and all the necessary peas will be in Melbourne in about six weeks' time. If the Tasmanian crop is as light as the price asked would indicate, the importations from India and Japan will be of material advantage in relieving the situation, but if otherwise a decline in Tasmanian ideas of value is to be looked for.

There was no movement in prices on spot.

Quotations were:—

RAILWAY MARKET.

STEADY SALES.

CHAFF SUPPLIES SHORTER.

A shorter manifest and yarding was again in evidence at the Redfern sales yesterday, the yarding comprising only 47 trucks altogether—which represents about one-half of recent figures. Wheaten chaff as usual constituted the bulk of offerings, but lucerne also was prominent along the line. Buyers were in smaller attendance than usual, and demand was not as strong as might have been expected. The quality in the chaff section was mainly good, with a small sprinkling of medium class; and this commodity was worth 3/10 to 4/6 per cwt.

Oaten chaff was mostly of wholesome quality, and prices were 4/ to 4/5 per cwt.

Lucerne hay made a good showing of quality, both in large and small bale lots, but buyers were shy at fancy prices, and on that account no exceptional rates were obtainable at auction. Only large bale lots were sold at auction, and realised 4/7 to 4/10 per cwt. Lucerne chaff made to 6/ per cwt, and dust at auction to 8/3 per cwt. No demand existed for hays or straws, otherwise than lucerne.

A good representation of buyers patronised the sales in the potato section, and firm rates were realised. Fresh Satisfactions moved out at 9/9, and Brownells at 9/ per cwt.

Trucks in position comprised 42 trucks of hay, straw, and chaff, 2 of grain, and 3 of vegetables. Outstandings were listed at 56 of forage, 10 of grain, and 7 of vegetables.

The following business was transacted:—

VEGETABLE MARKET.

POTATOES WEAKER.

PEAS FROM TASMANIA.

Good supplies of all seasonable household vegetables were floored at the city vegetable markets, and brisk trade was experienced in most lines. A limited supply of cabbages, mostly prime, was responsible for stability in that line, and although a marked inquiry existed the supply was adequate, and prices remained firm without readjustments. Reports that a load of peas from Tasmania were approaching seemed to weaken the values for these, but choice green peas were still on firm prices. Beans were a shade higher in response to good requests. Pickling cabbages were scarce, and were selling from 6/ downwards; and water melons, owing to the cool weather, were hardly moving at all.

Potatoes were a shade easier, but onions and Swedes remain firm, save for white onions, which were mostly sprouting. Rates were otherwise unchanged, and quotations were:—

Cabbages, local, very choice, to 4/6, prime 2/6 to 3/, medium 1/6 to 2/, small /6 to 1/. Lettuce to 1/6 per dozen.

MINING.

ALL-ROUND ACTIVITY.

VALUES GENERALLY STEADY.

BARRIERS MOSTLY FAVOURED.

There was no doubt about the character of the market yesterday. It showed itself in a big turnover of business, all sections being represented. Barrier stocks, followed by tin and gold stocks, made practically a dead-heat for second place, with copper propositions a good third.

Neither was there any doubt as to the strength of the market. Values all along the line were either on the steady or firm side. True, there were a few ups and downs, but up to the close of "High 'Change," no stock lost the improved position it had reached on the previous day. In other words, it was a "bull" market, with attention liberally paid to all sections, but more particularly to Barriers and Eastern tin propositions.

Despite the vigour of the morning, the speculative energy of the market was by no means exhausted. Indeed, it was a disputable point as to whether or not the number of shares that changed hands was not even larger than in the morning. At all events, values were not only well maintained, but in the case of Edna May Deep, the scrip made a better recovery, especially on the mine manager telegraphing:—"Beating water rapidly. Expect to get hole plugged to-morrow." Whereupon the "shorts" looked glum, and the "longs" happy.

But, taken altogether, the market was in a cheery mood altogether, right up to the time the Post Office clock chimed 6 o'clock, and thereby closed a record that has not been equalled for many a long day for activity and strength.

SOUTH COAST MINES.

CLIFTON, Friday.

After being idle for a week the South Clifton and South Clifton new tunnel resumed work on Wednesday, the men returning to work pending a conference. Coal Sea Cliff colliery has full time for the pay distributed to-day, one pair of men getting £34/5/4, and several other pairs over £30. North Bulli ten days, South Clifton and Tunnel five days each.

The different coke works are at high pressure to meet demands for coke. There is plenty of room for wheelers at the several collieries, and one colliery, in order to induce men, propose putting wheelers on tonnage, which is supposed to be preferable to those so employed.

BULLI, Friday.

All the South Coast miners receive their fortnightly pay to-day, and during this period what with the slackness of trade that is being felt in the district generally, due to the inability to secure ships for transport trade, coupled with grievances at some of the collieries, the wages to be distributed throughout the district will be much below the average. The loss will be keenly felt in commercial circles generally. The Woonona mine, which employs about 80 men, has been closed down for an indefinite period owing to slackness of trade, and will only have five days' pay to draw. Corrimal and Coledale mines and Bulli have full time, viz., 10 days. The Excelsior mine has seven days. Nearly 50 men have been dismissed from the old tunnel on account of meeting with a seam containing some cinder, but the new tunnel is being rapidly developed, some additional machinery having been recently installed to increase the output, which is showing a seam of excellent quality. The Scarborough tunnel and South Clifton mines will have about four days' pay to draw on account of a trouble over the cavil. The coke trade is working at full time, all available ovens being in operation to meet the demand.

FAIR RENTS COURT.

EFFECT OF NOTICE TO QUIT.

If a tenant makes an application to the Fair Rents Court after having received from the landlord a notice to quit, the Court must strike out the application.

This decision was given yesterday by Mr. Jamieson, S.M., in the matter of the application made by Joseph Preston, of 6 Spring-street, Paddington, for determination of the rent of the house he occupies. Mr. Morgan, on behalf of the landlord, H. Zions, of 255 Oxford-street, Paddington, brought evidence to show that the tenant received notice to quit five days before he lodged his application.

The magistrate said that, in such circumstances, no application could be considered, and it was struck out.

The application of Arthur Walter Murray, of Melrose, Walter-street, Waverley, for determination of rent, which had been adjourned to give the agent of the landlady, Miss Russell, of Cook-road, Centennial Park, an opportunity of showing that an increase in the rate of interest sought was justified, was again considered. No further evidence being offered, the magistrate reduced the rent for 12 months from 16s to 15s per week. The house contains three rooms and a kitchen, and has a frontage of about 15ft.

MR. HUGHES'S MISSION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—A question was asked in our State Parliament last night by Mr. Lang, M.L.A., re the extension of the Prime Minister's stay in England. Mr. Lang's evident desire is one that is very prevalent. The good work Mr. Hughes is doing so well should be finished to his satisfaction, and as time is essential to its completion, that should certainly be given him. May I suggest in view of Mr. Holman's reply to Mr. Lang, that the two parties constituting the Federal Parliament make a joint request through their respective leaders, on mutual grounds, to Mr. Hughes to stay longer if it will serve his purpose to do so. Such a request would meet with hearty approval from large numbers, if not all, of our citizens, and would evoke a much greater interest in his doings, and be hailed with delight by the British public.

I am etc.,

March 24. SAMUEL E. LEES.

THE LABOUR PARTY AND SIX O'CLOCK CLOSING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

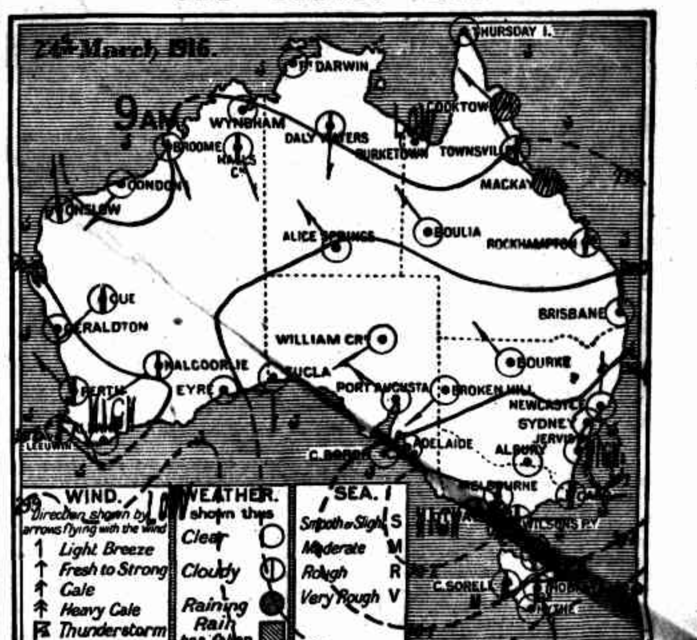
Sir,—In a subleader in your issue of to-day you say:—"Supporters of the Labour party have no difficulty in endorsing the six o'clock experiment because it is a plank in their platform, etc." This is an error. A snap vote taken at the conference of the Labour party last year—when most of the country delegates to the conference had left—resulted in a proposal to close hotels at 6 o'clock being carried by a narrow majority; but there were not sufficient votes recorded to permit of the resolution being made a plank in the platform of the party. There is nothing in the Labour party's platform as to the hour of closing hotels.

I am, etc.,

March 24. P.L.L. MEMBER.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The high pressure, or fine weather system, still holds sway over the whole of the continent; some cloud is showing in Western Australia and on the Queensland coast; but otherwise clear skies are the ruling feature. The high pressure has two small centres; one is situated between Sydney and Newcastle, and the other between Melbourne and Cape Northumberland.

A new Antarctic disturbance has made its appearance to the south of the Leeuwin, and another high is showing on the west coast of Western Australia, while a "col," or area of flat barometric conditions between two "highs," exists over that State, and has resulted in some cloud formation.

A rather energetic Antarctic disturbance is at present operating over New Zealand.

Fine weather, with pleasant temperatures, and land and sea breeze, are the prospects for the immediate future.

Ocean Forecast.—Smooth to moderate; fresh south-east on parts of the Queensland coast; fogs in Bass Strait.

ENEMY SHAREHOLDERS.

EXISTING REGULATIONS CONSOLIDATED.

NO EXTENSIONS GRANTED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

At a meeting of the Federal Executive Council, held to-day, the regulations recently made under the War Precautions Act, which deal with enemy shareholders and shareholders of enemy origin, were repealed and superseded by new regulations, which consolidate the existing regulations.

The Acting Attorney-General (Mr. Mahon) explained briefly the effect of the proposed amendments. "Doubt having arisen in the minds of some people whether the regulations applied to the London register of Australian companies, the regulations," he said, "have been amended to make it clear that they do."

Continuing, he said:—"Discretion is given to the Attorney-General to apply the regulations to any person whose father was or is an enemy subject or naturalised person of enemy origin if the Attorney-General is satisfied that the person is disloyal or that there is good reason why the regulations should apply to him. Previously the regulations could only be applied where such a person was disloyal. In the case of a person holding shares jointly with an enemy subject or a naturalised person of enemy origin, the enemy interest is to be transferred. As regards beneficiaries who are enemy subjects or naturalised persons of enemy origin the trustee of the estate is required to transfer the shares to the Public Trustee unless, in the case of naturalised persons of enemy origin, the Attorney-General grants exemption from the provisions of the regulations. Unregistered transfers of shares which purport to have been made before January 29, 1916, and to which enemy subjects or naturalised persons of enemy origin are parties, are not to be deemed to have been made before that date, unless the Attorney-General or the chairman of the Stock Exchange of the capital of the State in which the company is incorporated is satisfied that they were so transferred, and issued a certificate to that effect."

"By a further regulation it is provided," went on Mr. Mahon, "that where shares which are security for an advance by any banking or other company have been transferred to the Public Trustee the rights of the persons making the advance are protected, and at the request of the company the shares will be sold and the advance liquidated. Where enemy subjects or naturalised persons who have not been exempted fail to transfer their shares the Attorney-General may do so by an order in writing. Any such order will be published in the 'Gazette' and on its publication the shares vest automatically in the Public Trustee; and any person holding scrip representing the shares affected is required to deliver it to the Attorney-General. The vesting by order of the Minister does not, of course, affect the liability of the shareholder to be proceeded against for having failed to comply with the regulations requiring him to transfer his shares. As to dividends on shares held by naturalised persons, the regulations provide that after April 15 they cannot be paid to the naturalised person unless he has been granted exemption. The provisions regarding dividends on shares transferred to the Public Trustee, or held by enemy subjects have not been altered. The transfers of shares to the Public Trustee does not affect the liability of the transferor for calls falling due on the shares, but the Public Trustee, if he has sufficient funds in hand, may, if he thinks fit, pay the calls or sell some shares and pay them. Power is taken to grant an exemption as regards particular shares held by a naturalised person of enemy origin, and to grant exemption to particular companies, such as co-operative companies. Any exemption may be revoked. The time within which companies have to file returns showing enemy subjects and naturalised persons who are shareholders has been extended. Previously it was to expire on April 8 unless in any particular case the Attorney-General granted an extension. On application made in writing under the new regulations, the time expires on April 30 in the case of the Australian registers of Australian companies, and May 31 in the cases of shareholders on the London register. No provision is made for extension.

"The most important alteration is as regards the duty of naturalised persons of enemy origin. Previously the regulations provided that unless they were granted exemption before April 15 they must transfer their shares on that date. The new regulations provide that before that date they must either transfer their shares or apply for exemption. If exemption is refused the shares must be transferred within two days of the receipt by the shareholders of a notification of such refusal.

Mr. Mahon added that in view of these regulations all applications for exemption must reach him on or before April 15.

If a naturalised person did not either transfer his shares or apply for exemption before that date he would have committed a contravention of the regulations. Although the new regulations have been renumbered, the forms circulated under the old regulations may continue to be used as if the new regulations had not been made.

THE 50,000.

WHAT AUSTRALIA OFFERED.

MINISTER EXPLAINS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

"There is no necessity for any comment on Mr. Frank Clarke's resignation from the State Parliamentary Recruiting Committee," said the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) today. "The question of his duty is a personal matter. I do object however, to his cutting a statement in two and leaving out the essential part in order to justify his action. I refer to the fact that he relies solely on the last sentence of the Prime Minister's offer to Great Britain, and leaves out the essential part, which is the promise to raise an additional 50,000 men for active service. I also think it very unfortunate that he should use the words 'juggling the figures.' There is no desire to juggle with figures or to explain away anything. It is merely a statement of fact. As regards the total of 209,000 used in my statement, that does not represent the total number of men that will be available in June, but the total that will have been sent away by then. The figures following immediately after show that we already have 240,000 men available. There are 65,000 men in the camps to-day, and if recruiting keeps up, as I believe it will, there will be 60,000 in the camps by June. Therefore, as to the number available we must add 60,000 to 209,000, so that if there has been any juggling it has apparently been Mr. Clarke's 'juggling.'"

WAR PRECAUTIONS.

NEW REGULATIONS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The "Commonwealth Gazette," issued to-day, notifies the adoption of several new regulations under the War Precautions Act.

A prohibition is issued against any person photographing naval or military works within the Commonwealth. Telephone conversations in any language but English is prohibited, and an offence against this regulation will involve the immediate removal of the offender's telephone, in addition to the imposition of the penalties provided in the War Precautions Act.

The escape of a number of interned aliens and prisoners of war has rendered it necessary to adopt a special regulation, making it an offence for any person to assist in such an escape. Transmission by post or otherwise, to an interned person, of money, valuable security, or any articles likely to assist in his escape, or to interfere in any way with the discipline or administration of places of detention, will be regarded as an offence against the regulations, and will be punished as such.

DO YOU WISH TO WIN
YOUR SHARE?

TO INTRODUCE "GRAFIK," the New and Wonderful British Shorthand System, to the public of Australia, we have decided to do so in a way that will help and be appreciated by the many in preference to the usual method of advertising in newspapers, which, naturally, can only help, comparatively, the few.

After much consideration we have decided to offer for Open Competition 1050 Tuition Scholarships, as per particulars below, worth in the aggregate, without the positions also offered as per schedule appended, £5000. Everyone can enter, there are no Entrance Fees, and No Money Must be Sent under any consideration.

ALL YOU HAVE TO DO, Send in an Essay of not more than 500 words, expressing in your own words what you consider are the advantages of a Modern Shorthand that is so simple, so Up-to-date in ideas and construction, that it can be LEARNT IN FIVE SHORT LESSONS. Write on one side of the paper. Address to Manager, London Correspondence College, as per address below, and put the word "Essay" in the top left-hand corner of the envelope. Name and address of entrant must appear clearly written on top of first sheet of Essay. So that you may have some data, i.e., details of the Shorthand for building up your Essay, send a letter-card immediately for our Handsome Free Booklet, which fully describes the Shorthand and contains all the particulars required for the Essay. In fact, a special lesson is also included in the booklet, so that prospective Essayists have every chance.

To give every entrant a fair chance, we have divided the Scholarships into Three Classes:—

A.—For Girls and Boys under 16.

B.—For Girls and Boys under 21.

C.—For Adults over 21.

Entrants must be careful, therefore, to mark their Essays boldly with their Class letter. They must also note that they enter on the distinct understanding that the decision of the Principal of the College is to be taken as Final.

The Names or Nom-de-plumes with full addresses of the successful entrants will be published in this paper on April 15th. All Essays must be sent in not later than April 8, but do not leave your effort to the last moment.

SCHOLARSHIP LIST.

THE POSITIONS ARE:—

WHAT WOULD YOU THINK OF A MAN WHO WENT INTO BATTLE
UNARMED AND UNTRAINED?

Whatever your thoughts were, you would certainly say that he was a very foolish man. His chances of success would be so small that you would be justified in assuming that failure was certain.

But have you ever thought that life is a battle for all of us? We owe it to ourselves to carry the best weapons possible, and to know how to use them. Training is absolutely essential if we are to succeed, for then, at least, well armed and well trained, the chances of victory are all in our favour. To fight your battle with the world you need to be armed with knowledge, and trained to apply that knowledge.

STOTT AND HOARE'S BUSINESS COLLEGE CAN ARM YOU WITH KNOWLEDGE, AND TRAIN YOU TO GAIN THE VICTORY.

Countless numbers of men and women have fought their way to prosperity and happiness because they first came to us to be armed and well prepared for the battle of life.

If you really want to make the most of yourself, investigate our business training methods. We have over 300 Courses of Instruction, so that no matter what the position for which you wish to qualify, we can arm you with helpful knowledge.

The following are some of the subjects included in our Courses of Instruction:—

Shorthand,	Geometry,
Typewriting,	Trigonometry,
Bookkeeping,	Elementary Science,
Accountancy,	History and Geography,
English,	Surveying,
Penmanship,	Electrical Engineering,
Arithmetic,	Mechanical Engineering,
Correspondence,	Draftsmanship,
Latin,	Freehand Drawing,
Greek,	Pen and Ink Drawing,
French,	Illustrating,
German,	Designing,
Algebra,	Poster Drawing.

PERSONAL OR POSTAL TUITION,
DAY AND EVENING CLASSES.

This is the largest and most successful Business Training College in the Commonwealth. Our training methods are practical and efficient—they give maximum results to earnest students. Let us tell you just how we have started a host of others on the upward path, and how rapidly they have risen.

If you are willing to give your mind to the study of some salary-raising subject—our training will assist you. Call and talk over the matter with our Principal, Mr. G. H. Rose, B.A., or write us for further information.

Indicate the subject in which you are interested, and we will forward descriptive pamphlet and schedule of fees.

The world will be a happier place for you if you are armed and trained to win success.

HIGH-CLASS TAILORING

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

IS A SPECIAL FEATURE

AT THE BLOCK CORNER.

The Waters Tailoring has gained a reputation amongst men who are particular about their clothes for excellence of fit and design. This is due to the care which is given to every order, as we recognise that the best advertisement is the spoken one.

A Waters-made Suit gives the well-dressed effect—it looks good, and it is good—there is no skimping of material, of skill, of workmanship, in the making of Waters' Suits—they are high grade throughout.

Don't be satisfied with a suit that fits you anyhow. You may as well be as well-dressed as the other man—probably your Suit has cost you just the same as the one which, if made by us, will look twice as well.

Every Order is made wholly in our own Workrooms, by our skilled workers, under expert supervision from the time the material is cut until the Suit is pressed ready for delivery, consequently there is no skimping of work—you get as near perfection as it is possible to give.

There is Only three weeks left before Easter, better call and see our Cutter this morning about your suit, if you leave it until too late you may be disappointed.

SATISFACTION OR MONEY BACK

IS OUR MOTTO.

We guarantee to please you: if not we will refund your money, so that you take no risk when you order a Suit at the Block Corner.

Suits to Order, 70/, 75/, 84/, 90/, 5 gns.

FARMER'S,
SYDNEY,
1840-1916.
Seventy-six Years.

THIS IS "CHILDREN'S MORNING" AT FARMER'S.

Years ago Farmers inaugurated the idea of devoting Saturday morning to the Children's needs.
To-day it is an established institution, copied far and wide.
Saturday morning sees parents, with the children, thronging those departments wherein the boys and girls are outfitted, and the reader is invited to accept this special morning as "her children's morning."
The Standard Qualities are attractions as great as the Economical Prices. The stock is always at its best for this last day of the week. And special attention is possible for those who call to-day.

THE SCHOLARSHIPS COMPETITION will be opened by the Minister for Education (Hon. A. Griffith, M.L.A.), in the Music Salon at "THE MODEL STORE" at 3 p.m. on Monday, 27th March, 1916.

Gustave Slapoffski, who is well known in Australian Musical circles, will act as the Adjudicator in the preliminary tests. Final tests to be under the supervision of Henri Verbrugghen.

Over 350 pupils of various teachers of Music from all parts of New South Wales have entered for these Competitions.

On account of the large number of entries received, Sessions will be held morning and afternoon, and also on Friday evenings until further notice. The following are the hours for each Session.
Morning Sessions, 11.30 to 12.30 p.m.
Afternoon Sessions, 2.30 to 5 o'clock.
Friday Evening Sessions, 8 o'clock to 9 o'clock.

GRACE BROS. extend to all a cordial invitation to pay a visit to "THE MODEL STORE" while these Competitions are on.

We have no hesitation in saying that the quality of the Compositions chosen by competitors will come as a distinct surprise, even to those who have followed closely the trend of Musical affairs in N.S.W.

As to the competitors, many of them are Prize-winners at large Competitions throughout the State, and a Programme of a high standard of excellence is assured at every Session.

TICKETS OF ADMISSION may be obtained at the Music Salon (2nd Floor), BROADWAY BUILDING.
Children in arms not admitted.
Seats may be reserved two days before each Session. Plan now open at "THE MODEL STORE."

In order to place before visitors a varied Programme the usual method at Competitions has been departed from. At every Session, SINGING, VIOLIN, and PIANO Numbers have been pleasantly intermingled.

READ THE REASON WHY YOU CANNOT SUCCEED TO REMOVE YOUR

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR GROWTH

by any chemical application, which will penetrate deeply to destroy the hair papilla, and must of necessity destroy the skin as well. But, if this be not destroyed

THE HAIR IS BOUND TO GROW AGAIN.

THE WRONG METHODS

employed for removing Superfluous Hairs have a double effect—THEY STIMULATE the growth of the offending hairs, making it increase in size and depth of root, and they irritate the skin. The following are the principal wrong methods always to be avoided and advised against:—

USE OF FORCEPS, PUMISTONE, THE RAZOR, CAUSTICS THAT SHAVE CLOSER THAN A RAZOR, SINGEING OFF BY CANDLE.

WHOLESALE DEPILATION BY ADHESIVE PLASTERS OR WAX.

All of these are painful, and of no permanent value. THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY PERMANENT, and that way I will demonstrate to you if you will call upon me when in town, and you can have, a few hairs removed to convince yourself. Then wait a few weeks to see there is not any re-growth.

FREE OF CHARGE,

MOLES CONTAINING HAIRS

CAN BE REMOVED IN ONE TREATMENT IF DESIRED WITHOUT PAIN.

FACE MASSAGE A SPECIALTY.

I give my personal attention to every Lady, and every privacy is also given. Each Lady has a separate room.

THE IDEAL SET

FOR ONE GUINEA.

"Don't judge this set by the price. My Upper or Lower Sets, ONE GUINEA EACH, give better satisfaction than many other Dentists' sets at three times the price."

"If you are pressed for time, I can fit you with a good Set of Teeth in ONE DAY."

"Call and see the Patent Suction Plates, £3 3s each set. NO CHARGE for painless extractions when this set is ordered."

"ALL WORK GUARANTEED."
